Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts

ROY O. GULLEY DIRECTOR SUPREME COURT BUILDING SPRINGFIELD 62706

30 North Michigan Avenue Chicago 60602

To the Honorable Chief Justice and Justices of the Supreme Court:

I tender herewith the report of my administration as Director of the Courts of the State for the calendar year 1969, together with the statistical report for all courts of the state.

One of the important accomplishments in 1969 was the restructuring of the Administrative Office. Carl H. Rolewick and William M. Madden were elevated to the position of deputy directors, and Dennis M. Dohm and Jerry B. Gott were employed as assistant directors in the office. Mr. Dohm is a lawyer and is located in the Chicago office and Mr. Gott is a former circuit clerk who headquarters in Springfield, and is in charge of the installation of the uniform record keeping system in the downstate counties. The addition of these two professional positions gives us much more flexibility in the operation of the office. I hope to add a public information officer to the staff in 1970 and an additional lawyer in the Springfield office in 1971.

This is a factual report of how the Judicial System in Illinois operated in 1969.

Respectfully,

Roy d Gullev

TO: The Honorable Chief Justice and Justices of the Supreme Court of Illinois

The Annual Report of the Administrative Office is a permanent record of judicial developments occurring during the year. Subject matter covered includes an account of the activities of this office, and other matters covering judicial developments in the State of Illinois for the year 1969.

Distribution of this report continues to increase every year. In addition to copies being sent to judges, clerks of the courts, legislators, lawyers and elected state officials, requests for this document arrive annually from court administrators nationwide. Law schools, citizens' groups, the news media and other interested parties also receive copies. Public libraries maintain files of judicial annual reports for research and study by students.

LEGISLATION AFFECTING COURTS 1969

The 76th General Assembly convened on January 8, 1969 and passed the following legislation affecting the courts.

SB 299. Amends Act concerning jurors. Provides for random selection of names for jury list. Removes juror qualifications relating to character, integrity, judgment and information. Provides for challenge as to compliance.

SB 300. Amends and adds to Act relating to jury commissioners and repeals section thereof. Provides for random selection of names for general jury list. Deletes recording of occupation and status as householder or freeholder. Provides for challenge as to compliance. Makes other nonsubstantive changes.

SB 491. Amends the Local Records Act. Provides that Court Records are to be destroyed in accordance with the Supreme Court's General Administrative Order on Record keeping in the Circuit Courts but allows Local Record Commission to copy or save records.

HB 223. Amends Act to establish appellate court. Provides for 3 additional appellate court judges in the first judicial district, to be elected in 1970.

HB 282. Amends Court Reporters Act by increasing from $9,000 to $11,500 per year the amount which may be paid to full-time court reporters and by increasing from $18 to $24 per half-day the maximum amount to part-time court reporters.

HB 785. Amends Code of Criminal Procedure. Deletes the provision that the case must be extraordinary in order that a defendant have counsel appointed for him. Requires only a verified statement of services be submitted for counsel to secure payment.

HB 786. Amends Code of Criminal Procedure. Deletes from the definition of an offense the provision that a penal ordinance of a political subdivision is an offense.

HB 1240. Amends the Pension Code. Provides pension credit in judges Retirement System for service rendered as a justice of the peace or police magistrate prior to January 1, 1964, if no pension credit for such service has been provided in any other retirement system in the State. Prescribes contributions to be made for such service.

HB 1048. Amends the Court Reporters Act. The Supreme Court may permit the Chief Judge of a circuit embracing over 3,000,000 people to appoint certain specified administrators and staff for the court reporting service. A salary ceiling is set, and an appropriation is made.

HB 1618. Makes an appropriation of $50,000 to the Secretary of State for microfilming records specified by the Supreme Court.

HB 1883. Amends Act concerning jurors. Provides that members of grand juries are to be selected at random from jury lists.

HB 1912. Amends Act relating to fees and salaries. Revises salary schedule for judges and magistrates. Salaries of Supreme Court increased from $37,500 to $40,000, Appellate Court $35,000 to $37,500, Circuit Court $23,500 to $27,500, Associate Circuit $20,000 to $25,000 and Magistrates $15,000 to $18,500. All judges from Cook County receive in addition a supplement of $7,500 and $4,500 to Magistrates.

HB 2064. Amends Act relating to the circuit courts. Increases population requirements from 20,000 to 25,000 in counties having a State Institution providing education or welfare facilities before additional circuit judge can be elected.

HB 2078. Creates a new Act requiring a "judicial note" on all bills changing the number of judges or magistrates. Sets forth procedure for securing judicial notes.

HB 2207. Amends Fees and Salaries Act and repeals a Section thereof. Revises schedule of fees of clerks of the circuit courts in counties of the first and second class.

HB 2209. Amends Fees and Salaries Act. Revises schedule of fees of clerks of the circuit court in counties of the third class.

HB 2753. Amends Act relating to circuit courts. Provides that in circuits other than Cook County with a population of 310,000 or more, in addition to the 4 circuit judges now provided for, one additional circuit judge shall be elected for each 40,000 population in excess of 270,000.

SB 096. Appropriates $42,000 to the Supreme Court for the salary increases of administrative secretaries to chief judges of the circuit courts in accordance with Senate Bill 995 of the 75th General Assembly. Emergency.

SB 224. Amends Article of Illinois Pension Code relating to Judges Retirement. Gives the court administrator the status of a judge for purposes of the system.

SB 234. Amends Pension Code. Establishes eligibility of a widow without minor children to a widow's annuity beginning at age 50 on a discounted basis; creates a post-retirement increase in retirement annuity for Judges retiring after the effective date of the bill; and increases from that may be acquired by the board.

HB 113. Adds section to Act relating to compensation of judges of Appellate Court during a period of vacancy. Provides that a circuit judge who is temporarily relieved of circuit court duties and assigned to the Appellate Court shall be paid for such temporary service an additional amount equal to the difference between the salary of an Appellate Court judge and his salary as a circuit judge. Amends title of Act to include content of new section.

JUDICIAL RETIREMENT AND CHANGES

Significant changes resulted in all levels of the state's judiciary during 1969 by reason of resignations, deaths, and new legislation resulting in an increase of 3 judges for the 1st District Appellate Court and additional judicial manpower authorized for 2 Circuits.

Supreme Court Justices Roy J. Solfisburg and Ray I. Klingbiel submitted their resignations on August 2, 1969 after a hearing was conducted by a special committee created by the Illinois Supreme Court. The court on its own motion appointed a Special Commission on June 17, 1969 to investigate the integrity of the court's decision in case 39797, People vs. Isaacs.

A third vacancy occurred on the court with the untimely death of Justice Byron O. House who died after a brief illness on September 27, 1969.

The resulting three vacancies left the court facing severe handicaps which threatened the court's performance of its duties and the possibility of a complete stoppage of its work.

In order to function effectively without any delay, the remaining four members of the court during October 1969 recalled to active duty three retired Illinois judges to serve on the court by assignment.

The new Justices, Caswell J. Crebs, John T. Culbertson, Jr. and Marvin Burt were to serve until following the next general election in November 1970 at which time the vacancies would be filled.

Resignations were accepted by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court from the following named judges during 1969:

Associate Judges

Lan Haney—1st Circuit, July 2, 1969 Dan B. Withers, Jr.—16th Circuit, April 30, 1969

Magistrates

Gilbert Ellsworth—17th Circuit, January 13, 1969 Charles C. McBrian—7th Circuit, February 28, 1969 Ben F. Railsback—10th Circuit, May 31, 1969 Henry W. Sakawich—Cook County, November 30, 1969 Peter F. Swier—12th Circuit, March 1, 1969 Ray E. Wesner—2nd Circuit, December 29, 1969

JUDICIARY ACTIVITIES

Supreme Court

The Honorable Robert C. Underwood began serving as Chief Justice on August 2, 1969, after the resignation of Justice Roy J. Solfisburg.

In 1969 the Supreme Court rendered full opinions on 232 cases, disposed of 70 petitions for rehearing, 348 petitions for leave to appeal and 972 motions of various other types; motions presented to individual justices not included.

The court continued to carry an ever-increasing caseload in addition to its administrative responsibility and duties. Constitutional responsibility for the administration of all Illinois Courts is charged to the Supreme Court and to be exercised through the Chief Justice. He is aided in supervisory control by the Administrative Director and staff.

Members of the court in addition to carrying out their opinion writing duties and the hearing of emergency motions, continued to give of their valuable time addressing civic groups, bar associations and law schools.

Budgetary responsibilities for the year 1969 were shifted to the Director of the Administrative Office to handle on behalf of the court. The Director presented the proposed budget to the legislature after conferences with the court.

A new code of ethics and regulations for Illinois judges was submitted to the Supreme Court for adoption on December 4, 1969 by the Committee on Judicial Ethics appointed by the court in early September.

After the committee's appointment it began holding regular weekly meetings, and by conscientious efforts were able to complete their important work in less than three months.

Chairmanship of the seven man committee was delegated to the dean of the University of Illinois Law School. Membership consisted of representatives of the judiciary and the Chicago and Illinois bar associations.

The committee recommendations were described by its members as the most comprehensive and stringent proposed for any judicial system in the United States.

Under the proposed rules, violations of standards of judicial conduct shall be subject to disciplinary action by the Illinois Courts Commission. The commission power was broadened to include the issuance of reprimands, in addition to its present authority to suspend, retire or remove from office.

For the first time in Illinois, judges would be prohibited from:

- (1) Engaging in the active management of any business or serving as an officer or director of a forprofit corporation.
- (2) Accepting any duties or obligations that would interfere with the performance of their judicial duties.

- (3) Allowing the use of their names or the prestige of their office to contribute to the success of any business or charitable cause.
- (4) Accepting compensation for any services other than for their judicial duties.

The proposed rules continue the requirement of a sealed declaration of economic interest, and add the requirement of an unsealed verified written list of corporations or business in which a judge or member of his immediate family have a financial interest.

The Appellate Court

The Illinois Appellate Court is composed of judges elected from the five Judicial Districts from which members of the Supreme Court are also elected. Each district embraces one or more Judicial Circuits; cases appealed from the circuit courts to the Appellate Court are filed in the Appellate Court of the Judicial District in which the Circuit Court is situated.

The five Judicial Districts consist of the following Judicial Circuits:

- First Judicial District: Cook County Judicial Circuit;
- Second Judicial District: 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, and 19th Judicial Circuits;
- Third Judicial District: 9th, 10th, 12th, 13th, and 14th Judicial Circuits;
- Fourth Judicial District: 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, and 11th Judicial Circuits;
- Fifth Judicial District: 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 20th Judicial Circuits.

The Appellate Court sits in divisions of three judges. In the First District, there are four divisions which sit in the City of Chicago; in the Second District, one division, which sits in the City of Elgin; in the Third District, one division, which sits in the City of Ottawa; in the Fourth District, one division, which sits in the City of Springfield; and in the Fifth District, one division, which sits in the City of Mount Vernon.

The Appellate Court judges continue to dispose of more cases. Caseloads continue to be heavier, since filings continue to increase. The Appellate Court in the First District disposed of about 10% more cases in 1969 than in 1968, yet the number of cases filed in 1969 was up more than 10% the number filed in 1968.

Cognizant of the need for more judges, the General Assembly authorized another division in the First District, to be elected at the general election in November 1970. The Supreme Court, through its Chief Justice, assigned circuit judges Daniel J. McNamara and Glenn K. Seidenfeld to the First District and Secord District Appellate Courts, respectively, to assist with the workload. In July 1969, circuit judge George N. Leighton was additionally assigned to the First District when Judge McNamara was reassigned to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Arthur A. Sullivan.

In addition to the assignments of Judges McNamara, Seidenfeld and Leighton, forty-six circuit judges were assigned to the Appellate Court and/or Appellate Court judges were assigned to another district. Many of the Appellate Court Judges in the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Districts heard and wrote opinions on cases arising in the First District, to help relieve that district of its pressing pending caseload.

Circuit Courts

The authority of judicial assignability between circuits materially aided in combating manpower shortages during the past year. This function is performed by the Administrative Director acting on behalf of the Chief Justice. The increasing use of assignment power granted under the Judicial Article has resulted in a more efficient utilization of the judiciary in Illinois. In addition to alleviating temporary shortages of judges, caused by increased caseloads or vacancies, it provides an opportunity for judges to broaden their judicial experience in various specialized trial calls.

During 1969, 52 circuit and associate judges were assigned to Cook County for a total of 905 days. In addition, 29 magistrates were assigned for a total of 342 days. Assignments in the 20 circuits outside of Cook County totaled 661 days for 45 circuit or associate judges and 4 days involving 2 magistrates.

The continuing need for a method of filling judicial vacancies was again experienced during the year. Vacancies may exist for almost as long as 2 years before being filled at partian elections.

Judges assigned from downstate conducted jury trials during the summer of 1969 to allow Cook County judges to again carry on their massive summer pretrial program. This program executed by the court with the cooperation of insurance companies and members of the plaintiff and defense bar has proven to be an effective method of case disposition during the summer months. It has consistently enabled the Circuit Court of Cook County to make inroads on the personal injury backlog of cases during a normally non-productive time of the year.

On January 11, 1969 Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro announced he would fill by appointment, under authority granted by the legislature, eleven existing judicial vacancies. With 2 days left in his term, the Governor administered the oath of office to the eleven as one of his last official acts. The newly elected Attorney General after assuming office on January 13, 1969 filed suit in the Supreme Court challenging the constitutionality of the appointments. A preliminary order was entered on January 15 by the court preventing the appointees from performing judicial duties until the case was decided. On January 28, 15 days after the complaint was filed, the Illinois Supreme Court ruled the statute and appointments were unconstitutional.

COURTS COMMISSION

Subjected to continuing unwarranted criticism, the Illinois Courts Commission during 1969 nevertheless proved to be an effective method of investigating complaints and disciplining judges. A rule change in midyear made the commission a continuing body, permanently convened to consider all problems regarding judicial officers.

The following report is tendered on the Commission's activities for the year as detailed as possible within the confines of the requirement of confidentiality.

Complaints self-initiated or from 166 citizens were processed concerning the conduct or disability of judicial officers. Investigations were commenced on all complaints, the extent being governed by the seriousness and validity of the charges.

A full investigative report was made to the Illinois Supreme Court on seven complaints during the first six months of 1969.

Beginning July 1, 1969 the Illinois Courts Commission began holding regular monthly meetings to consider discipline and disability problems in the judiciary.

A complete review of all pending investigations is made by the secretary at each meeting. The Commission takes the appropriate action on investigative reports after their being reviewed by the members. As a result of investigations, 13 complaints were assigned Courts Commission numbers and placed on the Commission's docket.

The majority of complaints are filed by disgruntled litigants, dissatisfied with the outcome of their individual lawsuit. They originate from both plaintiff and defendant, depending on which side prevailed in the trial court.

Regardless of the complaint's merit, a reply from the secretary of the Courts Commission is sent to all. Only a small number merit consideration by the Commission.

No formal complaints were filed against a member of the Illinois judiciary during 1969.

THE ILLINOIS JUDICIAL CONFERENCE

The Illinois Judicial Conference and its Executive Committee conducted one general educational program during 1969. The Judge Seminar was held on September 3, 4 and 5 at the University of Chicago, Center for Continuing Education. Appellate Court Justice Mel Abrahamson, the chairman of the Executive Committee, was unable to preside over the Seminar due to illness; and, the vice-chairman of the Committee, Circuit Court Judge George Fiedler, acted as the presiding officer.

Illinois Supreme Court Chief Justice, Robert C. Underwood, who also serves as Liaison Officer to the Executive Committee, addressed the Conference. Chief Justice Underwood stated that in his opinion the judges of this state should take an active interest in the forthcoming constitutional convention, by proposing suggestions and recommendations through the Conference.

The Conference was addressed by Governor Richard B. Ogilivie. In his comments, the Governor suggested that although the vast majority of Illinois' judges are hardworking and capable jurists, he favored merit selection of judges, rather than election of judges by the people. The Governor also urged that a judicial code of ethics be drafted by a commission of laymen and that modern methods of court management be explored, with a view to justly and fairly expedite law suits.

He also pledges his support to budgetary requests in the General Assembly to undertake experimental projects in judicial administration, to increase the number of judges and magistrates in those circuits where there is a large amount of pending litigation, to permit judges of a suitable age to retire at full pay as they do from the federal bench, to establish a commission to report on the usefulness and the feasibility of a variety of automobile insurance basic protection plans with a view to reducing the number of personal injury suits, and to create a commission on law reform.

The Seminar conducted five discussion topics and one lecture:

- 1. Miscellaneous Remedies
- 2. Recent Developments in Criminal Law
- 3. Review of New Legislation
- 4. Third Party Practice
- 5. Problems in Chancery Practice—Public Employee Strikes
- 6. Lecture on Evidence—Hearsay

Total attendance at the 1969 Judge Seminar was 330 Supreme, Appellate, Circuit and Associate judges.

In addition to appointing committees to make preliminary preparations for the 1970 Magistrate, Judge and New Judge Seminars, the Executive Committee received reports from committees appointed prior to or during 1969:

- 1. Committee on Probation in Illinois
- 2. Committee on the Status of Magistrates
- 3. Committee on Juvenile Problems
- 4. Committee on the Efficient Utilization of Jurors
- 5. Constitutional Convention Committee
- 6. Subcommittee on Right to Jury Trial

The various committees studied particular problems facing the courts and recommended appropriate legislation or Supreme Court rules to improve the administration of justice. It is anticipated that the Conference will devote a considerable amount of its time and energy to the Constitutional Convention, especially where the Judicial Article is concerned.

CONFERENCE OF CHIEF CIRCUIT JUDGES

The Conference of Chief Circuit Judges met three times during calendar year 1969. The Conference meetings offer an opportunity for an informal exchange of information and ideas between circuit administrators and assist the Administrative Director to remain well informed on administrative problems in each circuit. During 1969, the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges adopted policy recommendations in several areas. Among the more significant were:

(1) State's Attorney must file with the Juvenile Division a petition alleging the commission of an offense which constitutes a crime under the laws of the State, before attempting to try the juvenile as an adult. The State's Attorney may not take action against a juvenile without first filing the petition required by the Juvenile Court Act. The State's Attorney may not, by subterfuge, avoid the statutory power of the Juvenile Court Judge to object to a transfer.

(2) Fees for an attorney appointed to represent an incompetent indigent at restoration hearings which are held in the county in which the hospital is located (rather than in the county of which the indigent is a resident) should be paid by the State. The cost of counsel in such cases is an unfair burden on the county in which a mental hospital happens to be located.

(3) Approved for use, and filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court, a Uniform Ticket and Complaint form for use in hunting and fishing violation cases and other violations under the jurisdiction of the Department of Conservation.

(4) Approved in principal a study to determine the feasibility and desirability of collecting statistical reports relating to sentencing in criminal cases.

(5) Rejected a proposal which would have allowed variations from its uniform minimum standards for juvenile probation personnel in cases in which the county alleged that it was impossible to hire someone who met the minimum standards.

(6) The Conference, in a split vote, opposed legislation which would have removed from the circuit court the power to appoint certain officials of local governmental units.

(7) The Conference firmly opposed a proposal to allow television news photography in courtrooms.

(8) Urged wider use by police officers of notices to appear in lieu of seeking a warrant in domestic disputes, etc., particularly on weekends or at night.

The Chief Judges reviewed all legislation introduced in the 76th General Assembly which would affect the administration of the circuit courts. In some cases, the Conference expressed an opinion regarding such legislation, and the recommendations were forwarded to the appropriate legislative committees.

In December of 1969, the Conference of Chief Circuit

Judges selected a new Chairman, Hon. Gale A. Mathers (Galesburg), Chief Judge of the 9th Judicial Circuit. In expressing its gratitude to Hon. John T. Reardon, its outgoing Chairman, the Conference noted that Judge Reardon has served as chief judge of his circuit since 1963 and has, therefore, been a member of this Conference since its inception. Judge Reardon served as Vice-Chairman of the Conference between 1963 and 1967 and as Chairman of the Conference since January 1, 1968.

COURT REPORTERS

During 1969 the Administrative Office continued its program of recruiting and testing qualified official shorthand reporters. A total of 131 individual proficiency examinations were offered in two locations and, as a result, 45 additional Class "A" court reporters were certified.

On July 15, 1969, Public Act 76-410 was approved, increasing from $9,000 to $11,500 per year the amount which may now be paid to full-time court reporters. Under the Schedule adopted by the Director and approved by the Court, only official reporters assigned to general reporting duties, having a Class "A" proficiency rating and more than four years of experience were raised to $11,500 per year. However, court reporters in every other category received some increases.

The pay schedule was also amended to credit reporting experience prior to the date on which a reporter is appointed to an official position. Experienced reporters from private practice can be attracted to official positions on the promise that they shall receive credit for their prior experience in calculating their beginning pay.

The Supreme Court authorized the Circuit Court of Cook County to appoint 20 additional official court reporters, bringing the total complement of reporters in that Circuit to 117. In recognition of the obvious administrative burdens of operating a reporting pool of that size, the 76th General Assembly provided for an administrator, a deputy administrator, and a supervisor of each of the divisions of the Circuit Court of Cook County. (Public Act 76-1817, October 9, 1969) The administrative personnel must be Class "A" reporters, by examination, and each receives a stipend (over and above his base salary) to defray the lost income resulting from the fact that administrative responsibilities keep him from earning as much transcript money.

RECORDKEEPING

The Supreme Court's General Administrative Order on Recordkeeping in the Circuit Courts was adopted on May 20, 1968. It provides for a uniform system of keeping case records, financial records and statistical records in all the circuit courts of the State.

At the beginning of 1969 only Logan County was operating under the new system but plans were in progress to establish the system in Jefferson County at Mt. Vernon. During 1969 the system became operational in 3 counties and an order was issued under which the system was to begin in 12 additional counties on January 1, 1970.

On June 1, 1969, Jefferson County was ordered to keep records in compliance with the order on recordkeeping. On August 1, 1969, Warren County was also ordered to begin to keep its records in accordance with the order. On October 1, Adams County was also included.

Each of these counties has been used as a model for the clerks of surrounding counties who come to be instructed in the use of the new system and to observe it in operation. All the clerks of the 2nd Judicial Circuit gathered at Mt. Vernon during 1969 and were trained to use the system as it is used in Jefferson County. The Clerk of Macon County (Decatur) observed the system operating at Logan County. Effective January 1, 1970 these 12 counties will be under the new system.

FISCAL

Expenditures of all money appropriated by the General Assembly to the Supreme Court are supervised by the Administrative Office. An accounting department, under a supervisor of accounts, prepares all payrolls, vouchers, and handles the details involved with the expenditure of funds. By court direction, the Director submits budgetary requirements for both the Administrative Office, Judicial Conference, and the other functions of the Supreme Court to be incorporated in the appropriations submitted to the legislature. The Director prepares the necessary legislation and appears before the Appropriations Committees of the General Assembly to obtain passage of the necessary bills to provide funds for operating the Court.

IMPARTIAL MEDICAL EXPERT RULE

HISTORY. The genesis of the Illinois Supreme Court Rule governing the use of impartial medical examinations can be traced back to an experimental project conducted by the trial court of New York City in cooperation with two local medical societies. In December 1952, the two year Medical Expert Testimony Project commenced operation: its objective was to determine whether it was feasible and desirable to establish a permanent panel of medical experts whose impartion reports and testimony would negate confusing and conflicting medical opinion evidence of partisan doctors. A further goal of the Project was to reduce court congestion by encouraging at the pre-trial state acceptance of an impartial expert's findings where the major hindrance to settlement was the nature and extent of the plaintiff's injuries.

In December 1954, the Project Committee found the experiment to be a success, and the Project was adopted on a permanent basis. The Committee noted that the continued success of the Project was premised on the quality of the doctors participating in the Project. For an in depth study of the experiment, see Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Impartial Medical Testimony (1956).

THE ILLINOIS EXPERIENCE. Illinois' first encounter with a medical expert rule in civil cases was on the federal level. In late 1959, the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois adopted Civil Rule 20 which was modeled on the New York rule.

Although the interest of the Illinois Supreme Court in considering adoption of a medical expert rule in civil cases antedated the District Court's rule, an address before the 1959 Illinois Judicial Conference by the Presiding Appellate Justice of the New York Supreme Court, in which he discussed the operation of the New York medical expert rule, so stimulated the conferees that an Impartial Medical Committee was appointed to investigate the various medical plans in effect in other jurisdictions. The Committee reported thereon in 1960 and set out the pro and con arguments for adoption of such a rule by the Supreme Court. The Illinois State Medical Society vigorously recommended the adoption, and offered its full cooperation.

In June 1961, the Supreme Court announced that it had adopted on an experimental basis Rule 17-2 (Impartial Medical Experts), effective September 5, 1961. The implementation and subsequent operation of the Rule was funded by several foundation grants received by the State Medical Society for which the Illinois State Bar Association acted as receiving and disbursing fiscal agent.

In its essence, Rule 17-2 closely resembled the New York and Northern District Court rules: (a) the Rule may be invoked by the trial judge when it appears that an impartial medical examination will materially aid in the just determination of a personal injury case, (b) the examining physician is selected by the State Medical Society, (c) the examination is made without cost to the litigants, and (d) the court administrator is charged with the administration of the Rule. The notable difference being that the Illinois Rule did not tax the cost of the examination to the parties as did the district court rule.

The task of publicizing the new Rule fell to the court administrator's office, the State and County Medical Societies, and the State and County Bar Associations, and selected judges who invoked it. The countless speeches throughout the State and the many articles appearing in periodicals and newspapers produced the expected result; i. e., promulgation and acceptance of the Rule by lawyers, doctors and judges. From its meager utilization in 1961 of being invoked in 6 cases, invocation of the Rule increased to a total of 111 personal injury cases in the next five years.

THE PRESENT RULE. Except for a minor amendment to conform to the wording of the 1964 Judicial Article of the Illinois Constitution (The Administrative Directors is now charged with the administration of the Rule), Rule 17-2 remained unchanged. Then, effective January 1, 1967, the Rule was renumbered 215(d), and its scope broadened to apply to other cases in addition to personal injury. Also in 1967, the funding of the Rule's operation became a State obligation, and physicians' fees are now paid out of the Supreme Court appropriation.

The Rule continues to be invoked on a selective basis, that is, in those cases where the examination of a party will materially aid in a just determination of the case. The State Medical Society maintains a roster of over 200 physicians who are especially qualified in one of more than twenty medical specialties; this pool of experts generally is sufficient to meet the needs of the State trial court system, although at times it is difficult to obtain the services of a medical expert in the nonmetropolitan areas, especially in the field of psychiatry.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES. Supreme Court Rule 215(d) is administered by the Administrative Office in Chicago, and its operation has been streamlined by the use of four forms: a variable form letter, a judge's memorandum form, an order form appointing the medical expert, and an order form directing payment of the examiner's fee.

After the judge decides to appoint an impartial medical expert, the administrative procedures are as follows:

(1) Moving counsel prepares, for the signature of the judge, a memorandum specifying the nature of the claimed disability and the type of specialty required, and transmits the signed memorandum to the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, Chicago.

(2) The Administrative Office obtains the name of a physician in the required specialty from the Illinois State Medical Society, arranges the time and place of the examination, and notifies the physician, the judge, and counsel.

(3) Moving counsel prepares for the signature of the judge an order appointing the impartial medical panelist. The order also lists the medical data to be submitted to the physician through the Administrative Office.

(4) Counsel for both parties tender to the Administrative Office the medical data described in the order for forwarding to the impartial examining physician.

(5) Moving counsel transmits a copy of the signed order to the Administrative Office.

(6) The impartial examining physician transmits his signed report and his statement to the Administrative Office. At the same time the physician retransmits to the Administrative Office all of the items listed in the order. The Administrative Office furnishes the impartial medical panelist with copies of the medical reports listed on the order.

(7) The Administrative Office transmits to the judge and to counsel copies of the medical report, and to the judge, for his consideration, an order for the payment of the physician's fee.

(8) The Administrative Office returns to counsel all of the items listed in the order.

(9) The order for the payment of the physician's fee, as signed by the judge, is transmitted to the Administrative Office which then authorizes the payment of the fee.

(10) If, subsequently, the case goes to trial and the testimony of the impartial medical panelist is required, he will be notified by the Administrative Office of the time and place of the taking of his testimony.

STATISTICS. The Cumulative Statistical Summary set out below is self-explanatory, but it should be noted that the number of Impartial Medical Expert (IME) examinations exceeds the number of IME orders since some orders may have provided for more than one party to be examined.

The 1969 Statistical Summary is similar to the Cumulative Summary, but contains additional information, and several items should be explained:

The fact that the number of IME examinations exceeds the number of IME orders entered during 1969, is explained by considering that some orders provided for examinations of more than one party in the case and that seven 1968 orders resulted in examinations in 1969, although one 1969 order provided for a 1970 examination.

Further, the IME panelists' average fee per examination includes costs ancillary to the examination, e. g., pathology, radiology, psychology, etc. However, where an IME physician used the services of another medical specialist, no recordation was made for the second physician's specialty unless his services were more than incidental to completing the examination.

INFORMATION AND PUBLIC RELATIONS

Requests for information and facts concerning the Illinois judicial system have continued to increase since the advent of judicial reform.

Interested citizens, civic groups, schools, state officials and bar associations make inquiries relating to the court system of Illinois. In addition, other state governments, judges, lawyers and law schools follow the accomplishments made under a consolidated trial court system.

With the increasing concern of the media on court problems, their resultant inquiries and quest for information has multiplied significantly.

The dissemination of information both oral and written to all of the above mentioned is a major and time consuming function of the Administrative Office.

JUDICIAL STATISTICS

The most accurate method of determining a court system's effectiveness in the handling of its caseload is the compilation of statistics and their analysis. A trained statistician compiles the reports received from Cook County judges, court divisions and departments. Court statistics from outside Cook County are filed and compiled in the Springfield office from both judges and clerks.

Monthly reports showing the trend of all cases in Cook County are issued, and a quarterly report covers all circuits in the State.

LEGISLATIVE

The Administrative Office has been designated by the Supreme Court to act as legislative liaison for the judiciary. A close working relationship is maintained with the Judicial Advisory Council of the General Assembly.

A mutual exchange of information on legislation affecting courts continues to be an important function of this office. The Governor's office, Legislative Reference Bureau and individual members of the legislature are among those seeking information on bills affecting the Illinois courts.

A weekly synopsis of all bills affecting the court is prepared during sessions of the legislature, and copies are sent to the Supreme Court and other members of the judiciary.

REPRESENTATION BY SUPERVISED SENIOR LAW STUDENTS

BACKGROUND. During the 76th General Assembly, HB 67 was introduced. The bill provided that the "Act in Relation to Attorneys and Counselors" be amended to permit senior law students to participate in criminal cases upon meeting certain qualifications. In early 1969, the Supreme Court asked its Rules Committee to draft a rule on representation by supervised senior law students. The Committee considered several items in formulating a rule, in addition to HB 67: the Supreme Court's decision, In Re Day, 181 III. 73 (1899) where it was held that the Court has exclusive authority to determine who shall be entitled to practice law, the American Bar Association's "Model Rule Relative to Legal Assistance by Law Students", and suggestions from interested parties.

On May 27, 1969, the Supreme Court adopted Rule 711, and HB 67 was tabled on June 2, 1969. Essentially, the Rule is similar to the ABA Model Rule; however, for example, where the Model Rule allows the law student to orally argue in the appellate court, the Illinois Rule does not. The Model Rule allows the student to appear in court without the presence of the supervising attorney in a criminal matter if the defendant does not have the right to appointed counsel, or with the supervising attorney's presence if the criminal defendant has a right to counsel. The Supreme Court, cognizant of developing constitutional requirements with respect to representation by counsel in criminal cases, provided in its Rule that students may represent a defendant without the supervising attorney's presence only in those cases where the possible penalty is not imprisonment.

There are about nineteen states which allow law students to restrictively practice law, either by court rule or statute. In addition to Illinois, the other major jurisdictions authorizing student practice are Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Ohio. A comparison between the practice rules and statutes of these jurisdictions and Illinois discloses that Rule 711 offers the law student a broader opportunity to enhance his classroom education with the everyday legal problems of society.

RULE 711. The Rule authorizes a law student to restrictively perform legal services provided that he is attending a law school approved by the Illinois Board of Law Examiners, he has satisfactorily completed at least two-thirds of the hourly credits required for graduation, and he is a student in good academic standing and eligible under the school's criteria to perform the authorized services. If the student fulfills these requirements, then the law school dean may certify him.

The legal services the student may perform upon certification must be performed through the agency of a legal aid bureau, program, organization or clinic chartered by the State or approved by an Illinois law school; the public defender's office; or a law office of the State or any of its subdivisions. The student may only receive compensation from the agency through which he is employed.

The legal services the student may perform under the supervision of a member of the Illinois bar and with the written consent of his client include, but are not limited to: counseling with clients, settling claims, drafting legal instruments; appearing in the trial courts and administrative tribunals provided that pleadings, motions and other documents are signed by the student and the supervising attorney, and further provided that in criminal cases where the penalty may be imprisonment, in proceedings challenging sentences of imprisonment, and in civil or criminal contempt proceedings, the supervising attorney is present, to whom the student acts as an assistant; conducting pretrial, trial and posttrial proceedings, in all other civil and criminal cases, without the supervising attorney's presence; and filing briefs and other documents in courts of review, which must be signed and filed by the supervising attorney.

The student's certificate to practice remains in effect for 18 months or until the announcement of the first bar examination following the student's graduation, whichever is earlier; however, the dean of the law school or the court may withdraw or terminate the certificate at any time.

The Administrative Director administers the Rule from his Chicago office.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES. Upon written certification by the law school dean on a form provided by the Administrative Office, the following procedures take place:

(1) The certificate and a photograph of the student are filed with the Administrative Office;

(2) The Director reviews the certificate for compliance with the Rule;

(3) The student is issued a temporary license which identifies him as a licensee who is authorized to practice law pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 711;

(4) The license contains the licensee's identification number, the date of certification, the date the license expires, and his photograph and name;

(5) The licensee submits to the Administrative Office a notice of assignment form which indicates the agency and supervising attorney for whom he is employed;

(6) If the certificate is withdrawn or terminated, the Administrative Office requests the licensee to return his license;

(7) When the bar examination results are announced, the Administrative Office reviews the licensee's file to determine whether the certificate remains in force or is terminated;

(8) The Administrative Office maintains two indices of licensees: one by the licensee's name, the other by license number.

IMPLEMENTATION. Despite the short time it has been in effect, the Rule gained quick acceptance by the law students and deans. Thus far, 116 students have been certified and licensed. The number of students and their law schools are as follows:

University of Illinois (31) University of Chicago (30) DePaul University (14) Loyola University—Chicago (11) Northwestern University (11) The John Marshall Law School (10) IIT—Chicago-Kent College of Law (3) Washington University—St. Louis (2) Catholic University (1) Notre Dame University (1) University of Iowa (1) St. Louis University (1)

The number of licensees employed by the various agencies is as follows:

Mandel Legal Aid Clinic (30) Attorney General of Illinois (25) Northwestern Legal Assistance Clinic (10) States Attorney of Champaign County (8) Legal Aid Service of Champaign County (8) Public Defender of Champaign County (7) Corporation Counsel of the City of Chicago (5) Northwestern Criminal Law Project (4) Illinois Defender Project (4) Legal Aid Society of Vermilion County (2) States Attorney of Madison County (2)

One licensee is employed by each of the following agencies: States Attorney of McLean County and DuPage County, Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, Public Defenders of Cook County and Stephenson County, Legal Aid Bureau of Cook County, Legal Aid of St. Clair County, Free Far North Legal Aid, and the City of East Peoria.

Five licensees were employed by unknown agencies at the time their certificates were withdrawn. It should be noted that the total number of licensees employed exceeds the number of licensees since some were employed by more than one agency.

CONCLUSION

Nineteen hundred sixty nine brought to a close my second year as Director of the Administrative Office. The duties and responsibilities of the office continue to increase as they have every year since its inception on January 1, 1964. The addition of two new assistant directors to the office have materially aided this office in maintaining a high level of proficiency in the administration of justice in Illinois. On January 1, 1970 an additional Assistant Director is to join the office to fill a much needed role as public information officer, to assist the Supreme Court and the Administrative Office in the dissemination of information relating to the operation of both the reviewing courts and the trial courts.

Respectfully submitted,

Roy O. Gulley, Director Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts

REPORT ON THE CIRCUIT COURT OF COOK COUNTY FOR CALENDAR YEAR 1969

Inventory levels, rates of disposition and flow of all cases in the circuit court appear to be in good order, with two exceptions: The Law Division of the County Department and the First District of the Municipal Department continue to suffer delay in the trial of law jury cases. As will be shown in this report, however, the First District has made progress during the past year.

LAW DIVISION

There were 668 verdicts returned in the Law Division during 1969. The average time elapsed between the date on which such cases were filed and the date of verdict was 60.7 months. That interval is 0.5 months longer than it took similar cases to go to verdict in 1964, and 1.1 months longer than at the end of last year.

Of course, not all law jury cases are disposed of by verdict; and, certainly, not all law jury cases disposed of in the Law Division last year were over five years old. Thirty-one percent were over 5 years old, approximately 17% were less than 2 years old. The following chart shows the age of law jury cases disposed of in the Law Division during 1969.

LAW DIVISION, COUNTY DEPARTMENT CIRCUIT COURT OF COOK COUNTY

	Law Jury Cases Disposed of During 1969—Year in Which Filed
1963 and Earlier	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969

4.8%	26.7%	14.9%	14.9%	22.0%	.5%	16.2%

It appears that the number of cases over 5 years old which are pending at the beginning of any year has a material effect on the average delay experience during the year:

Year	Number of Cases 5 Years Old or Older on Jan. 1	Average Time Elapsed During Year *
1965	4,422	69.5 mo.
1966	2,309	64.3 mo.
1967	1,421	60.6 mo.
1968	208	59.6 mo.
1969	721	60.7 mo.
1970	1,538	? mo.

* Average time elapsed between the date on which a law jury case was filed and the date on which a verdict was returned.

FIRST MUNICIPAL DISTRICT

There were 356 verdicts returned in the First Municipal District during 1969. The average time elapsed between the date on which such cases were filed and the date of verdict was 42.8 months. That is the lowest delay figure ever reported for the First District.

Only 1.4% of the law jury cases disposed of in the Municipal Department last year were 5 years old; approximately 33.4% were less than 2 years old. The following chart shows the age of law jury cases terminated during 1969.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT CIRCUIT COURT OF COOK COUNTY

Law Jury Cases Disposed of During 1969—Year in Which Filed
1963 and Earlier	1964	1965	1966	1967	1968	1969
0	147	2137	2512	2497	824	2838
0%	1.4%	19.5%	22.9%	22.8%	7.5%	25.9%

Not only did the First Municipal District enjoy a dramatic reduction in the "average interval" between the date of filing and the date of verdict, but an analysis of the age of pending law jury cases shows substantial promise for continuing progress. There are no law jury cases in the Municipal Department inventory which are over 5 years old; only 70 cases are over 4 years old and only 880 cases are over 3 years old.

The following chart shows the relationship between the number of 5 year old Municipal Department law jury cases pending at the beginning of each year and the average delay between filing and verdict:

Year	Number of Cases 5 Years Old or Older on Jan. 1	Average Time Elapsed During Year
1965	2,865	56.4 mo.*
1966	2,897	63.6 mo.
1967	383	65.2 mo.
1968	645	56.4 mo.
1969	0	42.8 mo.
1970	0	? mo.

* The relatively low delay figure for 1965 (56.4 mo.), appears to be a consequence of the fact that in 1965 the Municipal Department placed substantial emphasis on disposing of four year old cases (1961's), but hardly touched pending five year old cases (1960's). (See Chart B on next page.)
