SPRINGFIELD 62701-1791

TO: The Honorable Chief Justice and Justices of the Supreme Court

I tender herewith the annual report of the Administrative Office for calendar year 1989. This year's report presents information and statistics on new developments in all three levels of the Illinois court system. It also discusses in detail the increased number of services that the Administrative Office has begun providing to the Appellate and trial courts of Illinois since its reorganization, which was completed in 1988.

At the request of Chief Circuit Judges and clerks of the courts, in 1989 the Administrative Office provided extensive technical assistance in various facets of trial and Appellate court operations. Specifically, technical assistance was rendered in the areas of records management, automation, court security, facilities, recordkeeping procedures and probation management and operations. Generally, this technical assistance resulted in written field reports with findings and recommendations.

Also instituted by the Administrative Office in 1989 was the concept of court training by topics which cut across job functions. Utilizing this training method, chief judges, administrators and court clerks attended seminars together as a court administration team. Among many new programs instituted during 1989 were a program in administration for women executives in criminal justice, a seminar in court automation and a seminar on child sexual abuse.

In 1988, and continuing in 1989, the Administrative Office embarked on a number of reforms of the court system's financial operations. These efforts were further enhanced with the release of the Auditor General's audits of the judiciary's financial system which served to reinforce the need for continued improvements in our financial management practices.

In 1989, the Supreme Court handed down 162 full opinions and 14 supervisory orders and ruled on 1,321 petitions for leave to appeal. The Court received 2,725 new filings in 1989 on the general docket, miscellaneous docket and miscellaneous record, and admitted 2,628 new lawyers to the practice of law.

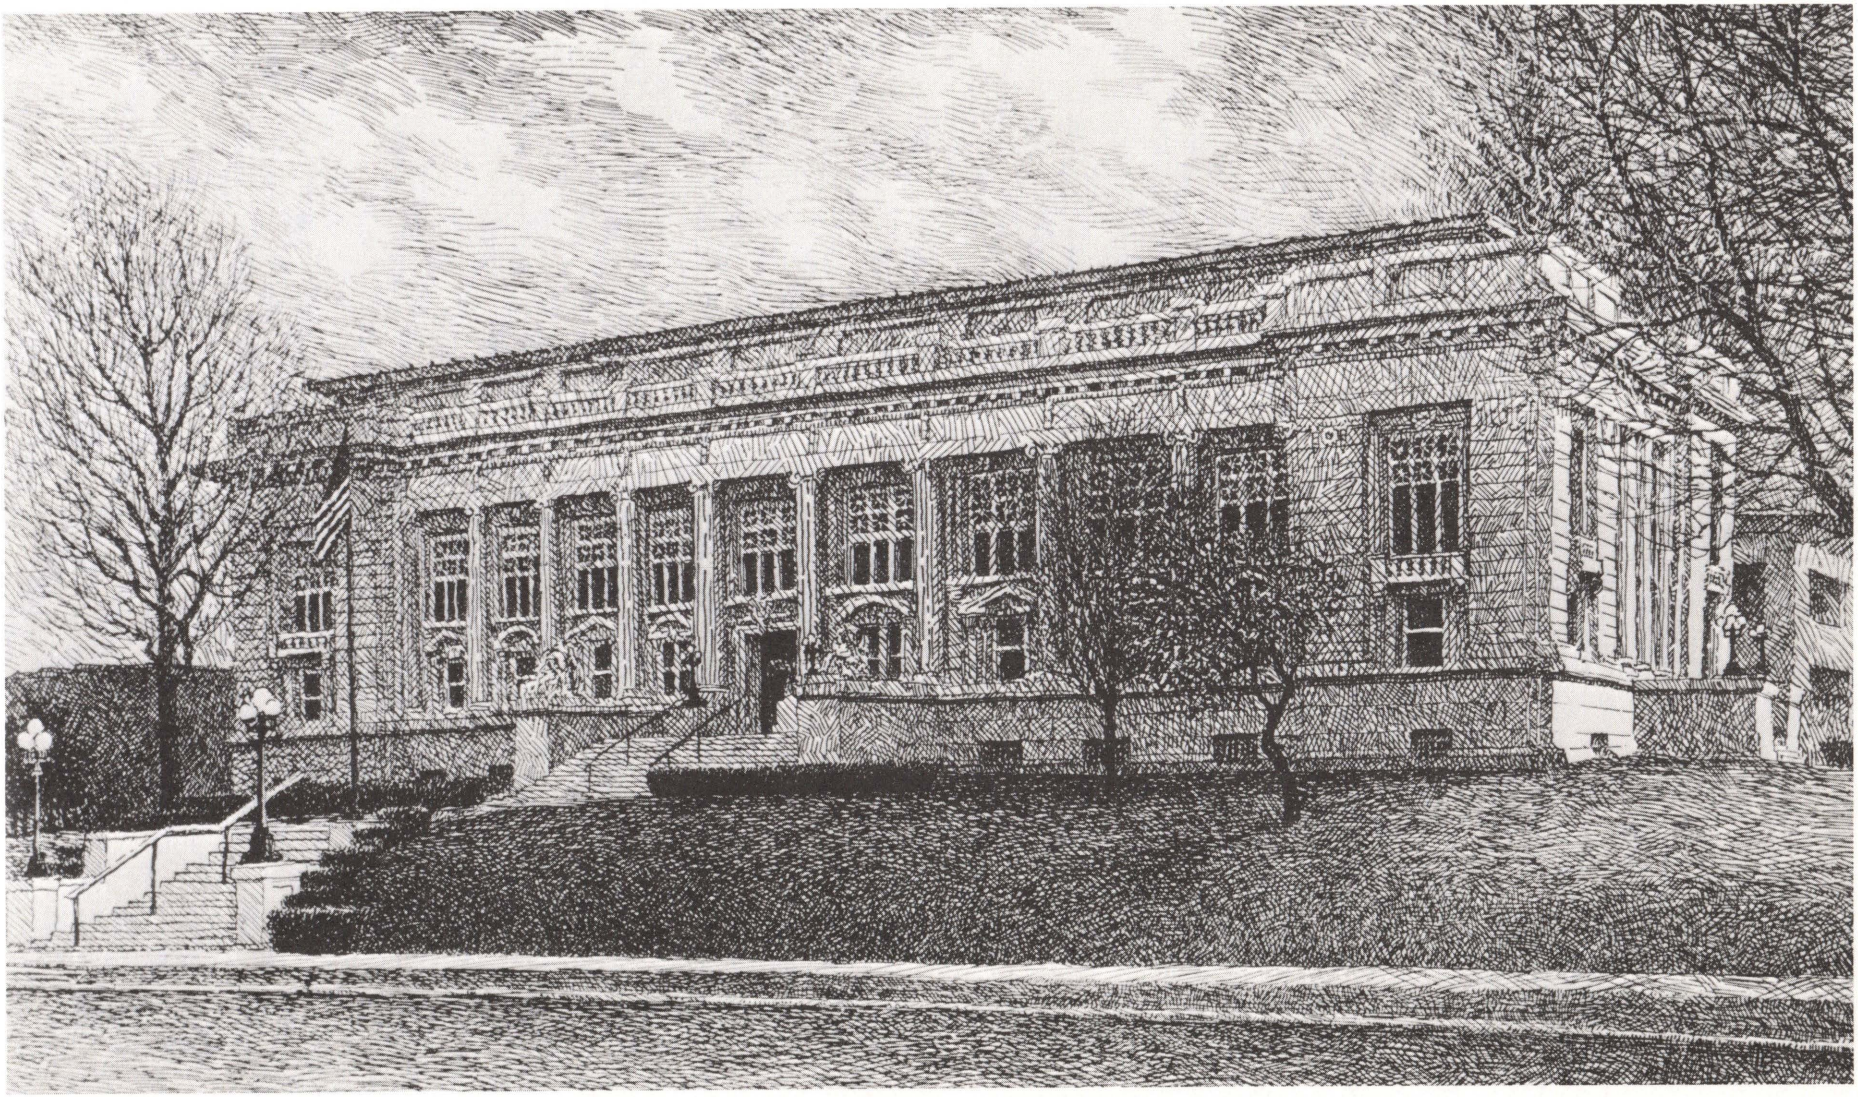

There were 7,612 new filings (a 1 % decrease) in the Appellate Court in 1989 and 7,722 dispositions (an increase of 1%). 2,084 cases were disposed of with opinions by the Appellate Court in 1989 (increase of 8%). During 1989, Appellate Court judges disposed of 2,708 cases by Rule 23 order (an increase of 3% from 1988).

The number of cases filed in the circuit courts of Illinois during 1989 was 3,851,861 (a decrease of 5% from 1988). The number of cases disposed of in the circuit courts during 1989 was 4,203,351 (a decrease of less than 1%).

This office continues to discharge its constitutional responsibility to assist the Court in exercising "general administrative and supervisory authority over all courts". I think what the reorganization of the Administrative Office accomplished during 1988 will continue to greatly facilitate our ability to carry out these responsibilities and to be responsive to the Court.

Respectfully Submitted,

Samuel D. Conti
Director

THE SUPREME COURT

JURISDICTION AND ORGANIZATION

The Illinois Supreme Court is the highest court in the Illinois judicial system. Its jurisdiction is primarily appellate, but it has original jurisdiction in several categories of cases listed in the 1970 Constitution. It hears appeals from decisions both of the Appellate Court and of the Circuit Courts, and its appellate caseload consists of discretionary appeals and appeals as of right. For a more detailed description of the Court's jurisdiction, see sections 4 and 9 of article VI of the Constitution of 1970, in Appendix A.

Three of the seven justices of the Court are elected from the First Judicial District (Cook County) and one from each of the other four judicial districts. Justices are elected for 10 year terms. Four justices constitute a quorum and the concurrence of four is necessary for a decision. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, secs. 2, 3 and 10.)

The Court is in session in Springfield, and occasionally in Chicago, for five terms each year during the months of January, March, May, September and November. At each term, the Court issues opinions, holds conferences, hears oral arguments, rules on motions, considers modifications to Supreme Court rules and meets with the Administrative Director to consider administrative and budgetary matters.

ADMINISTRATIVE AND SUPERVISORY AUTHORITY

General administrative and supervisory authority over the unified Illinois judicial system is vested by the Constitution in the Supreme Court. Acting in accordance with the Court's rules, the Chief Justice, who is selected for a three year term, exercises this authority. The Court appoints an Administrative Director and staff to assist the Chief Justice in his duties. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 16.) In addition to the general grant of administrative authority contained in section 16 of article VI, the Constitution also identifies specific administrative powers which the Court shall or may exercise. These powers include:

(1) Prescribing the number of appellate divisions in each judicial district;

(2) Assigning judges to appellate divisions;

(3) Prescribing the time and place for appellate divisions to sit;

(4) Providing for the manner of appointing associate judges;

(5) Providing for matters assignable to associate judges;

(6) In the absence of law, filling judicial vacancies by appointment;

(7) Prescribing rules of conduct for judges;

(8) Assignment of retired judges to judicial service;

(9) Appointment of an Administrative Director and staff;

(10) Temporary assignment of judges;

(11) Providing for an annual Judicial Conference and reporting thereon annually in writing to the General Assembly;

(12) Appointment of the Supreme Court Clerk and other non-judicial officers of the Court.

To complement these enumerated duties, the Court exercises other administrative functions pursuant to statute or through power inherent in the operation of the Court. The annual judicial budget prepared by the Administrative Director is approved by the Court. The Court employs three law clerks for each Justice as well as staff attorneys and other research department personnel. It selects a Marshal and Supreme Court Librarian. The Court also appoints the State Appellate Defender and two persons to the State Appellate Defender Commission; and three judges to the Board of Trustees of the Judges Retirement System. From time to time, the Court appoints committees, as the need arises, to study and suggest amendments in substantive and procedural law, Supreme Court rules, and other matters affecting the administration of justice.

1989 SUPREME COURT CASELOAD SUMMARY

During the 1989 terms, the seven justices handed down 162 full opinions and 14 supervisory orders; ruled on 64 petitions for rehearing, and ruled on 1,321 petitions for leave to appeal. Of the petitions for leave to appeal, 101 or 7.25% were allowed. The Court received 2,725 new filings in 1989 on the general docket, miscellaneous docket, and miscellaneous record and admitted 2,628 new lawyers to the practice of law.

THE CLERK OF THE SUPREME COURT

Since her appointment in July 1982, Juleann Hornyak has served as the Clerk of the Illinois Supreme Court. In general, the duties of the Clerk include the receipt and processing of filings and the maintenance of dockets, records, files and statistics on the activities of the Court.

The Clerk maintains two offices: the main office (with 11 deputy clerks and two part-time employees) in the Supreme Court Building in Springfield and a satellite office (with two deputy clerks) in the Richard J. Daley Center in Chicago, which was opened in 1986, primarily to accommodate the filing and processing of motions and corresponding orders from the populous First District.

The foremost responsibility of the Clerk's office is assisting the Court in the management of its caseload. This consists of ensuring that tendered cases are within the Court's jurisdiction, that documents are in proper form and that parties otherwise conform to the applicable Supreme Court rules, that filing dates are met so that cases can proceed according to schedule, and that matters are presented to the Court for disposition at the appropriate time. The Clerk's office monitors the flow of cases from initiation in the Court to the issuance of mandates and final orders.

In addition, the Clerk's office is responsible for the following:

1. Maintaining the roll of attorneys licensed to practice in Illinois,
2. Processing the licensing of attorneys and coordinating the semi-annual admission ceremonies,
3. Registering and renewing professional service corporations and associations engaged in the practice of law,
4. Filing judicial financial disclosure statements, and
5. Serving as a public information office of the Court.

THE SUPREME COURT MARSHAL

Carolyn D. Taitt was appointed Supreme Court Marshal effective November 29, 1989, upon the retirement of former Marshal Louie F. Dean on October 16, 1989. Mrs. Taitt was formerly the Marshal's Administrative Assistant for the past twelve years.

The Marshal's office is currently staffed with approximately twenty employees. Her duties consist of supervision of those employees; overseeing all the renovations, repairs, daily maintenance, etc., for the building and grounds; maintaining security for all employees of the building and all Justices around the clock; extending courtesies and welcome mats to all groups and/or individuals seeking a tour of the building and sharing her knowledge of the building and the history of the Court with those interested in becoming enlightened concerning the story and workings of the Supreme Court and the general day-to-day operations of the Supreme Court Building and grounds.

The Marshal attends all sessions of the Court, both in Springfield and Chicago, and performs other duties at the direction of the Court. Those duties include service of legal documents on individual attorneys in disciplinary matters and bringing them before the Court.

REPORTER OF DECISIONS

The Reporter of Decisions for the Illinois Supreme and Appellate Courts has edited and published the Illinois Reports since 1833. Prior to 1970, the Reporter, while authorized by the Court to publish the opinions of the Supreme Court in its name, was not an officer of the Court. By an act of the General Assembly, however, the Office of the Reporter of Decisions was created, serving directly under the Court. By the same act, the Reporter was given statutory authority to publish the decisions of the Appellate Court, and has done so in the Illinois Appellate Court Reports since 1970. In addition to approximately five volumes of the Illinois Reports, approximately 14 volumes of the Illinois Appellate Court Reports and bound volume indexes to the opinions of the Court published by the Reporter's office each year, the office also publishes 26 biweekly paperback advance sheets, containing recent opinions of the Supreme and Appellate Courts, new and amended rules of the Supreme Court, and dispositions of petitions for leave to appeal and various other matters pending before the Supreme Court.

Brian C. Ervin, formerly an Illinois Assistant Attorney General and Assistant Reporter of Decisions, has served as Reporter of Decisions since 1987, and supervises a staff of 14 full-time employees in Bloomington.

THE SUPREME COURT RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

The Supreme Court Research Department was established in October, 1979 as the "Supreme Court Research Project". The project authorized a director, two staff attorneys and a secretary. Norman Walker was appointed as the first research director and served in that capacity until he retired in December, 1980. At that time, Robert H. Gillespy was appointed research director and served until December, 1989. The department is currently headed by senior research attorney Michael R. Robinson.

The Research Department is responsible for performing a variety of tasks which aid the Court in the disposition of appeals. Specifically, research attorneys provide a variety of legal research and writing assignments which include preparation of memoranda on: pending petitions for leave to appeal; cases briefed and ready for oral argument; and full-court motions. Research attorneys also assist in drafting supervisory orders and participate in special research projects for the Court.

During most of 1989, the Research Department staff consisted of the research director, the senior research attorney, five research attorneys, an administrative secretary and two secretaries.

SUPREME COURT LIBRARY

Melanie R. Solon was appointed Supreme Court Librarian in April, 1989. She received her J.D. degree from Ohio Northern University and her Master of Law Librarianship from the University of Washington. She previously had been the Head of Public Services at the Ohio State University College of Law Library. The Supreme Court Librarian is responsible for the administration of the technical and service operations of the library.

The staff of the Supreme Court Library supports the research needs of the Supreme Court and the state's appellate court. The library's collection, numbering over 85,000 volumes, consists of the federal and fifty state codes and reporters, administrative publications, and commercial treatises, specializing in Illinois, labor and criminal law. The library subscribes to over 500 serial titles.

In November, 1989, Christine A. Clatt was appointed by the Supreme Court Librarian as Public Services Librarian. She received her J.D. degree from Loyola University of the South and her M.S. in Library and Information Science from the University of Illinois. She was previously employed as a graduate assistant at the University of Illinois Law Library.

SUPREME COURT RULES COMMITTEE

The Supreme Court has a standing committee on rules. This Committee was first organized in 1963 in anticipation of the increased responsibility of the Supreme Court in the area of rule making under the 1964 constitutional amendment. During the calendar year 1989, the Committee was composed of the following persons:

Professor Jo Desha Lucas, Chairman
Murray R. Conzelman, Esq.
John Powers Crowley, Esq. (d. 1/10/89)
Hon. Harold L. Jensen (resigned 3/24/89)
Watts C. Johnson, Esq.
Sidney Z. Karasik, Esq.
Fred Lambruschi, Esq.
Carl W. Lee, Esq.
Delmer R. Mitchell, Jr., Esq.
Hon. William R. Quinlan
Hon. Dom J. Rizzi
Lee J. Schwartz, Esq.
Peter M. Sfikas, Esq.
Jack M. Siegel, Esq.
James J. Stamos, Esq.
Robert L. Stern, Esq. (Emeritus)
Hon. John E. Sype

Hon. Benjamin K. Miller of the Supreme Court of Illinois was the Supreme Court's Liaison and William M. Madden, Esq., Deputy Director of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts acted as Secretary. Detailed below are various rules changes adopted by the Supreme Court (or became effective) during calendar year 1989 and proposals that were submitted for the consideration of the Rules Committee during calendar year 1989.

NEW OR AMENDED RULES ADOPTED BY THE ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT

During 1989, the Supreme Court adopted several new rules and amended several others. Also, several rules adopted and amended during 1988 became effective during 1989.

In the latter category are new Rules 3 and 30, adopted by order entered November 21, 1988, but not effective until January 1, 1989.

Rule 3 formally creates a Rules Committee and sets out fairly elaborate procedures for that Committee to receive, consider and report to the Court concerning proposals to modify the Supreme Court Rules.

Rule 30, for the first time and as anticipated by section 16 of Article VI of the Illinois Constitution of 1970, sets out the administrative duties of the Chief Justice. The rule also set out the duties of the Administrative Director.

Rules 105, 204, 284, 304 and 307 were amended, effective January 1, 1989.

Rules 105 and 284 were amended to comply with new postal regulations which provide that certified or registered mail may be sent on a "restricted delivery" basis only if it is to be delivered to a natural person.

Rule 204(c) was amended so that a physician's or surgeon's deposition may be taken with the consent of the physician or surgeon only after agreement of the parties. It is not enough any longer to proceed with a deposition if only the physician or surgeon has consented; the parties must also agree.

Rule 304 was amended to clarify the time within which notice of appeal must be filed in cases involving appeals from final judgments that apply to fewer than all the parties or do not dispose of an entire proceeding.

Paragraph(d) was added to Rule 307, providing specific procedures to be followed when appealing from adverse rulings from trial court orders dealing with temporary restraining orders.

Rule 504 was amended to allow the clerk of the circuit court, as well as the arresting officer, to schedule a defendant's first appearance in a traffic or conservation case, or other cases covered by Article V. The practice in some counties is to require the arresting officer to leave the first appearance block of the uniform ticket blank, having the clerk notify the defendant by mail of the date of first appearance. The practice facilitates scheduling of court time and resources.

Rules changes effective February 1, 1989

On February 1, 1989, the Supreme Court adopted new Rule 296, to be effective immediately.

Rule 296 offers a comprehensive plan to allow trial courts to enforce court-ordered child support and maintenance and to maintain suitable audit trails for payments and defaults. Under the rule, all child support and maintenance payments are required to be made to the clerk of the circuit court. In the event of default, provision is made for automatic enforcement proceedings. Because the procedures provided for in new Rule 296 are a substantial departure from traditional methods of enforcing child support and maintenance, the rule is effective only in those counties in which both the chief circuit judge and the clerk of the circuit court have agreed to undertake the experimental use of the procedures.

Rule changes effective April 3, 1989

Effective April 3, 1989, the Supreme Court reinstituted Rule 705, (Attorney) Qualification on a Foreign License, which had been repealed by the Court on July 15, 1988. The new rule does not require the applicant to be an Illinois resident or to prove that he or she will actively and continuously engage in the practice of law in the state of Illinois. Apparently those provisions were dropped in view of the holding by the Supreme Court of the United States that such provisions violate the Privileges and Immunities Clause of the United States Constitution.

Rule changes effective August 1, 1989

Effective August 1, 1989, the Court amended Rules 201, 204, 307, 310, 311, 352 and 711 and made various modifications to Article V (Rules on Trial Court Proceedings in Traffic and Conservation Offenses, Ordinance Offenses, Petty Offenses, and Certain Misdemeanors — Bail Schedules). Effective August 1, 1989, the Supreme Court also adopted new Rules 137, 224 and 375.

Rule 201 was amended to allow local circuits to adopt rules prohibiting the filing of certain discovery materials.

Rule 204 was amended to make payment of reasonable professional fees to physicians and surgeons who are deposed mandatorily, rather than permissibly.

Rule 310 was amended to allow a judge to participate in a prehearing conference, even if he or she might participate in the decision of the case, if the parties agree.

Rule 311 was amended to allow a case to be put on an accelerated docket on the court's own motion, and specifies additional procedures to be followed when a case is to be moved to an accelerated docket.

Rule 352 was amended to clarify that the rule allows all parties to argue orally, if any party has requested the right to argue orally.

Rule 711 was amended to allow graduates, under certain circumstances, to receive a license, even though they have taken the bar examination.

The various amendments to Article V were recommended by the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges and were made to update the rules therein and conform them to recent changes in the statutes and to make other changes to meet practical problems in the efficient administration of the rules.

New Rule 137 replaces section 2-611 of the Code of Civil Procedures and establishes requirements under which parties and attorneys are responsible for asserting that, to the best of their knowledge, information and belief formed after reasonable inquiry that material in documents filed with the court are well grounded in fact and warranted by existing law or a good-faith argument for the extension, modification or reversal of existing law, and that it was not interposed for any improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation. Penalties are specified.

New Rule 224, Discovery Before Suit to Identify Responsible Persons and Entities, provides procedures which allow an action to be filed to compel discovery for the sole purpose of attempting to identify parties who might be liable in damages.

New Rule 375 is the appellate counterpart to new Rule 137, and it allows the Appellate Court to impose sanctions for frivolous or bad faith appeals or for failure to comply with rules governing appeals.

Rule changes effective September 1, 1989

Effective September 1, 1989, the Court amended Rule 352 to reduce the time allowed for oral argument in all cases except capital cases.

Rule changes effective October 13, 1989

Effective October 13, 1989, the Court amended Rules 751, 753, 762, 766, 771, 773 and 775. The changes were suggested by the Supreme Court's Blue Ribbon Committee to Study the Functions and Operations of the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission (the ARDC). The Supreme Court made the following changes in its rules. The Court:

(a) Amended Rule 753(a)(1) to require that one of every three members of each Inquiry Board panel be a nonlawyer.

(b) Amended Rule 753(d) to provide that the terms of members of the Review Board be limited to two consecutive three-year terms.

(c) Amended Rules 753(c)(3) and 753(e)(3) and added Rule 771(h) to provide for reprimand as an additional type of discipline.

(d) Amended Rule 762 to provide that, before final judgment, the parties may, with the consent of the Board before which the matter is pending, and subject to the final approval of the Supreme Court, agree to dispose of any pending disciplinary proceeding by the imposition of a specified sanction. If the Board or the Court does not consent to the agreed disposition, the respondent's admissions, if any, will be void and the matter will proceed before a different panel as if no agreement had taken place.

(e) Amended Rule 751(e)(3) to require the Commission to audit the Administrator's decisions to file no complaint following an investigation under Rule 752(a). The Commission will, after the fact, review the substance of representative samples of such "no-prosecute" decisions.

(f) Amended Rule 766 to substantially eliminate the requirement of confidentiality following the filing and service of a formal complaint before the Hearing Board.

(g) Added Rule 753(f) to provide that a respondent's failure to appear without adequate reason at any hearing is a separate ground for a finding of misconduct.

(h) Amended Rule 753(c)(5) to provide that information regarding prior discipline of a respondent should not be divulged to a hearing panel, unless the matter would be admissible under rules of evidence for reasons other than to show a propensity to commit the misconduct in question.

(i) Amended Rule 773(b) to allow ARDC staff counsel to seek recovery of costs against respondents who fail to comply with investigative requests, or in other ways fail to cooperate with the investigations, regardless of the outcome of the case.

(j) Added Rule 751(e)(8) to provide that the Commission should institute a comprehensive orientation program for new members of the Inquiry Board.

(k) Added Rule 775 providing immunity from civil liability for complainants with regard to communications made to the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission, its administrators, staff, investigators and members of its boards.

Rule changes effective November 1, 1989

Effective November 1, 1989, the Supreme Court amended Rule 764, and adopted new Rules 769 and 776.

Rule 764 was rewritten to revise and make more stringent the requirements that apply to disciplined attorneys and those affiliated with disciplined attorneys regarding recordkeeping, notice to clients, courts and others, etc.

New Rule 769 specifies recordkeeping requirements for all attorneys, not only those operating under disciplinary orders.

New Rule 776 establishes a requirement that a receiver be appointed to perform certain duties when it is determined that a lawyer is not able to properly discharge his professional responsibilities.

During 1989, the following proposals were received by the Rules Committee. The proposals have been reviewed by the Committee and will be acted upon in due course.

89-1 Rule 220 should be amended to allow trial judges, without the consent of the parties, to waive the applicability of the requirement that experts be disclosed 60 days or more before the date of trial when justice might require such a waiver, in complicated cases where there are numerous parties and numerous experts. Proposal DOES NOT include giving judges the power to waive the requirement that experts be disclosed within the time now required by Rule 220. At its meeting in Chicago on Friday, April 28, 1989, the Rules Committee voted unanimously to recommend to the Supreme Court that NO CHANGE be made in Rule 220.

89-2 New Rule 250 or 274 would allow litigants to compel opponents, under possible penalty of costs, expenses and reasonable attorneys' fees, to consider offers of settlement which offers would be irrevocable for ten (10) days following service of the offer. If the settlement offer is accepted, order of settlement is to be entered by clerk of court. Referred to Civil Procedures Subcommittee.

89-3 The Supreme Court should reenact former Rule 705, Qualification on Foreign License, with only modest modifications from the Rule 705 that formerly existed; the modifications should be designed to overcome the constitutional problems raised in the case of Virginia v. Friedman (1988), 487 U.S._____, 101 L.Ed.2d 56, 108 S.Ct. 2260. Adopted, eff. August 1, 1989.

89-4 Amend Rule 311 to make expedition of the appeal discretionary with the court, upon the court's own motion or on the motion of any party, supported by an affidavit, rather than require that the parties agree to having case placed on an accelerated docket. Would also give the court the power to provide for short record and memoranda in lieu of briefs. The court's order would set an expedited schedule for disposition of the appeal. Adopted, eff. August 1, 1989.

89-5 This proposal would create a proceeding called a Prefiling Discovery proceeding in which the trial court could, upon petition and summons, order specified respondents to respond to specified discovery requests. Mental and physical exams and request to admit would not be allowed, but depositions and other forms of discovery would. Unless otherwise ordered, the order would automatically expire in 60 days; petitioner would pay expenses. Rule contains form summons. Adopted, eff. August 1, 1989.

89-6 It appears that some states may be planning to modify the Rules of Professional Conduct to limit or modify lawyers' rights to advertise on television. ARDC has been asked to draft a proposed rule for the Rules Committee's consideration.

89-7 Amend Rules 341 and 344 to require that all briefs be of uniform size and to limit size and style of typeface, margins, etc., and to require that all briefs, whether printed or typed, not exceed 50 pages in length and all reply briefs not exceed 20 pages in length (or that neither exceed a specified number of words). Referred to Appellate Procedures Subcommittee.

89-8 Proposal would create a new Rule 195 to allow trial courts to hear and decide certain motions (which have been filed prior to a section 2-1009 motion for voluntary dismissal) when those motions, if favorably ruled on by the trial court, could result in a final disposition of the case or are based on plaintiffs' lack of due diligence.

89-9 Judge Peter F. Costa (Juvenile Division, Circuit Court of Cook County) recommends that Rule 323 be amended. Judge Costa feels that it is unreasonable, unrealistic and virtually impossible to expect a trial judge to be able to certify to the correctness of all reports of proceedings. Rules Committee feels that procedures now used in criminal cases should be followed in civil cases (and juvenile cases). See Rule 608(b).

89-10 The Conference of Chief Circuit Judges, in accordance with tradition, recommended to the Court that certain changes be made in Article V of the Supreme Court Rules. That Article deals with Trial Court Proceedings in Traffic and Conservation Offenses, Ordinance Offenses, Petty Offenses, and Certain Misdemeanors-Bail Schedules. The changes are offered following a study conducted by the Conference's Ad Hoc Committee on Article V. Adopted, eff. August 1, 1989.

89-11 Amend Rule 4-101(d)(4) to allow disclosure of confidences or secrets necessary to "establish a claim or defense on behalf of the lawyer in a controversy between the lawyer and the client," rather than "to establish or collect the lawyer's fee." This would place attorneys who are employed full-time by corporations in a position similar to attorneys in private practice when it comes to bringing an action for retaliatory discharge, for example, for refusing to perform acts the lawyer believes to be contrary to the code of ethics. Governor Thompson vetoed a Bill which would have created an Act allowing lawyers to sue for wrongful discharge.

89-12 Proposal to amend Rule 605 to allow a criminal defendant who pleads guilty but wishes to challenge only the sentence or the sentencing hearing to do so by filing a motion to modify the sentence, etc. within 30 days of the date of sentence, rather than requiring the defendant to move to vacate the plea of guilty. Basically dealt with by People v. Wilk. This proposal will be merged with proposal #89-8 (above) and will be considered by the Rules Committee at its earliest opportunity.

89-13 Would create a Rule 710, Physically Handicapped Practitioners, and establish telephone and mail communications, rather than personal appearances, as the acceptable standard for handicapped practitioners, unless the trial court specifically found that (because of the complexity or merits of the matter) personal appearance was required. Referred to Civil Procedures Subcommittee.

89-14 Recommendations by the ISBA that amendments be made to Rules 701, 704, 705, and 708 to clarify the considerations applicants for the Bar might be "entitled" to in view of the Court's opinion in In re Loss.

89-15 Proposal to adopt a new Rule 190 which would allow persons seeking relief under sections 2-615, 2-619 and 2-1005 of the Code of Civil Procedure to file combined motions seeking relief, but require them to state the grounds under each section separately and clearly.

89-16 Proposal to allow use of microcomputers in the courtroom. Referred to General Rules Subcommittee.

89-17 Proposal to allow court to direct that argument of motions or discussions of any other matters be by telephone conference, without a court appearance. Referred to Civil Procedures Subcommittee.

89-18 Proposal would eliminate claims for fees or costs for simply appearing to answer a citation under Rule 277. Would add the following to subparagraph (i) of Rule 277, immediately following the heading, Costs: "A party served with a citation shall not be entitled to a fee or costs for appearing and answering the citation. However, after a hearing or trial the court" may tax, etc.

89-19 Should Rule 39 be amended to specify the time schedule for circulating ballots in run-off elections following a tie vote? Apparently, some people (particularly losing candidates) believe that timing can be used to favor one candidate over another.

89-20 The proposal would create a rule governing the appointment of court experts of all sorts, not restricting the appointments to members of the medical profession, as does Rule 215(d).

89-21 This proposal would create a rule providing for a maximum mandatory retention period for court reporters' notes and would allow court reporters to store their notes electronically, if they are capable of doing so, on tape, cartridges, hard disks, or optical disks — rather than keeping the original paper notes that come out of the stenotype machine. The proposal would also deal with the question of who is entitled to order a transcript from a free lance reporter working in the courts, and whether one ordering a transcript from a free lance reporter would also be required to pay a portion of that reporter's appearance fee.

89-22 The Conference of Chief Circuit Judges is concerned that subpoenas duces tecum for documents which contain information that may be privileged, particularly when the documents are in the possession of one who does not, himself, have standing to invoke the privilege, can result in serious compromise of privileged information. The Rules Committee should study the possibility of creating procedures that insure that privileged information will not be revealed simply because of excessively permissive handling of issuance and return of subpoenas duces tecum.

89-23 In Deal v. Byford (1989), 127 Ill.2d 192, the Supreme Court stated that the scope of review would be limited to issues raised in the PLA. There is concern that this deviates from prior law and is not good policy. The purpose of the petition is to alert the Court to the fact that the case should be reviewed not to brief all the issues that might be resolved should the Court grant review. Recommend that subparagraph (g) [Briefs] of Rule 315 be amended by adding the following at its opening: "If leave to appeal is allowed, the appellant is not limited by the specification of grounds relied on for reversal in the petition for leave to appeal."

89-24 In view of the Court's 1966 holding in Chicago Bar Association v. Quinlan & Tyson, Inc., 34 Ill.2d 116, the Court should study the desirability and feasibility of enacting rules governing "legal" matters which may or may not be handled by persons who are not licensed to practice law.

89-25 In an article appearing on page 338 of the February, 1985 issue of the Illinois Bar Journal, Gilbert C. Schumm suggests that requests to admit are not, strictly speaking, discovery devices and suggests that the Illinois Supreme Court might want to give some consideration to amending its rules to clarify the exact status of such requests and the sanctions for their abuse or misuse.

89-26 If a circuit court rule requires the submission of a written, draft order in all cases but the trial judge does not expressly require "the submission of a form of written judgment to be signed by him" [see Rule 272], when is the judgment entered for purposes of Rules 272 and 303? In Davis v. Carbondale Elementary School Dist. No. 95, 170 Ill. App.3d 687, the court said that the judgment is entered at the time the judge entered his or her minute order, not when the written judgment order was signed. The Conference of Chief Circuit Judges feels that this ruling unnecessarily interferes with the circuit judges' power to control the recordkeeping requirements in the circuit courts.

89-27 Suggestion that the Supreme Court Rules should impose a time limitation on the filing of motions for summary judgment.

89-28 Proposal to adopt a new Rule 175, entitled "Class Actions." The rule would be based on the report and recommendations of the ABA's Section on Litigation which was adopted by the ABA in 1986. The proposal differs somewhat from the existing statute (sections 2-801 through 2-806 of the Code of Civil Procedure).

89-29 Suggestion that citations issued by the clerk to initiate a supplementary proceeding have the effect of an injunction, because the citation prevents any transfer or other disposition of non-exempt money. Because the citation is issued without notice or an opportunity to be heard, but merely upon oral request by claimant to clerk, the citation proceedings may be suspect under the constitutional guarantees cited in the Fuentes and Lugar cases.

89-30 Clarify the provisions concerning the time allowed to file a petition for review of final orders of the IPLRB, the ILLRB and the IELRB. The need to clarify this provision apparently arises only because the Fifth Division of the First District has said that the petitioner only has 30 days, whereas the statute and (until now) the rule had been interpreted to allow 35 days within which to file the petition.

89-31 Review the issue of substituted service in attorney discipline cases. Proposal approved. Public hearings held. Submitted to Supreme Court with recommendation that it be adopted.

89-32 The Judicial Inquiry Board recommends an amendment to Rule 62 which would prohibit a judge from allowing "political" relationships, as well as family, social or other relationships, from influencing his judicial conduct or judgment. Proposal rejected.

89-33 The Judicial Inquiry Board would like to see Rule 67 amended to make it clear that, even though a judge may himself or herself be a candidate for election or retention, a judge may engage in political activity only on his or her own behalf, not on behalf of any other candidate for political office. In addition, the Board would like to see the comments to Rule 62 amended to make it clear that a judge is very tightly restricted from offering character testimony and that "friendly" subpoenas will not be an excuse for such testimony.

89-34 The Probation Division of the AOIC requests that the Rules Committee consider recommending to the Supreme Court a new rule on pretrial release. The proposed rule was originally drafted by a special committee in 1978. The current interest in renewing this proposal comes about by reason of the General Assembly's finally approving some funding for a pretrial release program for Cook County.

COURT-ANNEXED ARBITRATION

Effective June 1, 1987, the Illinois Supreme Court adopted new Rules 86 through 95 authorizing the creation of mandatory court-annexed arbitration programs in the circuit courts and providing procedures for cases subject to such arbitration. Cases subject to mandatory arbitration are civil actions in which each claim is for money not exceeding $15,000, exclusive of interest and costs. The programs are jointly produced through the efforts and resources of the Supreme Court and the circuit courts. The programs are totally funded through the Supreme Court budget.

During 1989, only the 17th Circuit began the year with an inventory of pending cases, since the 18th and 19th Circuits commenced their operations several months into the year. The 17th Circuit began with 566 cases pending. In 1989, 790 cases were added, 793 cases were terminated, and 563 cases were pending at the end of the year. During 1989, the 18th Circuit added 2,549 cases, 1,590 cases were terminated, and 959 cases were pending at the end of the year. In 1989, the 19th Circuit added 767 cases, 382 cases were terminated, and 385 cases were pending at the end of the year.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS BY THE SUPREME COURT

Honorable Philip J. Rock, President

Honorable Michael J. Madigan, Speaker
House of Representatives of the State of Illinois
Capitol Building
Springfield, Illinois 62706

Gentlemen:

The following report is submitted in accordance with section 17 of the article VI of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which provides: "The Supreme Court shall provide by rule for an annual judicial conference to consider the work of the courts and to suggest improvements in the administration of justice and shall report thereon annually in writing to the General Assembly not later than January 31."

In making the suggestions contained in this and in prior reports, the Supreme Court is fully cognizant of the respective roles of the General Assembly and the courts, and does not intend to intrude upon the prerogatives of the General Assembly in determining what legislation should be enacted. It is gratifying, however, to note that the General Assembly over the years has acted to implement many of the suggestions made by the Court. I respectfully submit that the attached suggestions merit the consideration of the General Assembly.

Respectfully,

Thomas J. Moran

1989 ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPREME COURT TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

In our system of government, there are three separate and distinct branches, each possessing its own powers. The effectiveness of each branch, however, is dependent upon its interaction and cooperation with the other branches.

Recognizing this spirit of intergovernmental cooperation, the Supreme Court expresses a renewed commitment to work with the Legislative Branch, not only in identifying areas in need of continued examination, but also in perpetuating the successful Judicial Branch programs that the Legislature and the Governor have enacted in the state. Only with this commitment to communication and cooperation will the needs of Illinois be addressed.

SENTENCING ALTERNATIVES

The Judicial Branch is entrusted with the responsibility of imposing the most appropriate sentence upon those who are found guilty or plead guilty. However, the act of sentencing an individual is not synonymous with incarceration. The Unified Code of Corrections provides for a presumptive sentence of probation or conditional discharge for offenders unless certain factors are present; there exist practical alternatives to imprisonment under certain circumstances. In light of the current overcrowding of penal facilities nationwide, a closer examination to identify and expand non-incarceration sentencing alternatives is necessary.

In response to prison crowding pressures, the General Assembly and the Governor supported major changes in the state's probation system during 1983 and 1985. As a result, increased levels of service were provided to those sentenced to a term of probation. But as caseloads grew, state financial support for probation during fiscal years 1988 and 1989 remained essentially static. Funding in fiscal year 1990, in particular for the Grants-in-Aid appropriation line, is insufficient to maintain the level of services provided in the previous fiscal year. If probation services provided to the citizens of Illinois are to remain true to the underlying tenets of the reforms the General Assembly, the Governor and the judiciary fought so hard to initiate, sufficient funding will be needed in the coming year.

In addition to the enhancement of basic probation services, three alternative sentencing options which are currently being addressed on a limited scale by the circuit court probation departments in the state warrant further attention.

At the direction of the Supreme Court, the Administrative Office of the Courts has operated an intensive probation supervision (IPS) program in thirteen counties for five years. This highly structured, surveillance-oriented program designed especially for non-violent felony offenders is a cost-effective alternative that has helped to relieve prison overcrowding. The Judicial and the Legislative Branches need to expand existing programs and initiate new IPS programs.

To address the growing problem of individuals committing the offense of driving under the influence, several circuits have instituted a specialized DUI supervision program. The most significant aspect of this program is that the offender is referred to alcohol or drug counselling, education and treatment. This sentencing alternative is beneficial for two reasons: the driver is removed from the road and the source of the driver's problem is addressed by means of treatment for his alcohol or drug dependency.

Finally, an alternative sentencing option that has received increased support is the use of home confinement by means of an electronic device worn by the offender. During a term of home confinement, which usually accompanies a term of probation, the electronic equipment enables authorities to constantly monitor its wearer's movement in a less costly environment. Electronic monitoring has also been used for pretrial detention. The Supreme Court invites the General Assembly to authorize the expanded use of this alternative.

CASE ACTIVITY AND JUDICIAL WORKLOAD

On June 30, 1989, over 1,094,400 cases, excluding traffic, conservation, parking or ordinance violations, were pending in the state's trial courts. In the first six months of 1989, 1,967,503 cases were added to the trial court docket with 55% of the addition arising from the Circuit Court of Cook County. To dispose of cases in a timely manner, the circuit courts are adjudicating approximately 17,100 cases each court day, resulting in the number of cases terminated exceeding the number of cases added to the judicial docket by 4.8%.

As of September 1989, 8,301 cases were pending in the Illinois Appellate Court. Since 1984, when there were 5,744 cases awaiting judicial resolution, the five districts of the Appellate Court have seen a 44.5% increase in the number of cases pending.

WORK OF SUPREME COURT AND JUDICIAL CONFERENCE COMMITTEES

Of the committees that the Supreme Court designates to research particular topics, the activities of two are especially noteworthy. First, the Committee to Study the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission recommended several changes governing the disciplining of Illinois lawyers. These changes will help assure the public that the legal profession is being held to uniformly high standards of performance.

Second, the recommendations of the Committee on Post-Conviction Review of Death Sentences were enacted into law. Both state and federal funds have been obtained to establish a Post-Conviction Resource Center in the Office of the State Appellate Defender.

Section 17 of Article VI of the Constitution of Illinois provides for "an annual judicial conference to consider the work of the courts and to suggest improvements in the administration of justice". However, the work of the Conference is not limited to an annual convening. The committees and subcommittees of the Judicial Conference meet throughout the year to research areas of interest to the Judicial Branch, review activities of judicial participants, and compile reports which are given at the annual Judicial Conference. These proceedings are available upon request to any member of the General Assembly.

One committee of the Judicial Conference is the Study Committee on the Operation of the Judicial System. This committee examines the Illinois Judicial System, both in reference to other state court systems and American Bar Association standards. Another committee is the Subcommittee on Legislation of the Executive Committee of the Illinois Judicial Conference. This subcommittee was created to serve as a conduit through which all Illinois judges could propose legislation affecting the courts and the administration of justice, and also make recommendations to the Supreme Court on the merits of pending legislation.

CONFERENCE OF CHIEF CIRCUIT JUDGES

Pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 42, the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges meets monthly to consider matters relating to the administration of the circuit courts, as well as issues referred to it by the Supreme Court. Matters considered by the Conference include recent legislation both pending and enacted into law, procedural responsibilities involving recordkeeping and child support enforcement and problems involving court administration for which other circuits may have developed innovative techniques and solutions. In its capacity to disseminate information and reflect conditions statewide, the operation of the Conference is vital to the Illinois Judiciary.

STATE COURT FUNDING

The Judicial Article of the Illinois Constitution vests general administrative and supervisory authority over all courts with the Supreme Court. However, one vital aspect integral to the Supreme Court's authority continues to be missing from the Illinois system; county governments still hold the purse-strings for the funding of the circuit courts and circuit court support operations.

Currently, subsidies for probation and court services departments, as well as the salaries of trial judges, the chief judge's administrative assistant and official court reporters are funded with state resources. The state also provides limited stipends to the circuit court clerks.

The Supreme Court has taken the first step in a move toward full state funding of the Judicial Branch in Illinois by initiating a comprehensive study of the financing of the circuit court and the net costs to the state if it assumes total funding of the Judicial Branch. This study, conducted by the National Center for State Courts, has been completed and disseminated to legislative leaders and the Governor.

The time is ripe for Judicial and Legislative Branch leaders to take the next step and meet jointly to discuss the feasibility of funding the entire Judicial Branch with state resources.

TRIAL COURT ADMINISTRATION

In carrying out the responsibility to manage their own circuit operations, chief circuit judges are experiencing increasingly difficult managerial problems due to growing caseloads, the increased complexity of today's litigation and the demands on ancillary court services. In an effort to assist chief circuit judges in their administrative duties, the Supreme Court has established state funded trial court administration pilot programs in the First and Seventh Judicial Circuits. Several circuits, recognizing the benefits of modern court administration, have established and funded these positions locally.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE TO TRIAL AND APPELLATE COURTS

To aid in the distribution of information, the Supreme Court has directed its Administrative Office to dispatch project teams to the trial and reviewing courts where staff work on site with court officials to identify strengths and weaknesses of their operating systems. As a follow-up, written reports are provided which set forth findings, problem analyses and recommendations. To date, technical assistance efforts have focused primarily on recordkeeping procedures, automation, jury management, records management, data and word processing and court security.

Pilot sites have been established in three circuit courts and four probation departments to examine exemplary automated systems. Additional pilot sites have been established to evaluate bar coding as a means of data entry into case processing systems and direct access into court systems over telephone lines from computers in attorneys' offices. A major long-range initiative for the Supreme Court in the area of statewide automation initiatives is the establishment of statewide telecommunications networks that will link all of the courts in Illinois to a single system.

CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT

One area in which intergovernmental communication is benefiting the citizens of Illinois involves child support enforcement. The legislature, the judiciary and the Illinois Department of Public Aid are combining forces to enhance collection of delinquent child support payments.

Recently, the Supreme Court authorized a new rule enabling trial courts to improve procedures for setting and enforcing child support orders. Under Supreme Court Rule 296, clerks of the circuit court may monitor compliance with child support orders and seek court action where payment is in default. Four counties have petitioned the Court, a measure requiring joint application by the chief circuit judge and circuit court clerk, and are now approved to operate under the rule. The General Assembly is encouraged to provide funding to implement Rule 296 and related child support enforcement efforts in a limited number of jurisdictions.

New federal legislation, the Family Support Act of 1988, greatly increases the judiciary's role in child support enforcement. The law requires mandatory reassessment of the state's child support guidelines for all cases; mandatory review at three year intervals of all previously established child support orders for cases that fall under Title IV-D of the Social Security Act; and new paternity testing standards and provisions for a higher rate of federal reimbursement for blood testing of paternity cases. Congress is considering the consequences of extending the mandatory review of child support orders to include all cases whether or not under the Title IV-D program.

The Supreme Court continues to guide the Administrative Office's work with the Illinois Department of Public Aid in assessing current processes and recommending new models to improve enforcement. A quasi-judicial child support hearing officer model is being designed for consideration by the Supreme Court.

PRETRIAL SERVICES

Another growing problem in our state demanding intergovernmental discussion involves the implementation of pretrial service agencies. Without relief in the pretrial stages of the criminal justice process, local jails have become overcrowded. Public Act 84-1449 calls for such resources at the front end of the process by requiring each circuit court to establish pretrial services which will provide the court not only with accurate background data regarding the pretrial release of individuals charged with felonies, but also with effective supervision and compliance with terms and conditions imposed on release. In the fall of 1989, the General Assembly and the Governor approved limited funding to initiate pretrial services in Cook County. Additional funding for pretrial services in Cook County and initial funding in other jurisdictions is recommended.

INDIVIDUALIZED SERVICES AND PROGRAMS

The Individualized Services and Programs initiative, a major component of the 1985 probation reform legislation — Public Act 84-823, would provide state reimbursement for the purpose of treatment and intervention services for offenders sentenced to probation. This community-based correctional program facilitates the diversion of appropriate offenders from the state's prisons in an effort to relieve overcrowding. Discussions between the legislature and the judiciary are needed to re-establish this program as a funding priority.

DRUG RELATED ISSUES PRESENTED TO THE JUDICIARY

Over the past several years, there has been a significant increase in the number of drug related cases coming before the Illinois judiciary. Recent surveys suggest that up to 80% of the adult and juvenile probation population experience serious drug problems. Such a level of abuse has clear relevance to the success or failure under probation supervision and to the likely commission of future crimes.

In order to properly address this problem, drug initiatives should be viewed from a systems perspective. Expanding arrest capacity will require expanded court capacity, including judges, clerks, court reporters, and probation officers. We also renew our recommendation to the General Assembly for additional resources for treatment services to substance abusers. Funds going into screening and urinalysis are but partial investments when there are no treatment programs in which to place the drug abuser. Finally, we urge active, state-level coordination between the Executive and the Judicial Branch on the expenditure of these funds.

MANAGEMENT OF MENTALLY ILL AND MENTALLY RETARDED OFFENDERS

In response to the Report of the Illinois Mentally Retarded and Mentally Ill Offender Task Force, the Supreme Court, through the Administrative Office, is participating in joint initiatives with agencies of the Executive Branch and the circuit courts to develop procedures and programs for the adjudication and management of mentally ill and mentally retarded offenders. This ongoing program, initiated in three counties, will continue for the next two fiscal years.

VICTIMS' RIGHTS

One of the most significant and promising trends within the criminal justice system in recent years is the growing public awareness of the impact of criminal activity on the victims of crimes. The need exists for the legislature and the judiciary to attend to the issue of victims' rights, specifically the increased imposition of restitution requirements on offenders, improved collection of restitution imposed and increased sensitivity to victims of crime.

JUVENILE JUSTICE INITIATIVE

In response to concerns voiced about the detention of juveniles in adult facilities and other juvenile justice problems, the Supreme Court will direct the efforts of the Administrative Office in developing juvenile detention intake screening criteria and program standards, designing and delivering specialized training programs for juvenile court personnel, developing a juvenile probation case management and classification system and enhancing alternatives to incarceration for juvenile offenders.

DATA COLLECTION AND STATISTICAL REPORTING

Over the past year, the Supreme Court has been working to analyze data and present the information to criminal justice agencies and the public. The Planning, Research, and Special Projects Division of the Supreme Court's Administrative Office studied the prevalence of drug abuse by both adult and juvenile probationers in Illinois. This study captured national attention. A Supreme Court Statistical Review Committee has prepared a detailed report for the Supreme Court's review. Adoption of recommendations of this committee is expected to result in the collection and use of vastly improved management information.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

While the Supreme Court is proud of the activities of its committees and Judicial Branch staff throughout the state, none of these accomplishments could be possible without adequate training and education for Judicial Branch participants. Continuing education is vital to sharpen the skills of individuals who serve the public, as well as to improve the knowledge and expertise of our own court personnel who train their colleagues.

Two particularly noteworthy improvements provided in the past year included performance appraisal training for administrative, management and supervisory levels of probation departments where criteria based performance appraisal is mandatory, as well as administration training for chief judges, court administrators, clerks and administrative assistants.

CENTRAL LEGAL RESEARCH

In 1988, the Supreme Court established within the Administrative Office a pilot central legal research program to serve the trial judges in the circuits within the Fifth Judicial District. This service, implemented within existing resources, assists judges' decision-making responsibility, saves trial judges some of the time they would otherwise spend researching difficult questions of law and provides judges with access to legal source materials not readily available to them in local law libraries.

MANDATORY COURT-ANNEXED ARBITRATION

As initiated by the Supreme Court, court-annexed arbitration of minor civil damage claims is the state's first full-scale use of alternative dispute resolution techniques. Arbitration operates with two principal goals in mind: speedier disposition of cases and lower cost to litigants than current case processing methods offer. Cases subject to arbitration are those civil actions where the claim is not in excess of $15,000.

The state's first mandatory court-annexed arbitration program has been in operation in the 17th Judicial Circuit for two full years. From the onset of this program, approximately 89% of the cases processed through this system were terminated within six months of filing, usually prior to the scheduled arbitration hearing. Of the 11% that required an arbitration hearing, more than three quarters were terminated at that stage of the process and only four cases actually went to trial in the circuit court.

Given the success of this initial pilot, the Supreme Court authorized the expansion of mandatory arbitration in Lake and DuPage Counties during fiscal year 1989. Expansion to the Circuit Court of Cook County will be a priority in fiscal year 1990 in light of the additional resources granted to the Supreme Court by the General Assembly and the Governor during the Fall legislative session.

EVALUATIONS

One of the more comprehensive evaluation reports of Judicial Branch initiatives is the two-year Evaluation of the Mandatory Arbitration Program in Winnebago County. The Winnebago Mandatory Arbitration Evaluation was conducted by staff of the Sangamon State University's Center for Legal Studies. Similar evaluation contracts, employing the same methodology, are in place for the mandatory arbitration programs in Lake and DuPage Counties. The recently funded arbitration program in Cook County will also be fully evaluated.

An evaluation report has also been prepared for the Centralized Legal Research initiative. For assessment of the program, judges receiving legal memoranda evaluated the quality and timeliness of the legal research. On a scale of 1 to 5, 5 being the highest, judges have given an average rating of 4.8 to the quality of service to date. Evaluations are also conducted for all training programs implemented by the Judicial Education Division of the Supreme Court's Administrative Office. These evaluations are very useful in identifying areas for which additional information may be needed on particular topics as well as improvements in program offerings.

Copies of all these evaluations will be provided to legislative leaders and members of the Appropriations and Judiciary Committees. The evaluation reports will also be provided to any other legislator upon request.

INFORMATION SERVICES

The Supreme Court is also conscious of its role in effectively communicating and presenting information for audiences both within and outside the Illinois Judicial Branch. Accordingly, several publications are prepared and disseminated to members of the judiciary and the public.

One such report is the Findings series which details specific information on topics relating to the Illinois judiciary. Another is the publication of the Circuit Court Caseload Summaries which details the number of cases added, terminated, and still pending on the state's judicial docket. A similar report, Circuit Court Calendar Management, estimates the number of months an average case takes to be adjudicated and the percentage and types of cases on the state's judicial backlog. In addition, the statutorily required Report to the General Assembly on the Use of Eavesdropping is prepared annually.

CONCLUSION

In addition to the initiatives discussed here, the Supreme Court has identified in cases it and the appellate court have considered, and in its role as supervisor of the Judicial Branch of government, several matters which merit legislative attention and action. Our suggestions are presented in detail in the attached list of legislative recommendations.

The Supreme Court of Illinois looks forward to working with the General Assembly in bringing about improved communication and cooperation between the branches of government.

LEGISLATIVE RECOMMENDATIONS

SECTION I — NEW SUGGESTIONS

1. In In re Estate of Longeway (1989), 133 Ill. 2d 33, the incompetent patient, now 76 years of age and a resident of a nursing facility, suffered a series of strokes and other illnesses, starting in 1976, which eventually rendered her unconscious. She has lost all personality, memory, purposeful action, social interaction, thought and emotion because of severe brain damage, although she is not medically "brain dead"; her prognosis is very poor and neurological damage is so extensive that she will never regain consciousness; she cannot communicate but opens her eyes and responds to verbal commands and painful stimuli; she breathes without assistance. The patient requires a surgically implanted gastrostomy to receive food and water, as she cannot chew or swallow. On several occasions, while she was still conscious and competent, the patient indicated that she did not wish to be kept alive by a machine or device and would rather die naturally than linger. These matters were alleged in a petition brought by the patient's guardian in which the guardian sought court approval to withdraw the gastrostomy tube from the patient. The patient had not executed a living will (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 110 1/2, par. 701 et seq.) or a health care power of attorney (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 110 1/2, par. 804-1 et seq.). The issue before the Supreme Court was whether the guardian of an incompetent, seriously ill patient may exercise a right to refuse artificial nutrition and hydration on behalf of the ward. After examining court decisions from other jurisdictions, medical and ethics treatises, and pertinent Illinois case and statutory law, the Court concluded that "we find [in this case] a right to refuse life-sustaining medical treatment in our State's common law and in [Illinois statutory probate law]" (133 Ill. 2d at 44), that "[w]e  hold that in Illinois, the common law right to refuse medical treatment includes, under appropriate circumstances, artificial nutrition and hydration" (133 Ill. 2d at 45), and that "[w]e  hold that a guardian may exercise the right to refuse artificial sustenance on behalf of a ward in accordance with [guidelines]" (133 Ill. 2d at 46). The Court then spelled out the guidelines which courts must follow "[u]ntil [there is] legislative action directing otherwise." 133 Ill. 2d at 55.

   The Court's opinion, however, and the dissenting opinions (133 Ill. 2d at 55-65), (Ward, J., dissenting); 133 Ill. 2d at 65-97 (Clark, J., dissenting) frequently point out that the "role of the judiciary in this area is an uncertain one" (133 Ill. 2d at 39) and that the "legislature is the appropriate forum for the ultimate resolution of the questions surrounding the right to die" (133 Ill. 2d at 53). The legislature is in a better position than are the courts to resolve the sensitive issues presented in cases of this kind, and the Court, like most other courts that have pondered these issues, "invite[s] the legislature to address this problem." 133 Ill. 2d at 53.

2. In Webb v. Webb (1989), 180 Ill. App. 3d 619, the plaintiff sought to satisfy a workers' compensation award against an insolvent corporate employer, which had failed to obtain workers' compensation insurance or qualify as a self-insurer, by seeking a money judgment against an officer and principal shareholder of the corporation. In affirming the circuit court's dismissal of the complaint against the corporate officer, the appellate court first noted that the Workers' Compensation Act (see Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 48, par. 138.19(g)) permits a claimant to obtain a judgment on a workers' compensation award but does not allow judgments to be obtained against parties not named in the original workers' compensation claim. After discussing why the plaintiff failed to allege that the insolvent corporation was the defendant's alter ego, the court declined to find a cause of action by the plaintiff against the officers and directors based upon their failure to comply with the Workers' Compensation Act. In doing so, the appellate court stated that "[w]e agree, however, with the courts of those jurisdictions which have held, in the absence of legislation such as that in Michigan [holding officers and directors individually liable for any workers' compensation judgment returned unsatisfied after execution against the corporation], that any alteration in the legislative scheme of the Workers' Compensation Act should come from the legislature and not piecemeal by the courts." (180 Ill. App. 3d at 623.) The General Assembly should study the effect on relief provided by the Workers' Compensation Act when an insolvent corporation fails to comply with the Act's requirements.

3. In Madlener v. Finley (1989), 128 Ill. 2d 147, the plaintiff brought suit seeking to recover interest on money deposited with the clerk of the circuit court in an interpleader action. The Supreme Court ruled that a circuit clerk does not have a common law fiduciary duty to invest in interest-bearing accounts a litigant's funds deposited with the clerk pursuant to court order. The Court reiterated the principle "that a clerk of court's duty to hold litigants' funds is created and controlled by the circuit court." (128 Ill. 2d at 153.) Absent a rule of court or statute, certain persons are not entitled to interest on funds which have been held by a public official; moreover, noting that interest is a creature of statute, the Court cited other cases holding that, absent statutory authority for interest, interest-bearing funds may not be established. (128 Ill. 2d at 153-54.) A judge may order the circuit clerk to deposit the funds in an interest-bearing account. However, the fund then becomes a fund of the court. No constitutional or statutory provision governs a clerk of court's duty to hold litigants' funds. The General Assembly should study whether funds deposited with clerks of court should, absent a court order directing otherwise, be held in an interest-bearing account.

4. Section 25-10 of the Election Code, as amended by Public Act 86-875 (eff. September 8, 1989), provides that when a vacancy occurs in the office of clerk of the circuit court, the circuit judges of that circuit shall make an appointment "to fill the vacancy until the next general election, at which time a clerk of the circuit court shall be elected for the balance of the unexpired term or for a full term, as the case may be.  The Circuit Judges may appoint a Clerk Pro Tempore for whatever period is necessary while reviewing the qualifications of candidates for appointment to the office." (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 46, par. 25-10, as amended by Public Act 86-875.) The language of section 25-10 has been questioned by some circuit clerks and election authorities as to when, depending upon circumstances, a vacancy filled by appointment must be filled by election. It is noted that section 25-11 of the Election Code (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 46, par. 25-11), applicable to elected county officers and therefore inapplicable to circuit clerks who are nonjudicial officers of the judicial branch of State government (Drury v. County of McLean (1982), 89 Ill. 2d 417), specifies with particularity the number of months remaining in the term of the vacated office which will determine at which general election the vacancy will be filled. The General Assembly should consider clarifying section 25-10 of the Election Code as to at which general election a vacancy in the office of circuit court clerk must be filled when the vacancy occurs in "mid-term."

5. Section 1-2-9.1 of the Illinois Municipal Code was added by Public Act 81-704 (eff. January 1, 1980) (1979 Ill. Laws 2607) and now provides in part that in municipal ordinance violation cases, punishable by a fine not exceeding $500, "service of summons may be by certified mail, return receipt requested" (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 24, par. 1-2-9.1). The statute is silent concerning who is to mail process. Although Supreme Court Rule 284 allows the circuit clerk to mail process by certified mail in small claim cases, municipal ordinance violations are not within the civil actions contemplated by the small claim rules. (See City of Danville v. Hartshorn (1971), 131 Ill. App. 2d 999, aff'd in part and rev'd in part (1973), 53 Ill. 2d 399.) The General Assembly should study whether section 1-2-9.1 of the Code should be clarified as to who is responsible for mailing process.

6. The Open Meetings Act requires that meetings of public bodies, including county boards, be public meetings; however, the Act provides a lengthy list of exceptions. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 102, par. 41.02; Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 102, par. 42.) One such exception in section 2 of the Act concerns meetings of certain public bodies relating to security and safety; the provision exempts "meetings at public institutions of higher education relating to campus security or to the safety of staff and students and meetings at public institutions of higher education and of school boards of public school districts to respond to actual danger to the safety of students, staff and school premises, including discussion of emergency security procedures and the utilization of personnel and equipment to respond to such danger" (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 102, par. 42(e), as amended by Public Act 86-727 (eff. September 1, 1989)). Another provision exempts portions of meetings of law enforcement agencies when concerned with informant sources, and the hiring of undercover personnel, purchase of undercover autos or "any budgetary considerations specifically" related thereto (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 102, par. 42(g)).

   In recent years, principally due to tragic and even fatal occurrences, courthouse security in Illinois has become a major concern of judges, court attaches, attorneys, litigants and the public who either work at or frequent the courthouse. Matters pertaining to the courthouse, including its security, are the principal responsibility of the county board and sheriff. (See, e.g., Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 34, par. 432, and ch. 125, par. 14; Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 34, par. 429.31, and ch. 125, par. 19.) Meetings of the county board at which courthouse security or budget considerations pertaining thereto are considered do not appear to be an exception that is provided for in the Open Meetings Act, although, as noted above, "schoolhouse" security and budget considerations relating to certain criminal undercover operations are. The General Assembly should consider whether section 2 of the Open Meetings Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 102, par. 42) should expressly include within the exception proviso meetings, or portions thereof, of public bodies when considering courthouse security or budget matters relating thereto.

7. The term "probation" as used in Illinois criminal law is defined as "a sentence  of conditional or revocable release under the supervision of a probation officer" (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 1005-1-18; see also Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 102-18). The sentence is the disposition imposed upon a convicted defendant and is included as part of the court's judgment (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, pars. 1005-1-12, 1005-1-19; see also Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, pars. 102-14, 102-20). While the term "probation" has a clear meaning under Illinois' general law of criminal procedure and sentencing — the Code of Criminal Procedure of 1963 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 101-1 et seq.) and Unified Code of Corrections (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 1001-1-1 et seq.) — and is understood, the same cannot be said when the legislature uses the term, undefined, in other statutory enactments.

For example, both the Cannabis Control Act in section 10 and Illinois Controlled Substances Act in section 410 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 56 1/2, pars. 710, 1410), the so-called first offender probation statutes, permit "a sentence to probation" which, while undefined in both Acts, is clearly not a sentence of probation as defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure and Unified Code of Corrections. (See People v. DuMontelle (1978), 71 Ill. 2d 157.) Tracking the language of the above-named Acts, Public Act 86-829 (eff. January 1, 1990) enacts the Steroid Control Act which, in section 10, also has a first offender probation provision (to be codified at Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 56 1/2, par. 2310). In addition, there are different "probation" provisions in other acts which, like the above-named three Acts, clearly neither use the term "probation", as it is defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure and Unified Code of Corrections, nor provide a definition within the context of the particular act. (See, e.g., Illinois Alcoholism and Other Drug Dependency Act in section 10-102 (treatment as condition of "probation") (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 111 1/2, par. 6360-2, as amended by Public Act 86-848 (eff. September 7, 1989)), and People v. Teschner (1980), 81 Ill. 2d 187 (construing term "probation" used in predecessor act); see also Criminal Code of 1961 in section 12-4.3(b) (aggravated battery of child) (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 38, par. 12-4.3(b), as amended by Public Act 86-575 (eff. January 1, 1990).) The General Assembly is invited to examine the named statutory "probation" provisions and any other similar provisions, with a view of substituting another term, defined, for the word "probation", or, at a minimum, providing a definition of the term "probation" peculiar to the particular act or statute.

8. In this annual report, the Supreme Court suggests again that the legislature re-examine the provisions of certain acts which provide for direct review of administrative agency decisions in the appellate court, with a view toward providing uniform direct review procedures that correspond with Supreme Court Rule 335. The Court infra refers, in passing, to Public Act 86-412 (eff. August 30, 1989).

   Public Act 86-412 amends the Illinois Public Labor Relations Act (IPLRA), in section 11(g) (unfair labor practice procedures), and the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Act (IELRA), in section 16(c) (judicial review). (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 48, pars. 1611(g), 1716(c), as amended by Public Act 86-412.) The public act, in amending section 11(g) of IPLRA and section 16(c) of IELRA, essentially provides that where a final order of the respective labor relations board is alleged to have been violated (see section 11(f) of IPLRA and section 16(b) of IELRA), the board commences an action to compel compliance in the appropriate appellate court district. Prior to the amendment the compliance action was filed in the appropriate circuit court. Because the trial courts are, by their nature, better equipped to hear and determine the factual disputes which give rise to the alleged violation of a board's order that may result in imposition of sanctions for contempt (see, for example, In re Peasley (1989), 189 Ill. App.3d 865, where in an original proceeding in the appellate court for contempt court had to apply trial court procedures), sections 11(g) and 16(c) should be returned to their pre-amendment state that such matters be heard and determined in the circuit court rather than in the appellate court.

9. There is currently no clear delineation of responsibility as to which agency or level of government is responsible for assuring that educational resources are provided to minors who are held in juvenile detention facilities within the state. While state regulations require that educational opportunities be made available to such minors, the fourteen juvenile detention facilities within the state fund these services from a variety of sources including the school district in which the facility is located, the regional superintendent of schools and the county general revenue budget, with partial state reimbursement from the Supreme Court. This approach has resulted in an unevenness and inconsistency in the level of educational services among the detention facilities. An example of this problem is that four of these facilities provide only half-day instruction to detained minors.

   Recently enacted legislation has added to this problem by increasing the number of minors detained in the existing facilities. Legislation was enacted in 1989, which amends section 5-3 of the Juvenile Court Act of 1987 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 37, par. 805-3) to prohibit the holding of delinquent minors in county jails. This change causes minors previously detained in county jails to be transported to those counties which operate juvenile detention facilities. This increase in the populations of juvenile detention facilities has resulted in detention facilities further reducing the educational services offered to detained minors.

   The legislature is invited to study this problem and to seek solutions which will address the educational needs of minors who are held in juvenile detention facilities.

10. The counties in each judicial circuit other than circuits composed of a single county are required by sections 3.2 and 3.3 of "An Act concerning fees and salaries " (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 53, pars. 3.2, 3.3) to "reimburse the State Treasury for each additional $500 salary paid to judges of their Circuit Courts". The statutes require the Supreme Court to compute the amount of such payments and to apportion them among counties in accordance with their respective populations compared with the total population of all counties within the same circuit.

    In carrying out this provision the Supreme Court's staff must compute, prorate and complete the billing of the counties within a very limited time. The computation cannot be completed until the December payroll is processed.

Counties are required by statute to make the reimbursement to the Supreme Court by January 31 of the year following the year of such payments. This allows no more than 20 working days for the county board to pass a resolution authorizing payment and to remit the payment to the Supreme Court. The legislature is urged to amend sections 3.2 and 3.3 to provide for a longer time period for the completion of the required computation, proration and billing as well as remittance by the counties required to make such payments.

11. Under present law, a defendant's fitness to stand trial may be determined initially by a judge or a jury. Either side may demand a jury prior to the commencement of the trial. However, when the issue of fitness is raised after a trial has begun or at the sentencing stage, the determination shall be made by the court (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 104-12). The right to have a jury trial in a hearing to determine fitness is based on statute. The Supreme Court of Illinois stated in People v. Brown (1969), 43 Ill. 2d 79, that "[t]he right to trial by jury guaranteed by the sixth amendment to the Federal Constitution and by section 5 of Article II of our Constitution does not extend to a hearing to determine the competency of a defendant to stand trial." (43 Ill. 2d at 81). Cf. People v. Shadowens (1969), 44 Ill. 2d 70.

    Because no constitutional rights have been found to be involved in this matter, the legislature might explore providing by statute for all determinations of competency to be made by the court.

12. It would seem that there are few public policy matters more fundamental to a citizen's social rights, duties and responsibilities than jury duty. Judges have noted the fact that employers have discharged citizens who have missed time from their jobs while fulfilling their obligation of serving on juries.

    Section 4.1 of "An Act concerning jurors " and section 10.1 of "An Act in relation to jury commissioners " provide in part that: "Any person who is not legally disqualified to serve on juries, has been duly summoned for jury duty for either petit or grand jury service  shall be given time off from employment to serve upon the jury .  No employer shall discharge an employee for taking time off for jury duty as provided in this Section, if such employee, prior to taking such time off, gives reasonable notice to his employer that he is required to so serve" (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 78, pars. 4.1, 33.1). Neither section provides a penalty or remedy for violation of the statute.

    It is suggested that the legislature study the problem of the employee/juror who is discharged by his or her employer in retaliation for being called to jury duty.

13. The legislature is requested to consider amending those statutes which provide limitations on the salaries to be paid to administrative assistants to chief circuit judges and court reporter administrative and support personnel.

    Consideration should be given to deleting those provisions in statutes (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 37, pars. 72.4-1, 654.1) which establish such statutory limitations. The Supreme Court has directed its Administrative Office to include the administrative assistants to chief circuit judges and the court reporter administrative and support personnel in the job classification and compensation system developed for the Judicial Branch.

    There appear to be conflicts between the existing statutory limitations on the salaries of these employee groups and the proposed provisions of the classification and compensation system which deals with these employees. Moreover, the current salary levels and the maximum compensation for these same employee groups are technically not consistent with the previously referenced statutory provisions.

SECTION II — CONTINUING LEGISLATIVE CONCERNS

1. Although Illinois has had a constitutionally unified court system since 1964, an acknowledged model in structure and organization, how the system is funded is a relic of a bygone era. While the reviewing courts and their allied operations are funded out of State appropriations, the circuit courts — the busiest courts in the State — must still depend upon the counties to fund most of their operations. Presently, the State pays the salaries of trial judges, the chief judge's administrative assistant, official court reporters, two trial court administrators, and some six administrative personnel located in DuPage, Lake and Winnebago Counties who assist in administering the court-annexed mandatory arbitration programs, and provides a subsidy to counties for the operation of probation and court services departments. The counties, on the other hand, are responsible for funding all other circuit court operations, including the circuit clerks' offices, ranging from pencil and paper purchases to courthouse construction and renovation, although in a very limited way electronic data processing hardware and software paid for out of State appropriations are made available to a small number of circuit clerks' offices and probation departments.

    The circuit courts of Illinois are State courts and their funding should come from appropriations made by the General Assembly. The legislature should study State funding of the operations of the circuit courts. The Supreme Court notes that it has provided the General Assembly with a study, commissioned by the Court, which details the actual cost of operating all Illinois courts, including the circuit courts, and puts the additional cost to the State at about $280 million if the State assumes the cost of fully funding the circuit courts.

2. The nonjudicial function of circuit judges appointing commissioners of boards of election commissioners in municipalities having such boards (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 46, par. 6-21) should be removed from the judiciary and placed in some nonjudicial body. Not only does section 6-21 of the Election Code impose a nonjudicial function on judges but it also tends to involve them in political matters that can be better addressed by nonjudicial officials.

3. The 83rd and 84th General Assemblies passed a number of bills which were enacted into law and legislatively imposed additional duties upon judges. (See Public Acts 83-1517 ("speedy adjudicatory hearings"), 84-7 (medical malpractice review panels, found unconstitutional in Bernier v. Burris (1986), 113 Ill. 2d 219), 84-272 ("judicial driving permit" hearings) and 84-696 ("duty judge" for domestic violence actions).) The 85th General Assembly passed several bills which were enacted into law and increased the number of appellate, circuit, and associate judges. (See Public Acts 85-865 (appellate judges) and 85-866 (circuit and associate judges); see also Public Act 85-903 (amending Public Acts 85-865 and 85-866).) In no instance did the legislature, when considering these bills which ultimately became law, require that a judicial note be submitted by the Supreme Court assessing the impact of the legislation upon the judicial system or the number of judges needed. (See Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 63, par. 42.61 et seq.) The legislature should invoke the "Judicial Note Act" whenever the purpose or effect of a bill is to directly or indirectly increase the number of judges in Illinois.

4. The 1970 Illinois Constitution allows, as did the 1962 judicial article amendment to the 1870 Constitution, the appellate court, as provided by law, to directly review administrative actions. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 6.) Effective July 1, 1970, the Environmental Protection Act provides for direct review in the appellate court of orders of the Pollution Control Board. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 111 1/2, par. 1041.) Effective July 1, 1971, Supreme Court Rule 335 was adopted and provides procedures for direct review in the appellate court of administrative orders. (See, generally, Ill. Ann. Stat., ch. 110A, par. 335, Committee Comments and Historical and Practice Notes, at 467-69 (Smith-Hurd 1985).) Since the Environmental Protection Act became law, the legislature has provided for direct appellate court review of certain orders of six more administrative bodies. (See Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 46, par. 9-22 (State Board of Elections); Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 48, pars. 1611, 1716, as amended by Public Act 86-412 (eff. August 30, 1989) (Illinois State, Illinois Educational and Illinois Local Labor Relations Boards); Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 68, par. 8-111 (Human Rights Commission); Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 111 2/3, par. 10-201 (Illinois Commerce Commission); see also Ill. Ann. Stat., ch. 110A, par. 335, Committee Comments and Supp. to Historical and Practice Notes, at 43-44 (Smith-Hurd Supp. 1989).) In Consumers Gas Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission (1986), 144 Ill. App. 3d 229, the appellate court found certain procedural provisions for direct review in the Public Utilities Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1985, ch. 111 2/3, pars. 10-201, 10-204) to be violative of Rule 335 and therefore unconstitutional. (See also County of Cook v. Illinois Local Labor Relations Board (1989), 189 Ill. App. 3d 1057, leave to appeal pending, No. 69644.) The legislature should re-examine the direct review provisions of that Act, as well as the direct review provisions of other acts, with a view toward providing uniform direct review procedures which correspond with Rule 335, like that recently done for direct appeals to the appellate court from orders of the Human Rights Commission (see Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 68, par. 8-111).

5. The alarming extent of disregard for court-ordered support obligations to children and former spouses is shameful, and morally and legally unacceptable and intolerable. Legislatures, both nationally and at the State level, have responded by enacting statutes which put "teeth" into the enforcement of court-ordered child and former spouse support. The Illinois General Assembly is no exception: it has taken a leadership role in the enforcement efforts. Too, the Supreme Court of Illinois has been in the forefront of suggesting legislative solutions to the enforcement problem. (See annual reports of Supreme Court to General Assembly (January 31, 1975, 1978, and 1980).) The Court, very recently, took another step to provide effective enforcement of court-ordered support payments. Supreme Court Rule 296, effective February 1, 1989, requires that all payments made pursuant to court orders for support must be made to and through the circuit court clerk; the requirement cannot be waived by the court or parties. The rule will be effective in those counties, subject to Supreme Court approval, where the circuit court clerk and chief circuit judge agree to implement it. The rule provides comprehensive and detailed procedures which should vastly improve the timely receipt of court-ordered support payments by children and former spouses.

   The Court has approved implementation of Rule 296 in the circuit courts of Wayne County (2nd Circuit), De Witt, Douglas and Piatt Counties (6th Circuit), and Morgan County (7th Circuit). These counties will assume the operating costs of the Rule 296 programs. However, as the Court noted last year, modest State funding for circuit clerk personnel and equipment to implement the programs, on an experimental basis, is needed. Fiscal support from the General Assembly is an important ingredient in the experimental implementation of Supreme Court Rule 296.

6. Sections 11-207, 11-208 and 20-204 of the Illinois Vehicle Code (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 95 1/2, pars. 11-207, 11-208, 20-204), as well as other statutory provisions, authorize "local authorities" (e.g., political subdivisions of the State, municipalities, etc.) to enact local traffic ordinances and regulations. The circuit court clerks, and the Secretary of State in particular, report that there is wide disparity in the local authorities' traffic ordinance numbering systems; as a consequence of this lack of uniformity, the clerks and Secretary have difficulty in discharging their statutory reporting and report-collection duties with regard to determining, by a mere examination of the traffic ticket which cites the local ordinance violated, the "comparability" of the local ordinance with the Illinois Vehicle Code offense. The Illinois Judicial Conference executive committee and its legislative subcommittee, as well as a subcommittee of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges, believe that the General Assembly should study whether the appropriate provisions of the Illinois Vehicle Code and any other relevant statutory provisions should provide that local traffic ordinances use numbering systems permitting manual and computer recognition of comparable State-law offenses.

7. Section 9, article I, of the Illinois Constitution was amended, effective November 25, 1986, by excepting from release on bail persons who are charged with felony offenses punishable by a mandatory prison sentence, when the court, after a hearing, determines that release of the person would pose a real and present threat to any person's physical safety. Section 9 was amended further to provide, "Any costs accruing to a unit of local government as a result of the denial of bail pursuant to the 1986 Amendment to this Section shall be reimbursed by the State to the unit of local government." (Ill. Const. 1970, art. I, sec. 9 (1986).) Public Act 85-892 (eff. November 4, 1987) implements amended section 9. (See Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, pars. 110-1, 110-4, 110-18; Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 38, par. 110-6.1.) It provides, inter alia, that the "Supreme Court shall reimburse, from funds appropriated to it by the General Assembly", the counties at the rate of $50 a day for each day that a person is detained in the custody of the sheriff because he or she was denied bail for a mandatory prison offense. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 110-18.) There are two concerns about the "reimbursement provision" of the new law. First, the General Assembly has not appropriated any funds from which the counties can be reimbursed. Second, and more importantly, the new provision places the reimbursement responsibility in the judicial branch of government, the Supreme Court, even though the responsibility is a fiscal one having no relationship to the judicial system. It would appear that such a reimbursement function is better reposed in an executive branch law enforcement or fiscal agency.

8. On three occasions within the last 11 years, the Supreme Court has urged the General Assembly to implement recommendations concerning the administration of bail in Illinois that were promulgated by a study committee of the Illinois Judicial Conference. (See annual reports of Supreme Court to General Assembly (January 31, 1979 and 1982; February 26, 1986).) The General Assembly responded favorably, and recently, effective July 1, 1987, provided in "An Act in relation to pretrial services" for the creation at the circuit court level of pretrial services agencies. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 301 et seq.) The agencies are charged with gathering accurate background data regarding pretrial release of persons charged with felonies and with supervising compliance with the terms and conditions on release. The Supreme Court is to pay the operational costs of these agencies. Very recently the General Assembly appropriated $1.1 million to the Supreme Court for a pretrial services program in the circuit court of Cook County. (See Public Act 86-956 (eff. December 5, 1989).) However, while the legislature has mandated that all circuit courts establish pretrial services agencies, it has not appropriated the required funds for the circuit courts outside Cook County and, consequently, such agencies have not been established in those circuit courts. The General Assembly should appropriate funds so that pretrial services agencies may be established and become operational in all circuit courts.

9. The statutes permitting use of eavesdropping devices (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 108A-1 et seq.; Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 38, par. 108B-1 et seq.) have been the subject of a number of Annual Reports of the Supreme Court to the General Assembly. (See annual reports dated January 31, 1984 and 1985, February 26, 1986, February 25, 1987, February 10, 1988, and January 27, 1989.) Public Act 86-391 (eff. August 30, 1989) appears to have addressed the concerns raised in the prior reports, save one. Section 108B-13 of the Code of Criminal Procedure of 1963 requires eavesdropping reports to be filed with the Supreme Court's administrative office by the chief judge and state's attorney, and requires further that the administrative office file an annual report with the General Assembly. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 38, pars. 108B-13(a), (b), (d).) These reporting and report-collection responsibilities are better reposed in an executive branch law enforcement agency only. (Public Act 86-391, in amending section 108A-11 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 108A-11), transferred the annual report requirements from the Supreme Court to the Department of State Police.) At the very least, the section 108B-13 reporting requirements should track section 108A-11 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 38, par. 108A-11): the references to the Supreme Court's administrative office should be changed to "Supreme Court"; the chief judge or circuit or associate judge should not be required to file reports; the information required to be included in the state's attorney's annual report should be reduced as should the information required in the administrative office's annual report. To be noted is that the report and report collection responsibilities reposed in the administrative office by section 108B-13 (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1988 Supp., ch. 38, par. 108B-13) could be deleted and those responsibilities would still be discharged by the Governor and Department of State Police, according to section 108B-13.

10. Section 11-117-4 of the Illinois Municipal Code (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 24, par. 11-117-4) and section 3-105 of the Public Utilities Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 111 2/3, par. 3-105) should be amended to provide that rates charged to customers outside of a municipality by a water utility owned or owned and operated by a municipal corporation shall be determined by the Illinois Commerce Commission rather than by agreement of the parties or by the circuit court if there is no agreement. (See Inland Real Estate Corp. v. Village of Palatine (1982), 107 Ill. App. 3d 279, appeal after remand (1986), 146 Ill. App. 3d 92.) In any event, fixing of utility rates should be the responsibility of agencies which possess special expertise and not the courts.

11. In In re Estate of Cooper (1988), 125 Ill. 2d 363, the minor, who had sustained injuries in a traffic accident, brought a personal injury suit, and the suit was settled. The settlement agreement was structured to pay, from an annuity purchased by an insurer, the minor or his estate if he does not survive $46,758 in 1998, $99,915 in 2005, and $140,136 in 2010. The nonprofit hospital which treated the minor for his traffic injuries filed a petition to adjudicate its $57,252 lien against the minor's estate to cover the cost of his treatment. "An Act providing for a lien for nonprofit hospitals " (Hospital Lien Act) allows a nonprofit or county hospital to place a lien upon the recovery that an injured person it treated may receive from any personal injury suit; the lien amount is "reasonable charges at ward rates" but cannot exceed "one-third of the sum paid or due to said injured person"; and the lien attaches to "any money or property which may be recovered" in the case of compromise settlement. (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 82, pars. 97, 98.) The Court, in interpreting the Hospital Lien Act, noted that the only asset in the minor's estate was the annuity contract, and held that the estate was obligated to pay for treatment rendered to the minor out of any available resources and that the lien could be presently enforced against the estate. Accordingly, the hospital's lien had to be enforced to the lesser of $57,252 or one-third of the present value of the annuity, even though the annuity would probably have to be liquidated to pay the hospital and another annuity purchased with the balance. The Court then said that "although we believe that our decision  gives proper deference to a hospital's lien rights as mandated by the Hospital Lien Act, we feel that the time is ripe for the legislature to consider this problem. Given the rising popularity of structured settlements , the issue addressed in (this) case may very well repeat itself. Public policy favors the settlement of disputed claims. [Citations.] Yet this policy can  conflict with the Hospital Lien Act, which itself serves to promote health care for the poor. The legislature should consider this conflict ." (125 Ill. 2d 363, 370-71.) See also Blagg v. Illinois F.W.D. Truck & Equipment Co. (1989), 186 Ill. App. 3d 955, 961, leave to appeal allowed (December 5, 1989), No. 69158.

12. Section 8(a) of the Workers' Compensation Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 48, par. 138.8(a)) provides the employer of an injured employee shall "pay for treatment, instruction and training necessary for the physical, mental and vocational rehabilitation of the employee, including all maintenance costs and expenses incidental thereto," and if the employee is unable to be self-sufficient, "the employer shall further pay for such maintenance or institutional care as shall be required." The section is silent on procedures to govern proposed rehabilitation programs. The legislature should examine whether rehabilitation counseling and procedures through public or private agencies should be provided for to assist the Industrial Commission and the courts in this area. See International Paper Co. v. Industrial Com. (1984), 99 Ill. 2d 458; National Tea Co. v. Industrial Com. (1983), 97 Ill. 2d 424; C.D. Turner & Sons, Inc. v. Industrial Com. (1983), 96 Ill. 2d 231; McLean Trucking Co. v. Industrial Com. (1983), 96 Ill. 2d 213; Zenith Co. v. Industrial Com. (1982), 91 Ill. 2d 278; Hunter Corp. v. Industrial Com. (1982), 86 Ill. 2d 489; Kropp Forge Co. v. Industrial Com. (1981), 85 Ill. 2d 226.

13. Sections 19(k) and 19(l) of the Workers' Compensation Act (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 48, pars. 138.19(k), 138.19(l)) provide for penalties that may be assessed against the one liable to pay compensation where he or she fails to pay or delays in making payments of compensation benefits. It appears the Industrial Commission is assessing penalties under both sections for the same delay or failure to pay compensation for temporary total disability. (Board of Education v. Industrial Com. (1982), 93 Ill. 2d 1, 14 (Ryan, C.J., dissenting); Board of Education v. Industrial Com. (1982), 93 Ill. 2d 20, 26 (Ryan, C.J., dissenting).) The sections are overlapping and confusing, and in need of legislative clarification.

THE APPELLATE COURT

THE APPELLATE COURT

JURISDICTION AND ORGANIZATION

The Appellate Court is the intermediate court of review in the Illinois judicial system. Jurisdiction is conferred upon it by Article VI, Section 6 of the Constitution, which is included in Appendix A. Generally, appeals from final judgments of a circuit court may be taken as a matter of right to the Appellate Court, except in cases appealable directly to the Supreme Court and except from judgments of acquittal in criminal cases. The Appellate Court may exercise original jurisdiction when necessary to the complete determination of any case on review, and it may also directly review administrative actions as provided by law. Acting pursuant to Article VI, Section 6, the General Assembly has provided that "final orders or determinations" of the Pollution Control Board (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 111 1/2, par. 1041), "judgments" of the State Board of Elections concerning disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 46, par. 9-22), and final orders of the Illinois State Labor Relations Board, the Illinois Local Labor Relations Board and the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 48, pars. 1611, 1716), decisions from the Illinois Human Rights Commission (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 68, par. 8-111), and any order or decision of the Illinois Commerce Commission (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 111 2/3, par. 10-201) may be appealed directly to the Appellate Court.

The Constitution, Article VI, Section 5, provides the number of Appellate judges to be selected from each judicial district shall be provided by law. Prior to 1988, the General Assembly had provided for the election of 18 Appellate judges from the First District and four from each of the other four districts. The Second and Fifth Districts were each authorized two additional judgeships to be first elected at the November, 1988 general election, bringing to six the number of Appellate Judges now elected in each of those two districts. Pursuant to Article VI, Section 10, Appellate Court judges, like Supreme Court judges, are elected for 10 year terms.

Article VI, Section 5, also provides for the organization of the Appellate Court to be as prescribed by the Supreme Court by rule. The Supreme Court has adopted Rule 22 which establishes the organization of the Appellate Court. The rule (as amended effective August 1, 1987), provides as follows:

Rule 22. Appellate Court Organization

(a) Divisions — Appellate Districts. Each district of the Appellate Court shall consist of one division unless the Supreme Court provides otherwise by order. The First District shall sit in the city of Chicago. The Second District shall sit in the city of Elgin. The Third District shall sit in the city of Ottawa. The Fourth District shall sit in the city of Springfield. The Fifth District shall sit in the city of Mount Vernon. With the approval of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, a division may sit at any place in the State. The Appellate Court in each district shall be in session throughout the year, and each division shall sit periodically as its judicial business requires. Each division shall sit in panels of three judges as herein after provided.

(b) Assignment to Divisions — Designation of Panels. The Supreme Court shall assign judges to the various divisions. The presiding judge of a division shall designate judges serving in that division to sit in panels of three. Such a three-judge panel shall constitute the division for purposes of rendering a decision in a case. The Executive Committee of the First District, upon request of a division of that district, may designate any Appellate Court judge of that district to sit in the place of a judge of the requesting division for such case or cases as may be designated in the request.

(c) Decisions. Three judges must participate in the decision of every case, and the concurrence of two shall be necessary to a decision. One judge may decide motions of course.

(d) Divisions — Presiding Judge. The judges of each division shall select one of their number to serve as presiding judge of that division for a term of one year.

(e) Executive Committee of the Appellate Court of Illinois. The presiding judges of the Second, Third, Fourth, and Fifth Districts and the members of the Executive Committee of the First District shall constitute the Executive Committee of the Appellate Court of Illinois. Meetings of the Executive Committee may be called by any three of its members, and meetings of the Appellate Court may be called by the Executive Committee.

(f) Executive Committee of the Appellate Court in the First Appellate District. There shall be an Executive Committee of the First District composed of one member of each division, which committee shall exercise general administrative authority. The Executive Committee shall select one of its number as chairman.

(g) Industrial Commission Appeals. A five-judge panel, one judge from each judicial district, will sit as the Industrial Commission Division of the Appellate Court. The Industrial Commission Division will hear and decide all appeals involving proceedings to review orders of the Industrial Commission. The Division will sit, periodically, as its judicial business requires, at any place in the State it chooses. Five judges must participate in the decisions of the Industrial Commission Division, and the concurrence of three shall be necessary to a decision. If a judge designated to serve on this panel cannot participate, the alternate designated by the Supreme Court shall participate. Motions of course may be decided by one judge.

Effective April 1, 1989, by order of the Supreme Court, the First District of the Appellate Court shall sit in six divisions.

SUPREME COURT ASSIGNMENT OF JUDGES TO THE APPELLATE COURT

Article VI, sections 15 and 16, of the 1970 Illinois Constitution allows the Supreme Court to assign a retired judge, with his consent, to judicial service and to assign temporarily a sitting judge to any court, except that an associate judge may be assigned only as an associate judge. Those retired judges recalled and assigned to the Appellate Court have been identified earlier in this Report. The circuit judges who sat on the Appellate Court during 1989, by assignment, are shown below. The date the judge's assignment commenced is shown in parenthesis.

First District — David Cerda, Cook County (4/1/89)
Gino L. DiVito, Cook County (4/1/89)
Mel R. Jiganti, Cook County (3/1/76)
Rosemary Duschene LaPorta, Cook County (4/1/89)
James C. Murray, Cook County (1/28/86)
Thomas R. Rakowski, Cook County (12/1/89)

Second District — Fred A. Geiger, 19th Circuit (12/4/89)

Third District — No judges assigned during 1989.

Fourth District — Joseph R. Spitz, 5th Circuit (10/21/85)
Robert J. Steigmann, 6th Circuit (7/10/89)

Fifth District — No judges assigned during 1989.

1989 APPELLATE COURT CASELOAD SUMMARY

There were 7,612 total new filings in 1989, compared with 7,720 in 1988, a decrease of 1%. Dispositions in 1989 amounted to 7,722 compared to 7,648 cases in 1988, an increase of 1%. There were 8,394 cases pending at the end of 1989 compared with 7,974 in 1988, an increase of over 5%. 2,084 cases were disposed of with opinions in 1989, compared with 1,937 in 1988, an increase of 8%. During 1989, Appellate Court judges disposed of 2,708 cases by Rule 23 order, compared with 2,641 in 1988, an increase of 3%.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ILLINOIS APPELLATE COURT

Supreme Court Rule 22(e) creates an executive committee of the Appellate Court and provides for meetings of all judges of that court. Traditionally, the Appellate Court holds an annual meeting during the latter part of the year.

On December 7, 1989, the Appellate Court held its annual meeting with Judge Robert C. Buckley (1st District) presiding as chairman. In attendance were 32 appellate judges, four Supreme Court justices, two retired Appellate Court judges and staff of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts.

Matters considered at the meeting included:

(1) Appointment of Appellate Court members to the Illinois Courts Commission. Appointed to the Commission as members were Judges Francis S. Lorenz (1st District) and Allan L. Stouder (3rd District), and as alternates Judges David Linn (1st District) and Frederick S. Green (4th District).

(2) Selection of Judge Henry Lewis (5th District) as the next chairman of the Illinois Appellate Court.

ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ILLINOIS APPELLATE COURT

The Administrative Committee of the Illinois Appellate Court, created by order of the Supreme Court, studies and recommends methods by which the Appellate Court might improve the processing of appeals. The Administrative Office is the secretary to the Committee.

As of December 31, 1989, the members of the Administrative Committee were:

Tobias Barry (3rd District), Chairman
Calvin C. Campbell (1st District)
Frederick S. Green (4th District)
Moses W. Harrison, II (5th District)
Daniel J. McNamara (1st District)
Philip G. Reinhard (2nd District)
Anthony Scariano (1st District)
Horace L. Calvo (Supreme Court Liaison)

During 1989 the Administrative Committee did not meet.

APPELLATE COURT CLERKS

Article VI, Section 18(a) of the Illinois Constitution provides that the Appellate Court judges of each judicial district, respectively, shall appoint a clerk and other nonjudicial officers for their court or district. The Appellate Court Clerk in the First District, Gilbert S. Marchman, in the Second District, Loren J. Strotz, in the Third District, Roger H. Johnson, in the Fourth District, Darryl Pratscher and, in the Fifth District, Louis E. Costa continue to serve their respective courts.

APPELLATE COURT RESEARCH DEPARTMENTS

Supreme Court Rule 24, adopted effective October 15, 1979, established a research department in each Appellate Court district. The Rule provides that each department will be supervised by a director of research and staffed by such number of staff attorneys as the Supreme Court may from time to time determine. The research departments shall perform such duties as may be assigned to them by the presiding judge of the district or, in the First District, by the Executive Committee. They are to coordinate their activities, exchange information, and publish and maintain a manual of procedures for the research staff. The director of research and staff attorneys must be graduates of law schools approved by the American Bar Association.

III
THE CIRCUIT COURTS

JURISDICTION AND ORGANIZATION

The trial level court of general jurisdiction in Illinois is known as the Circuit Court. It has original jurisdiction of all justiciable matters, except: (1) in matters relating to redistricting of the General Assembly and to the ability of the Governor to serve or resume office; (2) where the Supreme Court exercises its discretionary original jurisdiction in cases relating to revenue, mandamus, prohibition or habeas corpus; and (3) by statute, the review of orders of certain State agencies. There are no courts of special or limited jurisdiction in Illinois. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 9.) No judge of the Circuit Court has the power to review the decision of another and there are no trials de novo.

The State is divided into 22 judicial circuits by statute (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 37, par. 72.1). Three circuits, Cook County and the 12th and 18th Circuits, consist of a single county. The other 19 judicial circuits are composed of two or more contiguous counties as provided by law. Each judicial circuit has but one, unified Circuit Court.

There are two categories of judges in the Circuit Courts: (1) circuit judges and (2) associate judges. All judges must be licensed attorneys. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 11.) Circuit judges are initially elected, either on a circuit-wide base is or from the county where they reside. (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 37, pars. 72.2, 72.42-1.) They serve six year terms. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 10.) In the Cook County Circuit, circuit judges are elected from the City of Chicago, from the entire county or from the area outside Chicago. (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 37, pars. 72.2, 72.42.)

The circuit judges in each circuit select by secret ballot a chief judge from their number to serve at their pleasure. Subject to the authority of the Supreme Court, the chief judge has general administrative authority over his court. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, sec. 7.)

Associate judges are appointed for four year terms by the circuit judges in their respective circuits. (Ill. Const. 1970, art. VI, secs. 8,10.) Like circuit judges, associate judges may exercise the full constitutional jurisdiction of the Circuit Court. However, Article VI, section 8 of the Constitution directs the Supreme Court to provide by rule for matters to be assigned to associate judges. The Court discharges this responsibility through Supreme Court Rule 295, discussed below.

1989 CIRCUIT COURT CASELOAD SUMMARY

The number of cases filed in the circuit courts of Illinois during 1989, excluding "hang-on" (parking) tickets in the First Municipal District (City of Chicago) of the Circuit Court of Cook County, was 3,851,861 compared with 4,038,525 in 1988, a decrease of less than 1%.

The number of cases disposed in 1989 was 4,203,351 compared with 4,204,942 in 1988, a decrease of less than 1%. Again these figures exclude "hang-on" (parking) tickets in the First Municipal District (City of Chicago) of the Circuit Court of Cook County.

1989 CONFERENCE OF CHIEF CIRCUIT JUDGES

During 1989, the Conference met monthly, except for the month of July.

*During 1989, the Hon. P. J. O'Neill (Third Circuit), the Hon. William L. Randolph (Ninth Circuit) and the Hon. Carl F. J. Henninger (Eighteenth Circuit) also held office as chief circuit judges.

OUT-OF-CIRCUIT ASSIGNMENTS

Article VI, Section 16, of the Constitution of the State of Illinois provides the Supreme Court may assign a judge temporarily to any court and an associate judge to serve temporarily as an associate judge on any circuit court. During 1989, a total of 136 circuit and associate judges from 16 downstate circuits were assigned by the Supreme Court to serve, temporarily, in the Circuit Court of Cook County. These assignments, made for weekly periods, totalled 294 judge-weeks of service. Those circuits from which judges were assigned, with the numbers of judges and the total number of judge-weeks shown, are as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st Circuit | 8 judges | 11 weeks |
| 2nd Circuit | 20 judges | 41 weeks |
| 3rd Circuit | 2 judges | 3 weeks |
| 4th Circuit | 17 judges | 50 weeks |
| 6th Circuit | 8 judges | 18 weeks |
| 7th Circuit | 6 judges | 9 weeks |

| 16th Circuit | 1 judge | 1 week |
| 20th Circuit | 9 judges | 14 weeks |
| 21st Circuit | 1 judge | 4 weeks |

In the downstate circuits, on the request of the chief judges of 17 circuits, 61 circuit and appellate judges from 19 circuits were assigned to serve, temporarily, outside their circuit to hear a total of 94 cases. These assignments were generally made due to the recusal of judges or for the judge presiding in a case to hear the matter in another circuit on a change of venue or change of place of trial.

RULE 295 ASSIGNMENTS

Article VI, Section 8, of the Illinois Constitution of 1970 authorizes the Supreme Court to "provide by rule for matters to be assigned to Associate Judges". In implementing this authority, the Supreme Court has provided in Rule 295 that an associate judge may hear any matter except the trial of criminal cases in which a defendant is charged with an offense punishable by imprisonment for more than one year. However, upon a showing of need, the Supreme Court may authorize the chief judge of a circuit to make temporary assignments of individual associate judges to conduct trials of those criminal cases.

In 1989, the Supreme Court, through its Administrative Director, approved requests from the Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County to assign 147 individual associate judges to conduct trials of criminal cases in which the defendant may be punished by imprisonment for more than one year. The requests of the Chief Judge were for authorization to assign 135 judges for the period of the entire year. There were 11 requests to assign judges for a period of six months for each judge and one request to assign a judge for a period of two months.

The Court also approved requests from 19 downstate chief judges for authorization to assign 140 individual associate judges to these criminal cases. The following is a summary of assignment requests and authorizations:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cook County | 135 | Associate Judges | each for entire year |

In terms of judicial manpower made available to preside at the trials of these criminal cases, the numbers of judge-months provided by the above authorizations are 1,688 in Cook County and 1,398 in the downstate circuits.

THE CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT

Pursuant to Article VI, Section 18(b) of the Illinois Constitution of 1970, the General Assembly shall provide by law for the election, or for the appointment by circuit judges, of clerks of the circuit courts and for their terms of office and removal for cause. Current law provides that one clerk of the circuit court shall be elected in each county for a term of four years (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 25, par. 1; ch. 46, par. 2A-15).

In addition to performing the usual duties incumbent upon a clerk (e.g., attending sessions of the court; preserving the files and papers thereof; making, keeping and preserving complete records of all the proceedings and determinations, etc.) circuit clerks receive and distribute to their respective county, to various local governmental entities and to various funds in the state treasury, millions of dollars, annually, in fees, fines, penalties, assessments, and surcharges. Clerks also receive and disburse each year thousands of payments ordered by the courts in matters of child support and maintenance while maintaining for the court complete and accurate records of those accounts.

Circuit clerks regularly provide information, statistical data, and other reports requested by the Supreme Court, and their respective courts, on the state of the dockets and the business transacted by the courts, as well as other matters pertinent to the efficient operation of the courts.

V
THE COURTS COMMISSION

THE COURTS COMMISSION

Since July 1, 1971, disciplinary proceedings against judicial officers in Illinois have been bifurcated. The Judicial Inquiry Board composed of lay persons, lawyers, and judges, conducts investigations against judges, files formal voted complaints against judges with the Courts Commission, and prosecutes those complaints before the Commission. The five judges who comprise the Commission hear those complaints, make findings, and enter dispositive orders of dismissal or of imposition of sanctions. A judge may be disciplined by removal from office, suspension with or without pay, retirement, censure or reprimand. Pursuant to rule of the Commission, the Administrative Director is the Commission Secretary. For further information on the history of judicial discipline in Illinois, see the 1975 Annual Report to the Supreme Court of Illinois, pages 60-65 and the Prefatory Note, 1 Ill. Cts. Comm., pages ix-xxii.

The judicial officers who have been appointed as members of the judicial disciplinary entities are, as of December 31, 1989:

Appointed by the Supreme Court to the Judicial Inquiry Board:

Circuit Judge Harold L. Jensen, Sixth Judicial Circuit
Circuit Judge Edward H. Marsalek, Cook County

Appointed by the Supreme Court to the Courts Commission:

*Supreme Court Judge Benjamin K. Miller (chairman)
*Circuit Judge James C. Murray, Cook County
*Circuit Judge Rodney A. Scott, Sixth Judicial Circuit
Circuit Judge Arthur L. Dunne, Cook County (alternate)
Circuit Judge John E. Sype, Seventeenth Judicial Circuit (alternate)

Appointed by the Appellate Court to the Courts Commission:

*Appellate Court Judge Francis S. Lorenz, First Judicial District
*Appellate Court Judge Allan L. Stouder, Third Judicial District
Appellate Court Judge David Linn, First Judicial District (alternate)
Appellate Court Judge Frederick S. Green, Fourth Judicial District (alternate)

*Present members of the Courts Commission.

During the period July 1, 1971 through December 31, 1989, the Judicial Inquiry Board had filed 47 formal complaints with the Courts Commission. The dispositions of the complaints by the Commission were as follows:

|---|---|
| Respondents removed from office | — 3 |
| Respondents suspended without pay | — 10 |
| Respondents censured | — 4 |
| Respondents reprimanded | — 10 |
| Complaints dismissed | — 17 |
| Commission order expunged by Supreme Court | — 1 |
| Complaints pending | — 2 |

During 1989, the Courts Commission decided one complaint which had been filed in 1989. Two formal complaints were filed by the Judicial Inquiry Board in 1989. The 1989 activities of the Illinois Courts Commission were as follows:

(1) Complaint 88 CC 1 charged a Judge of the Appellate Court of Illinois, First District, with willful misconduct in office and with conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice and that brings the judicial office into disrepute. The complaint alleged that the respondent engaged in political activity in violation of the Standards of Judicial Conduct as set forth in Illinois Supreme Court Rule 67.

During 1989, the Commission heard and decided a number of motions. The respondent resigned from judicial office, effective December 6, 1989; however, the complaint has not yet been dismissed, as of the end of the year.

(2) Complaint 89 CC 1 charged a Cook County circuit judge, in a four-count complaint, with conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice and that brings the judicial office into disrepute in that he, during his service as a judge, made the acquaintance of a certain attorney in a law firm, who had as a client a car rental company; that, during 1978, 1980, 1981 and 1982, the respondent contacted and arranged with the attorney for the use of rental cars in New York City, Florida and Ireland; that the attorney paid for the rental of the cars and the respondent did not pay for the cars' rental; that, while the attorney himself did not represent litigants before the respondent, the attorney's law firm did; and that the law firm contacted the respondent concerning compliance with jury summonses. The complaint alleged that the respondent violated Supreme Court Rules 61(c)(4), 61(c)(22), 61(c)(23), and 65.

The Commission heard the case in late 1989 and a decision is expected in early 1990.

(3) Complaint 89 CC 2 charged a Cook County circuit judge, in a multi-paragraph complaint, with conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice and that brings the judicial office into disrepute in that he, in 1989, while a class of 20 high school students observed proceedings in his courtroom, singled out one of the students and castigated him for creating a disturbance when no disturbance had occurred, and that the respondent caused the student to be taken into custody and handcuffed to a piece of furniture and the respondent further castigated the student. The complaint alleged that the respondent's conduct "unjustifiably humiliated and embarrassed" the student and teacher and violated Supreme Court Rules 61, 62(A), and 63(A)(4).

On December 7, 1989, the Commission found that the respondent violated Rules 61, 62(A) and 63(A)(4), and imposed the penalty of censure on the respondent.

VI
THE ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE

THE ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE ILLINOIS COURTS

INTRODUCTION

The Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts (see Appendix B for historical development) is established pursuant to Article VI, Section 16 of the Constitution of 1970, to assist the Chief Justice to carry out his duties in exercising the administrative and supervisory authority of the Supreme Court over all the courts. As that authority encompasses every aspect of the judicial system, the functions of the Administrative Office cannot be exhaustively delineated. However, these functions generally include personnel and fiscal management, continuing judicial education, maintenance of records and statistics, service as secretary to the committees and other organizations, liaison activity with the legislative and executive branches, management of court facilities and equipment, administration of programs under several Supreme Court Rules, research and planning. (Compare 1974 A.B.A. Standards Relating to Court Organization (Standard 1.41) (responsibilities of state court administrative offices).) Within each of these categories fall the specific duties of the Administrative Office which are reported in greater detail in this chapter.

Other functions of the Administrative Office are explained separately below. The office is charged by Supreme Court Rule 21(d) with keeping filed copies of Appellate Court and Circuit Court rules. Pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 68, the Administrative Director is the custodian of verified statements of economic interest which are filed by Illinois judges for the years prior to April 30, 1987. Sealed statements filed under this rule may be opened only by the Supreme Court or by the Illinois Courts Commission when specifically authorized by the Supreme Court for use in proceedings of the Commission. Parties to an action may request from the Administrative Director information from unsealed lists concerning businesses in which a judge or members of his or her immediate family have a financial interest.

The Administrative Director and his staff appear before the appropriation committees of the General Assembly to testify concerning the State judicial budget, and they are frequently called upon to advise the judiciary committees on proposed legislation affecting the courts. They also address civic groups, bar associations, legislative commissions and court reform groups concerning court administration and the structure and operation of Illinois' unified court system. The educational responsibilities of the office additionally include answering telephone and mail inquiries from the general public about the court system.

Citizens, judges, lawyers, court administrators from other states, and persons from foreign nations visit the Administrative Office and the Illinois courts. One task of the Administrative Office is to explain the Illinois court system to them and arrange visits to courthouses and with judges. The office can also arrange for Illinois judges to visit the State's penal institutions in order to foster a greater understanding of the correctional system.

From 1978 through 1980 the work of the Administrative Office was expanded with the addition of two divisions. In 1978, a Probation Division was created to establish standards and provide salary subsidies for probation officers. The Supreme Court approved the addition of Judicial Management Information Services to the Administrative Office in late 1980. This staff plans and coordinates the installation of automated recordkeeping systems throughout the court system.

During the reorganization of the Administrative Office, which took place in 1988, these two divisions were retained and five new divisions were created. These new divisions were the Administrative Services Division, the Court Services Division, the Judicial Branch Education Division, the Legal Services Division and the Planning, Research and Special Projects Division.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DIVISION

The Administrative Services Division is headed by an Assistant Director with an Associate Director for Finance and an Associate Director for Personnel. Mr. Jerry Kubin resigned as the Assistant Director of the Division in October, 1989, and the position remained vacant for the remainder of the year. The Division is also responsible for Labor Relations, Court Security, Facilities Management and Central Services.

Finance

The Administrative Services Division, Finance Unit, spent a good portion of 1989 working with staff of the Office of the Auditor General. The long awaited audit for the two years ending June 30, 1987 was completed and made available during the year. Prior to the publication of this report, the auditors commenced a second audit for the seven years and three months ending June 30, 1985. Prior to the receipt of the published report, the unit began correcting known shortcomings. As a result of the completed audit, and the audit in progress, steps were taken to move ahead with the automation of voucher processing. The Administrative Office, through its Judicial Management Information Services Division, explored the feasibility of developing an in-house program, or modifying an existing software package in use elsewhere in State government. The Division took positive steps to develop a state of the art property control system using the latest bar-coding technology. These efforts began late in 1988. In 1989, the unit continued its efforts to draft formal written fiscal policies and procedures.

Personnel

During 1989, the personnel unit conducted the second and third phases of the Job Classification and Compensation Plan. The second phase consisted of an employee appeal process, whereby an employee could request a review of the original position classification which was assigned at implementation in 1988 or could suggest a modification in the classification specification. The personnel unit conducted individual interviews at various court locations throughout the State as part of the job analysis required during the second phase. As a result, modifications in classification specifications and reassignments in classification were made. The third phase consisted of a comprehensive salary survey of public and private sector employers requesting salary data on jobs that are comparable to positions in State-paid judicial branch service. In addition, staff responded to requests for position restructuring and position reclassification.

In 1989, the personnel unit and a programmer analyst of the JMIS Division completed the initial requirements for the automation of the payroll system. A successful electronic test of the judicial payroll was conducted in December. All payrolls in the Supreme Court's appropriations will be converted to the electronic process during 1990.

The personnel unit conducted training sessions for chief circuit judges, clerks of the circuit courts, trial court administrators and chief probation officers on compensation management in the union and non-union environment.

Court Security

In 1989, six (6) physical court security analyses were completed and reports generated for the following courts: Franklin County; Henderson County; Jefferson County; Knox County; McDonough County; and St. Clair County. Furthermore, ongoing technical assistance concerning security hardware and general security planning was provided to the Second and Third District Appellate Courts and Vermilion County.

Also in 1989, the court security program began planning seminars on security management and security awareness for judges, court administrators and circuit clerks.

Labor Relations

During 1989, the Administrative Office's labor relations function was performed on a full-time basis by two attorneys with the aid of a law clerk and a legal secretary. Part-time service was performed by two employees of the personnel unit. Services to chief circuit judges, circuit clerks, and other judicial branch managers were rendered in the following substantive labor areas: "at-will" employment, retaliatory discharge, union-management relations, unlawful employment discrimination, including claims based upon handicap, race and sex, and constitutionally based employment claims.

Following the decision in Orenic v. Illinois State Labor Relations Board (1989), 127 Ill. 2d 453, all judicial branch collective bargaining units were recertified in 1989. Numerous labor contracts were negotiated throughout the State. These include:

| Circuit | County | Bargaining Unit | Union |
|---|---|---|---|
| 3rd | Madison | Judicial Branch Contract | |
| | | Circuit Clerk Contract | AFSCME |
| 5th | Vermilion | Judicial Branch Contract | |
| | | Circuit Clerk Contract | IBEW |
| 10th | Tazewell | Broad County Unit including Judicial Branch | AFSCME |
| 12th | Will | Judicial Branch Contract | |

AFSCME: American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees
IBEW: International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers
UAW: United Auto Workers

Labor relations advice was also rendered internally to AOIC staff and various judicial branch managers on an ad hoc basis throughout 1989. Several cases involving labor and employment matters were litigated in different forums.

The Division also presented a series of seminars in 1989 on labor relations in the courts for circuit judges, circuit clerks and other judicial branch managers.

Facilities

During 1989, the Supreme Court, along with the First District Appellate Court, continued the planning process for relocation from the Richard J. Daley Center to the State of Illinois Building at 160 N. LaSalle Street in Chicago. The Courts worked with the Capital Development Board, Holabird & Root Architects and the Department of Central Management Services concerning this project.

At the request of the Third District Appellate Court in Ottawa, Illinois, the Capital Development Board conducted an analysis of the floor load limits in the courthouse's law library. A request to replace the windows in the courthouse was also submitted to the Capital Development Board and the Bureau of the Budget. An appropriation of $320,000 was released to renovate the heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems in the courthouse. Property adjacent to the courthouse was purchased for the Appellate Court's use; an unwanted building on the property was demolished.

During 1989, the Fourth District Appellate Court was appropriated $4,046,041 for the renovation of the "Waterways" building in Springfield. When the Waterways building renovation is completed the Appellate Court will relocate there from its current space in the Supreme Court Building.

The Fifth District Appellate Courthouse in Mt. Vernon, Illinois needed emergency repairs in 1989. The Appellate Court requested that the Capital Development Board assist with the repair project. The Court also submitted to the Capital Development Board and the Bureau of the Budget requests for new windows in the courthouse as well as renovations to the building in order to make it accessible to handicapped individuals. An appropriation of $180,000 was released to renovate the heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems in the courthouse.

Central Services

The central reproduction capability of the AOIC was relocated from Chicago to Springfield in December, 1988, and now occupies its own separate facility. It has been combined with a central supply and mail operation. This center functions as the reproduction center for all AOIC divisions having high volume copying requirements.

Forms design capability has been added as a service provided to all AOIC divisions. In the future, it is hoped that the graphics capability of the Administrative Services Division can be expanded through the use of computer graphics and other tools which will enhance the report production activities of the AOIC.

The use of a leased mini-van has allowed messenger/utility staff greater flexibility in mail, messenger and supply activities. It has also allowed the AOIC to undertake, in a more economical fashion, the movement of furniture and materials between AOIC Springfield locations and the AOIC Chicago office location, as well as other court facilities.

Through the acquisition of leased storage space, the Administrative Services Division can now store and inventory surplus property from office locations to be reused in other office locations as needs arise.

Receptionist services at all AOIC locations have been reorganized and placed in the Division. This was done to standardize and improve telecommunications service and building security at all locations.

COURT SERVICES DIVISION

In 1987, the Supreme Court established the Court Services Division to strengthen trial and appellate court operations in Illinois. This objective is accomplished through improved communications with the courts, provision of technical assistance and the development of Supreme Court initiatives. The Division provides liaison to judges, clerks and other administrative personnel in areas such as organizational structure, systems planning, fiscal administration, court reporting management, caseflow management, records management and court security. Additionally, under the direction of the Supreme Court, the Division establishes and implements programs such as alternative dispute resolution, child support enforcement, trial court administration and victim services.

Trial Court Administration Program

Under the direction of the Illinois Supreme Court, the Administrative Office established and implemented a trial court administration pilot program during 1988 and 1989. Basic components of the program include: (1) funding for professional court administrators in two circuit court jurisdictions, the First and Seventh Judicial Circuits; (2) monthly management meetings which link the Administrative Office and trial court administrative personnel (court administrators and administrative assistants); and, (3) assistance to the Judicial Branch Education Division in planning training programs for trial court personnel, e.g., circuit clerks, administrative personnel and court reporters. The overall goal of the trial court administration program is to foster professional management support to courts in administering the nonjudicial functions of the court, e.g., personnel administration, court automation, jury management, caseflow management, etc.; and, to enhance liaison and coordination activities between the Administrative Office and the State's twenty-two (22) circuits.

Circuit Clerk Services

The circuit clerk services unit maintains ongoing communications with the 102 circuit court clerks throughout Illinois, responding to inquiries regarding new legislation, records retention policies, recordkeeping procedures and overall circuit clerk programming. This unit works with the Secretary of State's office and the Illinois State Police, Department of Conservation Law Enforcement and other agencies of state government concerning State level policies and procedures affecting circuit clerk operations.

The circuit clerk services unit added one additional staff person in September, 1989; the position of Field Coordinator. This person is to assist the Circuit Clerk Liaison in all areas of responsibilities.

Through the unit's normal routine it has met with most, if not all, of the clerks of the court at their offices, and at annual meetings, zone meetings, etc. In addition to meeting with the clerks, the unit is in frequent communication with the clerks by telephone, responding to questions and following legislation affecting clerks' operations.

Outside of the normal routine, during 1989 the unit also assisted in writing and reviewing portions of the 1988 Annual Report, assisted the Director in preparing administrative agenda items relating to judicial vacancies and requests for additional associate judges, served on subcommittees of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges' Ad Hoc Committee on Article V Rules developing recommended changes to the Uniform Citation and Complaint Form and regulations governing issuance of bond certificates. The unit also assisted in technical assistance projects pertaining to the Sangamon County Facilities Project, the Sangamon County Automation Project and the McLean County Court Security Project. Unit staff monitored sessions of the General Assembly for legislative initiatives affecting clerks and courts, and processed monthly Notices of Clerk's Intention to Destroy Records requests.

Child Support Enforcement Program

In March, 1989, the child support unit was transferred from the Planning, Research and Special Projects Division to the Court Services Division. Since its implementation in 1988, the unit has focused on coordination of child support enforcement initiatives throughout the Illinois trial courts. The unit prepared a report entitled Child Support Enforcement in Illinois, which was published in June, 1989. In September, 1989, the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges formed a Child Support Advisory Committee to study the specific needs of the circuit courts with regard to child support enforcement. Staff assistance for the Committee is provided by the Court Services Division. Among the issues considered by the Committee during 1989 were the following: (1) statewide child support automation; (2) expedited child support procedures; (3) evaluation of Supreme Court Rule 296; and, (4) general improvements to the Illinois child support system.

Victim Services

In January, 1989, the Illinois Supreme Court approved the establishment of a victim services staff position within the Administrative Office. Staffed by a victim services "coordinator", the principal focus of the unit has been to assess the extent and degree to which the Illinois Domestic Violence Act has been implemented and administered throughout the circuit courts. During 1989, field visits were made to more than one-third of Illinois' counties where interviews were conducted with judges, circuit clerks, state's attorneys, law enforcement officers, victim-witness assistance professionals, domestic violence victim advocates, and legal service and social service providers. The field information provides a basis for future technical assistance and written reports which will be provided by the Administrative Office in this area.

Records Management

The records management unit works closely with the circuit clerk services unit in addressing records retention and other recordkeeping problems cited throughout the Illinois courts. In the past, the records management unit has concentrated its efforts toward the production and maintenance of various manuals, including the Civil Procedure Manual (1981 with revisions in 1987); the Manual on Recordkeeping (1972); and the two volumes of the Coding Manual [Civil (1982) and Criminal (1981 with revision in 1983)].

During 1989, records unit staff participated in various technical assistance projects involving records which included the following: (1) a traffic study in the Vermilion County circuit clerk's office; (2) a comprehensive analysis of 110 years of inactive records in the Third District Appellate Courthouse; (3) a study of the circuit clerk's office in Stephenson County; and, (4) records analysis visits to Fulton, Peoria and Jefferson County circuit clerks' offices. In addition to the technical assistance work, the records unit completed the compilation of data obtained from a statewide survey of circuit clerks' offices designed to assess the current value and use of the aforementioned procedures and recordkeeping manuals. The results of this survey will be important to future project planning for the Administrative Office.

Technical Assistance

Through cooperation with other divisions of the Administrative Office, the Court Services Division provides technical assistance in various facets of trial and appellate court operations. Typically, requests for technical assistance are initiated by presiding judges or circuit clerks facing problems in records management, court security, automation, case processing, etc. In response to such requests, the Administrative Office dispatches project teams to the courts, where staff work on-site with local court officials to identify problems and possible solutions. As a follow-up to the field work, written reports are prepared by the team which set forth site visit findings, problem analyses and recommendations.

During 1989, the following technical assistance projects were completed and reports generated utilizing court services staff, some of which have been cited in the above program descriptions: (1) A Study of Traffic Recordkeeping, Office of the Circuit Clerk, Vermilion County, Illinois; (2) A Study of the Circuit Clerk's Office, Stephenson County, Illinois; (3) An Analysis of Organization, Space, Recordkeeping and Equipment, Office of the Clerk, Third District Appellate Court, Ottawa, Illinois; (4) Preliminary Program Description: Fast Track Case Processing for Adult Drug Offenders, Criminal Court, Cook County; and, (5) a host of physical security analyses which will be presented below.

Court Security Program

In January, 1988, a court security program was established within the Administrative Office. At this time, a court security analyst was designated whose primary responsibilities would be to: (1) conduct physical security analyses of court facilities throughout Illinois and provide on-going technical assistance on court security; (2) serve as a member of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges' Subcommittee on Court Security; (3) produce written security technical assistance reports containing site visit findings, problem analyses and recommendations; (4) prepare and present information to local funding authorities in securing support for report recommendations; (5) provide liaison to county, state and federal law enforcement on court security programming; (6) develop and maintain a library on court security; (7) establish and maintain a vendor file on technological equipment; and, (8) provide assistance to the Judicial Branch Education Division in planning and presenting court security training programs.

In 1989, twelve (12) physical court security analyses were completed and reports generated for the following courts: Third District Appellate Court; Franklin County; Fulton County; Hancock County; Henderson County; Jefferson County; Knox County; McDonough County; McLean County; St. Clair County; Warren County; and Wayne County. Also in 1989, on-going technical assistance concerning funding, security equipment and general court security programming was provided to the following courts: Second District Appellate Court; Fourth District Appellate Court; Vermilion County; and Macon County. In 1989, the unit also compiled the major findings of a statewide security survey of Illinois courthouses conducted in 1988 that will be used in drafting proposed security guidelines for Illinois courts.

Judicial Committee Support

The Court Services Division provides on-going staff support to both the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges and the Study Committee on Operation of the Judicial System. During 1989, both bodies met each month except July. Staffing of these judicial committees typically involves the following: (1) preparation of meeting agendas; (2) preparation of meeting minutes and reference materials; (3) follow-up correspondence documenting committee action as requested by the committees; (4) drafting and conducting surveys and producing subsequent reports, as requested by the committees; and, (5) drafting proposed guidelines and standards in various court areas as requested by the committees. Examples of surveys, reports and draft guidelines initiated during 1989 include proposed guidelines for the proper allocation of judicial resources, recommendations for improved court reporting management and the report, A Profile of Court Managers — Findings of a Nation-wide Survey.

Mandatory Court-Annexed Arbitration Program

The Supreme Court's efforts to devise a high quality court-annexed arbitration system have spanned nearly the entire decade of the 1980's, and public officials representing all branches of Illinois government as well as the general public have been consulted in the design process. With the support of the General Assembly and the Governor, the Illinois Supreme Court has devised and implemented a mandatory court annexed arbitration system for selected circuit courts. Arbitration was operationalized in 1989 in the 17th (Winnebago County), 18th (DuPage County) and the 19th (Lake County) Circuits. Future expansion of the arbitration program will occur with Supreme Court approval in areas of the state where there is a demonstrable need, provided sufficient public funding is available to support expansion efforts.

Only the 17th Circuit began 1989 with an inventory of pending cases, since the 18th and 19th Circuits commenced their operations several months into the new year. The 17th Circuit began with 566 cases pending. In 1989, 790 cases were added, 793 cases were terminated, and 562 cases were pending at the end of 1989. In 1989, the 18th Circuit added 2,549 cases, 1,590 cases were terminated, and 959 cases were pending at the end of the year. In 1989, the 19th Circuit added 767 cases, 382 cases were terminated, and 385 cases were pending at the end of the year. The 18th Circuit was clearly the volume leader among the three courts in the "cases added" category. Note also that the 17th Circuit's statistics show a disposition rate that closely approximates new filings for the year.

A commonly cited measure of performance in court-annexed arbitration programs is the extent to which awards are accepted by the litigants as the final resolution of their cases. Only 23 out of 114 (20%) arbitration awards rendered in 1989 in the 17th Circuit were rejected. The rejection rate in the 18th Circuit for newly filed cases was even lower at just under 7%. In the 19th Circuit, with only two months of hearings in 1989, none of the 20 awards entered had been rejected as of the end of the year. When the figures from all three circuits are combined, it indicates an overall rejection rate of only 13%.

Even more telling than the rejection rate, however, is the frequency with which cases heard in arbitration must later be tried in the circuit court. Only a small number of arbitration-eligible cases actually go to trial after arbitration even though awards in an appreciable number of cases may have been rejected. Of total cases heard in arbitration in all three circuits, only 13 or less than 6% went on to trial in the circuit court in 1989. This trial rate is consistent with expectations and goals of the arbitration system.

If the rate of rejection of arbitration awards is a vital measure of the quality of decision-making, then the age of cases awaiting an arbitration hearing is an equally important indicator of an arbitration system's overall efficiency. Because all cases in arbitration are scheduled for hearing within six months of filing or less, careful attention is paid to pending cases which are older than 180 days.

As part of its case management features, arbitration contemplates deliberate intervention and attention to all cases awaiting a hearing, but especially for those suits whose unique circumstances may have contributed to delay in processing. In some instances, delay beyond 180 days from filing is unavoidable and even necessary to ensure fairness if a lawsuit is unusually complicated. Nevertheless, the arbitration process is designed to monitor caseflow so that the standard time anticipated from filing to termination is met for all but the extraordinary minority of eligible cases. In 1989, the majority of cases pending arbitration hearing were less than sixty days old.

Another performance standard which court-annexed arbitration has set for itself relates to the length of time the typical case should take to be heard by a panel of arbitrators. Most cases are expected to receive a full and fair hearing in two hours. On average, an arbitration hearing in the 17th Circuit took 2⅓ hours to complete, while in the 18th Circuit the average hearing time was exactly 2 hours in length. This data was unavailable from the 19th Circuit.

The average claim in the 17th Circuit in 1989 sought money damages of $8,576, whereas the average arbitration award was $4,531. A slightly lower average damage claim of $7,453 characterized cases heard by arbitrators in the 18th Circuit, which was coupled with an average award of $3,566. This data was unavailable from the 19th Circuit.

The economics of innovative alternative dispute resolution systems are a matter of legitimate concern for policymakers. In general, court-annexed arbitration compares favorably to the cost typically associated with the treatment of law suits in the traditional litigation process. In the 17th Circuit costs per termination were $174, while in the 18th Circuit costs per termination were $106, and in the 19th Circuit costs per termination were $146. Included in the total expenditures per case terminated are the fees paid to arbitrators, administrative support staff costs, equipment expenses, and cost of office space rental (18th and 19th Circuits only). The expenses of court-annexed arbitration are funded in part by general State revenue, and in part by a $5 fee charged to all civil litigants in those circuits authorized by the Supreme Court to implement arbitration programs.

Court Reporting Management

A variety of activities related to the management of official court reporters is performed by and through the Court Services Division. These include court reporter proficiency testing and certification, continuing liaison with official reporters and their representatives, collection and monitoring of information pertaining to transcript income, the evaluation of various court reporting technologies and assistance in the design and conduct of court reporter training.

Several times each year, as required by statute, the Administrative Office administers an Official Court Reporters' Proficiency Examination to assess the qualifications of applicants for the position of official court reporter. Candidates who pass this examination may, if vacancies exist, be appointed to the position of official court reporter. During 1989, six official Court Reporter Proficiency Examinations were offered. Three were held in Chicago and three were held in East Peoria, Illinois.

By statute, the Supreme Court determines the number of official court reporters which may be appointed in each circuit, and the chief judge of each circuit appoints reporters to fill the authorized positions. The Supreme Court may increase or decrease the number of official court reporters in any circuit after considering various factors provided for by law (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 37, par. 653). Staff of the Court Services Division assist in this effort by analyzing the budgetary impact of requests for new court reporter positions which may be submitted by the circuit courts.

The Administrative Office also administered two Computer Proficiency Examinations for official court reporters. Both were held in Chicago. Candidates successfully complete this examination by demonstrating their proficiency in using computer-aided transcription (CAT). Official reporters who pass this examination are eligible to receive a higher rate of compensation as "computer proficient" court reporters.

There are currently 640 official court reporters serving the 22 judicial circuits in Illinois. Of these, 31 are reporters who hold administrative or supervisory positions in Cook and DuPage Counties. During 1989, at the direction of the Supreme Court, staff of the Court Services and Administrative Services Divisions conducted job content interviews with these administrative and supervisory reporters for the purpose of incorporating them into the classification and compensation plan being considered by the Court.

Also at the direction of the Court, members of the Court Services Division were engaged in a comprehensive study of the State's court reporting system. The study, to be completed in early 1990, was designed to identify and analyze problems, and to make recommendations to improve court reporting in Illinois.

Also in 1989, the Administrative Office introduced a new approach toward the annual Official Court Reporters' Developmental Seminar. For the first time, the seminar was conducted using a one-day regional format instead of the traditional two-day seminar in Chicago. Seminars were held on Saturday, June 10, in Wheaton; Friday, June 23, in Mt. Vernon; and Friday, June 30, in Peoria. Also for the first time, the seminar was organized and conducted under the Judicial Branch Education Division of the Administrative Office. Topics on the agenda at each of the regional seminars included a discussion of employee benefits; a session on drug terminology and narcotics testing procedures; a demonstration of "computer integrated courtroom" technology; and a workshop on sentence structure and punctuation.

Criminal/Traffic Case Processing

The Court Services Division maintains the Offense Code Table (OFT) for the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts. The table serves to identify violations found in the Illinois Revised Statutes which were in effect on or after July 1, 1984, by chapter and paragraph with assigned codes, description of offense, effective date, repeal date where applicable, whether court appearance is required, whether notice to the Secretary of State of conviction is required and the case type of the offense. It functions as an intricate part of the Automated Disposition Reporting (ADR) program administered by the Judicial Management Information Systems Division (JMIS). The ADR program is available to circuit clerks who wish to report required court dispositions to the Secretary of State and the Department of State Police through an automated medium.

Currently there are five counties utilizing the capabilities of the ADR program and three others in the testing phase. It is hoped during 1990, that some additional counties which use software developed by private vendors will be utilizing the ADR program to meet the clerk's responsibilities of reporting dispositions. The vendors have built the OFT into their systems in hopes of providing this service to their users.

The table is updated on an annual basis. The update is completed after the final issue of West's Illinois Legislative Service reports is published in late June or early July each year. In some instances, after the fall veto session, the table may also be updated to accommodate changes made at that time.

Near the end of 1989, the counties reporting through the ADR system formed the "ADR User Group" for the purposes of maintaining communications between themselves and the state agencies. Staff from the Court Services Division attend these meetings as well as the group's Subcommittee on the Offense Code Table.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE

The Supreme Court of Illinois acts not only as the final forum to resolve judicial disputes, but also as the administrator of the State's judicial system. The Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, headed by the Administrative Director, serves at the pleasure of the Supreme Court to assist in the daily operations of the Judicial Branch. At the nucleus of the Administrative Office is the Executive Office, composed primarily of the Administrative Director, the Deputy Director and the Intergovernmental Relations Unit.

The Director has responsibility for a variety of administrative duties delegated by the Supreme Court. He prepares administrative materials for the Supreme Court's review. The Director also acts as a teller of judicial elections by compiling and tabulating votes to fill associate judge vacancies by an elective process among the circuit judges. Pursuant to rule of the Courts Commission, the Director is the Commission Secretary. Maintenance of reports detailing the use of eavesdropping devices in Illinois is also a duty that falls within the Director's functions. The Executive Office staff compiles and maintains biographies on all Illinois judges.

In addition, the Director oversees and continually apprises the Supreme Court of the varied activities performed by the staff of the Administrative Office. These specific programs are identified within the divisional synopses in this report.

The Deputy Director is second in command of the Administrative Office and, in the Director's absence, assumes control of the office on behalf of the Director. The Director keeps the Deputy Director fully informed regarding matters in which the Administrative Office is involved and seeks his counsel on most matters before taking action or making recommendations to the Court. The Deputy Director represents the Administrative Office in any situation in which the Administrative Director is unable to do so. While each Assistant Director in each division sets the work goals for employees in his or her division, the Deputy Director is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Chicago office, regardless of the specific division to which any individual is assigned. The Deputy Director serves as Secretary to the Supreme Court Rules Committee and the Supreme Court's Ad Hoc Committee on Civil Discovery Procedures.

The Director, along with the Intergovernmental Relations Unit, interacts with the Legislative Branch of State Government. Specifically, the Administrative Director presents the annual appropriation request and offers subsequent testimony before the Appropriations Committees in both the House and the Senate. The Director also communicates with members of both Legislative and Executive Branches on issues involving substantive matters supported by the Supreme Court.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS UNIT

The Intergovernmental Relations Unit, located within the Executive Office, works closely with the Director and the operating divisions within the Administrative Office on matters which involve the Legislative and Executive Branches of state government. The unit acts as a legislative clearinghouse to provide information and legislative updates to the Supreme Court, the Administrative Office and the judges of the State.

The Intergovernmental Relations Unit assists the Director in communicating the budgetary needs and legislative positions of the Supreme Court to the Legislative and Executive Branches through meetings with legislators and their staff and testimony at committee hearings. The Legal Services Division of the Administrative Office complements this role by drafting bill analyses and answering technical and legal questions concerning bills introduced in the General Assembly. The unit also provides an understanding of the actions and focus of the General Assembly and other parts of state government to members of the Judicial Branch and identifies possible areas of support for or resistance to Supreme Court legislative initiatives.

In cooperation with the Legal Division, the unit prepares a draft of the Annual Report of the Supreme Court to the General Assembly. The Supreme Court reviews the draft and gives approval to the final language of this constitutionally mandated report.

The experience and expertise of personnel within the Judicial Branch is relied upon extensively in the preparation of legislative materials and in the conducting of briefings on legislative matters for the Supreme Court, the Administrative Director, the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges and the Legislation Committee of the Illinois Judicial Conference. This last named committee is staffed by the Intergovernmental Relations Unit.

JUDICIAL BRANCH EDUCATION DIVISION

In recognition of the importance of providing interrelated, system-wide education and training for elected and appointed court officers and judicial branch employees, the Administrative Office established the Judicial Branch Education Division in 1988. 1989 was the Division's first full year of operation. The Division has responsibility for providing programs for judges, probation personnel, administration and technical personnel, circuit clerks and court reporters.

The mission of the Judicial Branch Education Division is to contribute to the professional excellence of judicial officers and court personnel through offering superior continuing education and training which enhances the administration of justice in Illinois.

Judicial Training and Continuing Professional Education

An important function of the Judicial Branch Education Division is to provide staff support to the Illinois Judicial Conference in the administration of education programs. Judicial Branch Education Division professional personnel staff the Executive Committee, the Subcommittee on Judicial Education, the Associate Judge Seminar Coordinating Committee, and the various topical committees established to develop the judicial program topics and formats. A description of the work of the Illinois Judicial Conference appears in this annual report under the Judicial Conference chapter.

All judicial education training programs have been carefully planned to meet the professional education needs of judicial officers throughout their careers. Judicial training has as its goal the establishment and maintenance of the highest level of judicial competence and public service to the citizens of Illinois. During 1989, two programs were offered to the judges, in addition to the Illinois Judicial Conference programs. The programs were:

Court Administration and Technical Training and Continuing Professional Education

During 1989, the Administrative Office continued to expand continuing education and training programs in court administration and technical areas for judges, clerks of the court and other court personnel. These programs are designed to increase the administrative and technical knowledge and skills of the individuals who have the daily responsibility for operating the Illinois courts. The expansion of these programs began in 1988 with the establishment of the Judicial Branch Education Division. They are based on the philosophy that continuing education and training needs cut across all levels of court personnel. Thus, unless highly specialized training is required for one group alone, seminars and workshops include a range of judicial officers and court personnel among the audience.

Probation Training and Continuing Professional Education

The goal of Illinois probation training, whether administered or sponsored by the Administrative Office, is the ongoing improvement in the quality of probation services in Illinois. To attain this goal, mandatory training requirements were established which require all newly appointed probation professionals to complete a forty (40) hour basic training program during their first year of employment. Twenty (20) hours of advanced training is required for all probation professionals for each subsequent year of employment.

A grant was awarded to the Circuit Court of Cook County for training all of Cook County probation staff. A contractual agreement with Sangamon State University provided basic training for individuals beginning careers as adult probation officers and detention line officers. Advanced training for all probation professionals was developed and conducted by the Administrative Office.

Refinements in advanced training for probation professionals continued in 1989. New management seminars added to the 1989 schedule included the Probation Executives Seminar, Probation Manager's Seminar, and Women Executives in Criminal Justice. Performance Appraisal Training for top and midlevel probation professionals was also a major training initiative during 1989.

Refer to the chart entitled "1989 Probation Training" for a list of all the probation training programs provided during 1989.

JUDICIAL MANAGEMENT INFORMATION SERVICES

Through its Judicial Management Information Services Division (JMIS), the Administrative Office has provided consulting to the Supreme Court, Appellate Court, and circuit courts to assist in planning for, obtaining, and using the appropriate data processing, word processing, office automation, and other technologies. JMIS staff visited more than 54 circuit courts and local probation departments as well as the Supreme Court offices and all five Appellate Court districts to provide technical assistance.

As part of the technical assistance provided in 1989, pilot sites were established in three circuit courts and four local probation departments to look at exemplary systems. Two additional pilot sites were established to evaluate bar coding as a means of data entry into case management systems and direct access into court systems over telephone lines from personal computers in attorneys' offices. A formal evaluation of these nine pilot sites was underway at the end of 1989. Three other pilot sites are planned; two of these will evaluate a jury management system that runs on networked personal computers with bar code input, and the third will investigate integrated circuit-wide case management system usage. The information derived from these pilot sites, as well as from several circuit courts that have permitted JMIS to monitor their system installations, will be an invaluable resource to the judicial branch as it seeks the best and most cost-effective technological solutions.

The multi-faceted nature of the solutions that are needed is exemplified by the planning assistance JMIS is providing to one circuit court. This planning embraces all types of court systems, word processing, communications, access to nationwide legal reference services, and the requisite new and enhanced computer equipment.

After years of using software packages developed by commercial vendors, during 1989 JMIS staff were developing three major systems internally. One of these, a payroll/timekeeping system for personnel within the judicial budget, was in the final stages of development and implementation at the end of the year. The other systems were a new case management system for the Appellate Court and a vouchering system to permit the Administrative Office to better support the judicial branch. The Appellate Court system is proving to be an extremely complex undertaking and a genuine challenge to JMIS staff. The vouchering system is in its formative stage. Development of a small but critical system that combines voter and driver records to produce a merged juror list on magnetic tape or diskette, as mandated by the legislature, was completed during the year. This systems development capability gives JMIS an important new dimension since, while software packages are often the most cost-effective solution, the uniqueness of some court and administrative procedures leads to a customized system, which usually can be developed more economically by in-house staff, as the only viable solution.

A major long-term initiative for JMIS will be to establish a statewide telecommunications capability that will link all of the courts to Administrative Office computers. This will provide a statewide data repository, will relieve the courts of the burden of submitting manual reports, and will yield tremendous savings to the entire judicial branch. The first step is complete; it consisted of modernizing the capabilities of personal computers throughout the Supreme Court and Appellate Court to permit easier and more standardized communications with each other and with the mainframe computers on which the Supreme Court and Appellate Court systems are run. As a by product, legal reference services such as Westlaw and Lexis now can be accessed directly from many of these personal computers thereby saving the costs of leasing terminals. At the end of 1989, the second step in the telecommunications initiative was underway. This step is an outgrowth of automated disposition reporting in which circuit courts submit criminal and traffic dispositions to JMIS, where they are processed and relayed to the Secretary of State and State Police. Currently, these submissions are limited to eight counties and are accomplished by sending data on magnetic tape through the mail. To achieve needed expansion of disposition reporting and to facilitate the telecommunications initiative, a migration from the labor-intensive magnetic tape method to entirely electronic transmissions using modern telecommunications has been initiated.

During 1989, the computer resources used by JMIS to support its expanding workload moved forward in several areas. Mainframe capacity was dramatically expanded with the installation of a modern, powerful IBM 4381 computer, which replaced one of its older counterparts. Microcomputer usage continued to expand throughout the Supreme Court, Appellate Court, and Administrative Office as JMIS and user staff made a concerted effort to put the more than 350 personal computers that are now installed to even greater use in the offices of judges, clerks, legal researchers, and AOIC personnel. Expanded uses of personal computers that are being investigated include increased access to data that reside in other mainframe and personal computers, additional personal computer-based systems and software package usage, and the capability for users to define and obtain reports from their personal computers without programmer intervention.

In the midst of new activity, it is important to remember the ongoing activities that have kept the three Administrative Office computers in two locations running, have maintained the Supreme Court and Appellate Court case management systems, have maintained close contact with users statewide so that their needs can be met, and have provided technical support to various judicial branch committees.

LEGAL SERVICES DIVISION

Court administration at the State level was formalized in 1959 when the legislature created the court administrator's office; its successor, the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, was conferred with constitutional status with the adoption of the 1962 judicial article amendment to the 1870 Constitution, and that status was retained in the 1970 Constitution.

During the early years of its existence, the office was, and still is, located in Springfield, the headquarters, and in Chicago. It operated as a unitary organization, i.e., one without divisional structure, until the early 1960's when an accounting unit was created. In the late 1970's and early 1980's, a Probation Division and a Judicial Management Information Systems Division were created. In 1988, the present organizational configuration came into being: Executive Office and seven divisions.

Historical AOIC Attorney Functions

Prior to 1988, especially the period 1959-1981, AOIC lawyers, as deputy and assistant directors and staff attorneys, were intimately involved in nearly every aspect of the office's operation. The lawyers were expected to perform functions assigned, whether they be of a legal, administrative, or other nature. The "generalist" lawyers performed diverse functions, in most instances, working closely with the State judiciary. These functions included, for example: management of official court reporters; overseeing the collection and analysis of court statistics generated by the Circuit Court of Cook County; staffing the Illinois Judicial Conference Executive Committee, annual and regional seminars, New Judge Seminar, study committees, Judicial Education Subcommittee, Legislative Subcommittee, and so forth; author and/or editor of annual reports of the Judicial Conference and AOIC; staffing the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges, and Supreme Court committees such as the Rules Committee, delay in criminal appeals, etc.; draft and distribute to the judiciary analyses of Illinois Supreme Court opinions and legislation enacted into law; assist the Director with his legislative liaison duties; assist the Supreme Court in drafting its annual report to the legislature; act as the Director's liaison with the Attorney General's office; administer certain Supreme Court rules; assist the Director in his capacity as secretary to the Illinois Courts Commission, including acting as a reporter of the Commission's decisions. Some of these responsibilities continue to be reposed in lawyers in the Legal Services Division; many have been transferred to other divisions where, in most instances, nonlawyers, but otherwise professionally trained staff, are executing the duties.

Creation of the Legal Services Division

In early 1988, a part of the lawyer and related support staff was placed under the supervision of the Deputy Director. In July 1988, the Legal Services Division was created, and it began full operation as a separate division in September, 1988. The Division's Assistant Director is located in Chicago and the Division's Associate Director is located in Springfield. At the end of 1989, the Division consisted of: in Chicago, two attorneys and one legal secretary as well as the Assistant Director; in Springfield, one attorney, a legal assistant and a legal secretary, as well as the Associate Director. In addition, during 1989 an attorney in the Legal Services Division was transferred to the Court Services Division. Furthermore, in the Court Services Division, a research attorney/court analyst position was created and the attorney holding that position was placed under the Legal Services Division's supervision when he performs legal research.

Duties of the Division

With the formation of the Legal Services Division, traditional legal services are now performed in a more structured setting than existed prior to the organization of the Division. When requested, the Division lawyers provide "in-house" legal assistance to other AOIC divisions and, when solicited, advice to judicial and nonjudicial officers or employees within the judicial branch. In 1989, the Division processed 120 formal requests for legal assistance. Such requests have covered a wide range of subjects, including, for example, review of professional service contracts, data processing contracts, child support enforcement proposals, leases for office space for judges and AOIC staff, and memoranda on a broad range of legal matters.

The Division's lawyers continued to provide staff support to a number of judicial committees, including during 1989:

- Judicial Conference Study Committee on Complex Litigation
- Administrative Committee of the Illinois Appellate Court
- Supreme Court Blue Ribbon Committee to Study the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission
- Supreme Court Committee on Post-Conviction Review of Death Sentences
- Supreme Court Oversight and Planning Committee for a Judicial Performance Evaluation Program
- Ad Hoc Article V Committee of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges
- Study Committee on Juvenile Justice

Also, Division lawyers staff the internal AOIC committee, Juvenile Justice Coordination Work Group.

During 1989, the Assistant Director completed for the Supreme Court an analysis of the proposed Code of Professional Responsibility and its relationship to the Code of Judicial Conduct. The Assistant Director continues, as he has since 1975, to provide the judiciary with analyses of selected Illinois Supreme Court opinions and recent legislation enacted into law. He also, as he has since 1973, authors and edits the Bench and Bar Newsletter, published monthly by the Illinois State Bar Association and distributed to all Illinois judges. Attorneys in the Division provided legal research and analysis of issues arising from the Auditor General's audit, representation of the judicial branch of State government in the acquisition of real property for the Appellate Court of the Third Judicial District and lease of office space for the additional judges assigned to the First District, and other legal services not in the course of ordinary duties.

In the first months of the AOIC reorganization, two Division lawyers worked closely with the Judicial Branch Education Division staff and assisted with judicial education seminars. During 1988, the Division lawyers provided support services to the Illinois Judicial Conference, including its Executive Committee, Subcommittee on Judicial Education, the annual meetings of the Conference and Associate Judge Seminar, regional seminars, and the New Judge Seminar. The Legal Services Division, in 1989, provided little assistance in this area since the Judicial Branch Education Division has been assigned principal responsibility for staff support in this area.

Prior to September 1987, legislation of interest to the Supreme Court was analyzed and tracked by the Associate Director, the then staff attorney in the Springfield office. With the creation of an Intergovernmental Relations Unit, the tracking and legislative liaison work is no longer a part of the Division's responsibilities. However, a major part of the workload of the Legal Services Division during each legislative session is the analysis of legislation being monitored by the Supreme Court, the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges and the Judicial Conference Subcommittee on Legislation. The analyses are drafted by the Legal Assistant in the Springfield office, with lawyer oversight.

Duties of the Legal Services Division, which have been in place for a number of years and continue under the reorganization, include the administration of Supreme Court Rules 215(d) (impartial medical experts) and 711 (licensing of senior law students), assignment of downstate judges to Cook County, and liaison with the Attorney General's office in providing legal representation to judges sued in their official capacity.

Some of the duties of the Legal Services Division briefly mentioned here, as well as some other duties for which it is responsible either in whole or in part, are:

- The Courts Commission (track cases and act as reporter of decisions)
- Annual Meeting of the Illinois Appellate Court (act as secretary)
- Administration of Supreme Court Rule 215(d) Impartial Medical Experts
- Administration of Supreme Court Rule 711 Representation by Supervised Senior Law Students or Graduates
- Administration of Supreme Court Rule 39 Appointment of Associate Judges (act as teller of elections for Cook County Circuit Court associate judge elections)
- Annual Report of Supreme Court to General Assembly (assist Court in drafting legislative recommendations)
- Distribution of Supreme Court Opinion and Legislative Summaries (author all summaries)
- Out-of-Circuit Assignments (administer program assigning downstate judges to Cook County Circuit Court)
- Legislation Affecting the Courts (author summaries of public acts)
- Appendix — Genealogy of Judges of the Illinois Supreme Court (compiled original genealogy)
- Judicial Elections and Judicial Retention Election (compile election and retention results)

Central Legal Research Program

In 1988, the Supreme Court approved the Administrative Director's recommendation to establish an experimental central legal research unit within the Division to assist trial judges with legal research in pending cases. Beginning on January 1, 1989, the program was offered to trial judges in the 5th Appellate District which is composed of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 20th judicial circuits. Forty-eight requests were received during the period from January 1, 1989, to December 31, 1989. Memoranda of law were prepared for issues covering such diverse topics as mechanic's liens, bankruptcy, statutory construction, inherent powers of judges, due process, interrelationship of criminal and civil law, collateral estoppel, and res judicata. As part of the program, the trial judges are asked to evaluate the quality and utility of the service. An overwhelming majority of the trial judges responding have found the program to be useful for complex civil or criminal cases.

Mandatory Court-Annexed Arbitration Program Coordination

In 1989, the Legal Services Division Associate Director, who administers the mandatory court-annexed arbitration program on behalf of the Supreme Court and who is the alternative dispute coordinator, was transferred from the Legal Services Division to the Court Services Division. One of the Legal Services Division's attorneys was named Associate Director; however, the number of attorneys in the Division was decreased by one.

Legal Staff Coordination

As stated above, many of the duties of the lawyers in the Legal Services Division had been transferred to other divisions where, in most instances, nonlawyers but otherwise professionally trained staff, are executing the duties. In 1989, those divisions added licensed lawyers to their staff. These lawyers, although not in attorney positions, provide additional resources to the Legal Services Division when needed. At those times, these lawyers are under the supervision of a lawyer in the Legal Services Division and the general supervision of the Assistant Director of the Legal Services Division.

PLANNING, RESEARCH & SPECIAL PROJECTS DIVISION

Although staff in this division serve in many ad hoc capacities, Planning, Research and Special Projects has three defined functions. The first is to serve as the primary resource for the tabulation, analysis and dissemination of the monthly caseload statistics filed by the trial and appellate courts. The second is to conduct research and prepare reports on issues of concern to the courts. The third is to monitor the availability of federal funding sources and to facilitate applications for funds by Illinois courts.

Caseload Statistics

Throughout 1989, three reports were submitted monthly to the Division by the clerks of the circuit courts. These reports indicated the numbers of new filings, dispositions and pending cases, the number of Law Jury cases terminated by verdict and felony dispositions and sentences in each county. Staff traveled to various trial courts to work with clerks in the preparation of these reports and to explore means of electronic data transfer which could replace the manual reporting system. Production of the quarterly reports, "Circuit Court Calendar Management" and "Circuit Court Caseload Summaries," continued. Division staff used these reports to respond to inquiries concerning Illinois judicial branch statistics from the trial courts themselves, the media (as referred by the Public Information Officer), members of the bar, other state courts, executive branch agencies and the public.

Division equipment and data entry capabilities were used to tabulate reports submitted by Illinois probation departments. The results were provided to the AOIC Probation Division for its use and analysis.

Division staff continued to support the activities of the Statistical Review Committee. During 1989, preliminary drafts of the Committee's findings and recommendations were circulated for review and comment by the Committee members. Submission of the final report to the Supreme Court is scheduled for early 1990.

The 1988 Statistical Report on the Appellate Court of Illinois was formatted and presented during 1989. This report provided the numbers of cases filed and disposed in the five districts of the Appellate Court.

Research and Program Assistance

During 1989, the Division initiated projects on both a divisional basis and responded to requests for assistance and additional resources from other Administrative Office divisions, the circuit courts and judicial committees.

Mental health initiatives included the continuation of grants and projects in the Circuit Court of Cook County and the 14th Circuit (Rock Island County) designed to provide specialized case management services to mentally ill and/or developmentally disabled offenders on probation. These projects were funded by grants from the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities and the Illinois Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities, respectively. A second initiative was a national analysis of the financing of those mental health services provided to the state trial courts. Finally, the Division, in conjunction with the Judicial Branch Education Division and the Institute for Mental Disability and the Law (NCSC), developed and distributed two manuals on court/mental health system interactions. These manuals, one for each system, were designed to increase the level of understanding between these significantly different systems in order to improve the quality of the numerous interactions which occur.

A major project was begun in 1989 in cooperation with the Probation Division. This project was designed to create the first complete profile of the population of adult and juvenile offenders sentenced to probation in Illinois. The final report will provide information critical to criminal justice planners as regards the nature of the population under supervision of the circuit courts through their probation departments.

The Planning, Research and Special Projects Division prepared and delivered testimony on substance abuse issues to the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

Working with the Illinois Department of Public Health and the Probation Division, guidelines for dealing with AIDS in the courts were developed during 1989. Prepared at the request of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges, these guidelines will review all statutory requirements for AIDS testing and recommend policies and procedures for courts and probation offices dealing with AIDS cases. The guidelines, scheduled for publication in February 1990, will be distributed to all courts and probation offices. Division staff represented the Administrative Office on the Illinois AIDS Inter-agency Task Force.

Jury management projects continued in 1989. Staff supported the activities of the Supreme Court Committee on Implementation of Jury Standards. The Committee's Draft Standards were submitted to the Court for its review and consideration in November, 1989. Technical assistance was provided to individual trial courts. A proposal for a model automated jury management system was developed. The proposal targeted personal computer based systems for small to mid-sized courts. The proposal resulted in the agreement of LaSalle and McHenry counties to serve as pilot sites in a test of JURY+ software. Enactment of Public Act 86-491 required that all counties, except Cook County, use a juror source list that combined licensed drivers and registered voters. To assist trial courts without local data processing capabilities to meet this requirement, Planning, Research and Special Projects Division staff worked with the JMIS Division to develop a program to provide courts with merged source lists. Orders were again taken for petit and grand jury handbooks. Through the reproduction capabilities of the Department of Central Management Services, the Administrative Office printed handbooks which were delivered to the circuit courts for distribution. Over 122,000 handbooks were distributed to Illinois jurors in 1989.

The Report to the Illinois General Assembly on the Use of Eavesdropping Devices During 1988 was submitted in April, 1989, as required by statute.

"Findings" is a publication of the Administrative Office prepared and distributed by the Division. The purpose of this publication is to provide data and analyses concerning issues of importance to the Illinois courts. "Findings" issued during 1989 included:

- Substance Abuse and the Adult Probationer;
- Jury Operations;
- Four Myths of Court Delay;
- Substance Abuse and Juvenile Probation; and
- Illinois Court Financing.

A project begun in 1988, the "Illinois Reporter of Decisions Management Study", was completed with a final meeting of the study committee on March 14, 1989, and a final draft of the report was submitted to the Administrative Director on April 3, 1989. The study suggested that the Supreme Court initiate a process of change in the operation of the Reporter of Decisions coincident with its relocation from Bloomington to Springfield.

A unique function of the Planning, Research and Special Projects Division was to serve as an "incubator" for new programs of the Administrative Office. When fully operational, these programs would be transferred to functional divisions of the office. During 1989, two programs, court reporter management and child support management, were transferred to the Court Services Division. To follow-up on that "incubator" role, Planning, Research and Special Projects Division staff played a major role in development of monitoring and measurement software for the optional child support enforcement procedures specified in Supreme Court Rule 296, effective February 1, 1989. The Division also aided child support projects staff in negotiation with the Illinois Department of Public Aid incident to planning a statewide child support payment enforcement information network.

Planning, Research and Special Projects Division staff worked on many projects and contributed to reports in conjunction with staff from other Administrative Office divisions. General technical assistance included production of computerized graphics, desktop publishing capabilities, development of spreadsheets and data bases, survey design and data tabulation. Assistance was provided to Judicial Branch Education, Court Services, Administrative Services and Probation divisions. Examples included forms design for probation studies, tabulation of program evaluations of Administrative Office workshops and seminars, tables, maps and graphs for such projects as personnel studies, legislative presentations, a survey of circuit clerks, intensive probation studies, juvenile detention projects and child support studies.

Specific major projects and reports in which Planning, Research and Special Projects Division staff offered significant contributions included:

- "Sangamon County Automation Study";
- "Court Security Interim Report";
- "The Circuit Court Clerk and Child Support in Illinois, A Judicial Perspective";
- "Child Support Enforcement in Illinois";
- "An Analysis of Organization, Space, Recordkeeping and Equipment, Third District Appellate Court";
- "Space Requirements for the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Sangamon County";
- "1989 Annual Report of Mandatory Court-Annexed Arbitration";
- Provided caseload studies for the Study Committee on Operation of the Judicial System;
- Assisted in the draft and review of inter-agency agreements between chief circuit judges and DASA/TASC (Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse/Treatment Alternatives for Special Crimes);
- Assisted in design and administration of three statewide jury management workshops;
- Assisted in design and presentation of one Court Security Workshop for the judiciary and two for court clerks; and,
- Provided staff support for the Court Security Standards Committee of the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges.

Monitoring Federal Funds

Sources of federal funds available to the state courts include the State Justice Institute, the Administrative Office of the United States Courts, the Department of Justice and subordinate offices such as the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) and the Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA), as well as other specifically targeted federal funds. In this capacity, the Division functions as a clearinghouse for information and coordinates such applications, providing technical assistance to the trial courts as needed. An example of these efforts is the assistance offered to trial courts in securing Federal Anti-Drug Abuse Act funds for substance abuse programs.

PROBATION SERVICES DIVISION

Section 15 of the "Probation Officers Act" provides: "The Supreme Court of Illinois may establish a Division of Probation Services whose purpose shall be the development, establishment, promulgation, and enforcement of uniform standards for probation services in this State, and to otherwise carry out the intent of this Act" (i.e., Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 38, par. 204-7). Consistent with its statutory responsibility, the mission of the Probation Services Division is to improve the quality, effectiveness, and professionalism of probation and related court services in Illinois. In carrying out this mission, the Division's policy, program, and resource development activities extend to all aspects of the administration and delivery of probation services in Illinois.

During 1989, the Division continued to make progress toward achieving its goal of improving probation services in Illinois. To that end, the Division's ongoing coordination, monitoring, and technical assistance operations continued to be major priorities in 1989. In addition to these ongoing responsibilities, the following specific major projects and initiatives were undertaken by the Probation Services Division in 1989.

Juvenile Justice Initiatives

The Division employed a full time Juvenile Justice Specialist in 1989 with funding provided by the Illinois Juvenile Justice Commission. The specialist coordinates juvenile justice issues with other Administrative Office staff and acts as a liaison to outside agencies.

The emphasis of juvenile justice initiatives in 1989 was on issues related to minors in custody. Prior to July 1, 1989, the Division supplied all juvenile court judges, probation officers and detention officers with detailed information on P.A. 85-1443, which prohibited the detention of minors in adult jails as of that date. Following the implementation of this legislation, the Division continued to monitor the impact of the legislation and the juvenile detention centers statewide and continued to provide technical assistance to probation departments and detention centers affected by the change.

In the fall of 1989, the Division facilitated the development of model detention screening criteria with a work group of probation and detention professionals from around the state. The recommended criteria will be promulgated in 1990 and technical assistance will be provided to local departments on the implementation process.

The Division also provided technical assistance to detention centers in 1989. In February of 1989, Division staff spent two weeks assisting a new facility in Macon County with policy and procedure development and staff orientation and training so that it could safely begin operation.

Specialized DUI Program Standards

The DUI Specialized Supervision Program has been in existence since January 1, 1986. At the end of FY'87 the program consisted of 75 officers distributed among 21 probation/court services departments. The number of officers has remained constant to the present time.

After approximately one year of research and with consultation from representatives of the Illinois probation community, the program standards have been modified and improved. The promulgation of the revised standards was conducted through training programs held in March, 1989. Along with the revised standards, the Probation Services Division began the collection of specific data elements deemed pertinent to the continual monitoring and evaluation of this program. Each department with a DUI Specialized Supervision Program is required to submit for approval written local policies and procedures for the operation of their program and to be in compliance with standards established by the Probation Services Division.

The revised program standards limit the population eligible for supervision under this program to high-risk DUI offenders. The standards also prohibited any further allocated DUI positions from assignment for public/community service duties and specified criteria which must be met before a DUI officer could be assigned duties as a court liaison. The program was expanded to allow for the continued supervision of certain DUI offenders in an aftercare status following completion of the maximum level supervision phase.

Due to an insufficient number of eligible DUI offenders, the DUI Specialized Supervision Program was discontinued in one jurisdiction during 1989 with the position being reassigned to expand an already existing program.

Management and Operations Study of the Cook County Juvenile Court Services Department

In September, 1989, staff of the Probation Services Division were joined by members of the Chief Judge's Office of the Circuit Court of Cook County to conduct site work for a comprehensive management and operations study of the Juvenile Court Services Department. This study, with the support and approval of the Chief Judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County, was the culmination of several months of joint planning and design development. Field work included twelve team members interviewing 157 staff of the Juvenile Court System and it marked the first time that a joint team format was utilized for such a study.

A planning committee, comprised of staff of the Chief Judge's Office, the Juvenile Court Services Department and the AOIC Probation Services Division, developed the following goals for the study:

1. Improve and enhance knowledge of the Juvenile Court Services Department's operations, programs and services by the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts and the Chief Judge's Office of the Circuit Court of Cook County,
2. Assess the Juvenile Court Services Department's implementation of AOIC Operational Standards, and
3. Assess the efficiency and effectiveness of the delivery of services through existing management and organizational structures and procedures.

Work on the draft report continued during the Fall of 1989 with initial observations and recommendations being shared with the administrative staff of the Juvenile Court Services Department. The final report will be issued early in 1990.

Development of Division Plan for Operations and Projects

In the Fall of 1989, the Probation Services Division developed its planning document for operations and special projects for the period covered by State fiscal years 1990 and 1991. This planning document will serve as a guide for Division activities during that period. Recognizing that organizational planning is a dynamic process, the Division's plan is designed to accommodate changing needs and priorities.

Division operations are organized into two major functional areas: field services and program services. The field services function is the primary vehicle for translating State probation policy into local probation practice, and the field staff are policy and program generalists who provide the main communication linkage between the Division and the probation departments. The program services function is more specialized in that the program staff are responsible for specific program development and project management initiatives necessary for the effective operation of the Division.

Like the Division's organizational functions, the planning document is divided into two major components: ongoing operations and special projects. The ongoing operations section summarizes the Division's major operational activities, and identifies priorities within those operational areas for this planning period. Specific tasks, staffing requirements, and timetables are identified for each special project, and all projects are prioritized. The plan includes the establishment of a project tracking and monitoring system to facilitate the ongoing review and evaluation of special projects, and to enhance the Division's ability to manage its limited resources.

Annual Probation Managers Meeting

In May of 1989, the Probation Services Division sponsored a Probation Managers Meeting for all Chief Probation Officers/Directors of Court Services in Illinois. The two-day meeting was held in Springfield, and was the first of what is intended to be an annual event.

The meeting commenced with opening remarks from the Administrative Director of the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, and included informational presentations from virtually all divisions of the Administrative Office on a wide range of topics. Each participant received a manual of written materials related to the topical presentation, and the meeting was well attended, with over 90 probation managers represented.

Pretrial Services Programs

During 1989, the Probation Services Division continued to develop operational policies and procedures for pretrial services agencies. To assist the Division with this task, a Pretrial Services Advisory Committee was established which met in Waukegan on July 13th and 14th.

At the beginning of 1989, two counties (Rock Island and Lake) were the only counties with ongoing pretrial services programs. During early 1989, the Division assisted McHenry County in developing a specialized pretrial services program which became operational in May. The Division also assisted Marion County in developing a pretrial services program.

In December, the General Assembly passed House Bill 1211 which provided for $1,100,000 to be appropriated to the Supreme Court for the operation of a pretrial service program in Cook County. This appropriation became the first funding to be made available by the State since the act establishing pretrial services became effective July 1, 1987. In response to the State appropriation, the Cook County Board appropriated $2.9 million to begin a pretrial program starting March 1, 1990.

Automation of Probation Eligibles List

Pursuant to its statutory responsibility, the Probation Services Division has established minimum hiring and promotion qualifications for Illinois probation personnel, as well as a centralized application process. Applicants must submit a copy of the application form to the Division for purposes of verification of the minimum qualifications. After the qualifications are verified, the applicant's name is entered on the circuit eligibles list(s) of preference, and it is from these lists that employment and promotion selections are made. In multi-county circuits, applicants may also identify one or more counties of preference, and this identified preference is included on the eligibles list.

In 1989, the Division initiated transfer of the eligibles list program from the Displaywriter to a newly developed PC-based system. Capacity of the old system is approximately 3,000 records, while the new system will hold approximately 100,000 records. The new system will also include the applicant's address and telephone number on the eligibles list, and will generate additional related documents.

With the expanded system, the Division can accommodate more applicants and production of the eligibles lists will be expedited. The new system should be fully operational early in 1990.

Intensive Drug Abuser Pilot Program

In recent years there has been an increase in the number of offenders arrested for drug related offenses. Given this and the fact that drug usage and criminal behavior are closely connected, the Division identified a need to create a dispositional alternative for the courts to place offenders into a highly structured community-based program which provides for improved supervision and monitoring of drug abusing offenders placed on probation.

In January, 1989, monies were set aside to fund a pilot program for the supervision of drug abusing offenders. The Adams County Probation and Court Services Department of the Eighth Judicial Circuit was selected as the site for this pilot program.

In the Spring of 1989, the Division began developing operational standards for the Intensive Drug Abuser Program (IDAP). The Adams County Probation Department implemented its pilot program in October, 1989.

The primary purpose of the IDAP will be to create a dispositional alternative for the courts to place offenders into a highly structured, community based supervision program. Based on the prior history of criminality and drug abuse of the offenders, the probation department can identify those who are at greater risk of repeating the offense. The case can then be assigned to a specialized officer for monitoring and enforcement of the court's order and for appropriate and expeditious referrals of offenders for identified counseling and/or treatment.

Through conducting on-site visits, close monitoring of the program and a program evaluation, the pilot program will provide the necessary data to determine if a specialized supervision program for drug abusing offenders will result in lower probation violation rates for new criminal offenses than like offenders supervised by the general supervision officer. It is hoped that the pilot program will assist in determining whether or not providing more intensive supervision, an opportunity to increase the offender's education level, decreased offender use of illegal substances, and the opportunity to develop a better self image will help facilitate the offender's coping abilities as well as help the offender make more effective life decisions.

TASC Inter-agency Agreements

An interdivisional workgroup was established in 1988 to review and represent the interest of local criminal justice systems concerning section 10-101 of the Illinois Alcoholism and Other Drug Dependency Act, effective July 1, 1988, as amended (Ill. Rev. Stat. ch 111 1/2, para. 6360-1). The Act provided that, if an individual elects to undergo treatment, the court shall order an examination by a designated program (TASC). Unless there is a finding by the court of no significant relationship between the addiction and the crime, or that imprisonment is necessary for the protection of the public, the statutes require that the individual be placed on probation and under the supervision of the designated program (TASC) for treatment and under the supervision of the probation authorities for probation supervision.

Representatives of the interdivisional workgroup, under the supervision of the Assistant Director of the Probation Services Division, met with the Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse concerning the need for additions to that agency's administrative rules for the designated agency. As a result of several discussions with DASA and TASC officials, the rules were modified to require that each office of the designated program (TASC) enter into an inter-agency agreement with the chief judge of each circuit concerning the operating procedures of the court in relation to the services provided by the designated program.

During 1989, TASC representatives met with the chief judge of each circuit. Inter-agency agreements were entered into in all but two circuits.

Monitoring of Probation Fee Legislation

In 1989, the Division provided technical assistance to judges, probation departments and county boards regarding the implementation of Public Act 85-1256 which took effect January 1, 1989.

Pursuant to a request from the Conference of Chief Circuit Judges, the Division conducted a survey in April, 1989, to all adult probation departments in order to assess the use of the new statutory fee.

The Division also assisted in the development of legislation which provided for a broader definition for the use of monies collected. In February, the Division also distributed a letter to all probation departments clarifying the policy for collecting and/or assessing fees for out-of-state probationers.

The Division reviewed Annual Plans for 1990 which included for the first time, provisions for departments to request expenditures from monies deposited in county probation services funds. Information obtained from these plans regarding the use of probation services fee collections will be analyzed by the Division. Public Act 85-1256 also requires that each county treasurer submit to the Supreme Court by January 10th of each year a report identifying the amount of fees collected during the preceding year and the amount of funds expended. A statewide report will be developed by the Division in 1990.

Electronic Monitoring Programs

Electronic monitoring is simply the use of electronic technology to indicate whether the offender or pretrial releasee is in a specific location. Electronic monitoring serves to supplement, not eliminate, personal contact. There are two major types of monitoring technology: continuous signaling and programmed contact. With a continuous signaling system, violations can be detected immediately; programmed contact systems can only detect a violation when a random call is made. Additionally, vendors offer the option of tamper-proof equipment which will detect attempts to remove the transmitter.

Lake and Jackson Counties were the first jurisdictions to implement electronic monitoring programs in Illinois, starting in 1986. Lake County electronically monitored work releasees, pretrial releasees, and probationers. Jackson County monitored probationers and pretrial releasees. Continuous signaling equipment was utilized in both jurisdictions.

Since then, twelve counties have begun using electronic monitoring devices. These include: Lake, Jackson, Richland, Wayne, Edwards, Franklin/Hamilton, Marion, Woodford, Will,

St. Clair and Effingham. Additionally, thirteen counties are planning programs. These are Calhoun, Cook, McHenry, Winnebago, Henry, Vermilion, Whiteside, Morgan, Macoupin, McLean, Adams, Sangamon and Logan.

Specific legislation, as a result of Public Act 85-1287, effective January 1, 1989, provided for the use of an approved monitoring device as a condition of pretrial release home confinement, imposed as a condition of probation, and as a condition of periodic imprisonment. In 1989, Public Act 86-766 was enacted, which will become effective January 1, 1990, and will provide for the use of an approved monitoring device as a condition of probation for juveniles adjudicated delinquent.

Electronic monitoring used in conjunction with home confinement is a relatively new concept that is gaining fast acceptance in the probation community. Aside from potential savings in bed days and operating costs, monitoring can benefit both society and the individual by allowing pretrial releasees and offenders to seek and retain employment and attend treatment, counseling, educational or vocational programs.

The Probation Services Division has been monitoring the development and use of electronic monitoring by probation departments in Illinois. Additionally, efforts are underway to develop standards which will provide guidance to the circuit courts in designing for the most effective use of electronic monitoring devices.

AGE OF PENDING CASES REPORTS

Chief Judges — Summary age of pending cases report for each county, which includes (1) number of untried felony cases pending; (2) number of untried felony cases more than 180 days old (over five years old in Cook County); (3) steps taken or to be taken to insure the prompt disposition of such cases; (4) number of cases dismissed under the "speedy trial statute" (Ill. Rev. Stat., ch. 38, par. 103-5); (5) number of untried law jury cases (over $15,000) pending; (6) number of untried law jury cases (over $15,000) more than two years old (over seven years old in Cook County); (7) a report on any category of cases in which there is unusual delay noted; and (8) number of complaints from attorneys or citizens concerning delay in processing cases.

ADMINISTRATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE 39 — APPOINTMENT OF ASSOCIATE JUDGES

Article VI, Section 8, of the Constitution of Illinois provides that each circuit court shall have such number of associate judges as provided by law with said associate judges to be appointed by the circuit judges in each circuit as the Supreme Court shall provide by rule. The number authorized in each circuit, as provided in sections 2 and 3 of "An Act relating to the number, appointment and retirement of Associate Judges" (Ill. Rev. Stat. 1987, ch. 37, pars. 160.2, 160.2-1), is determined by formula based on population and other factors, or a determination by the Supreme Court that a need exists in a given circuit for additional associate judges.

Pursuant to section 2 of said Act, as amended effective December 1, 1987, the number of population formula associate judgeships authorized by law in the 22 circuits in 1989 was 371 (the same as in 1988), an increase from 345 in 1987 (from 157 to 182 in Cook County and to 189 in the downstate circuits based on one in the 7th Circuit). The maximum number of additional associate judges approved by the Supreme Court to be appointed at any one time during the year, pursuant to section 3 of the Act, was 22 in Cook County and 25 in downstate circuits.

When a vacancy exists in an associate judgeship, the vacancy is filled by appointment of the circuit judges in accordance with procedures prescribed of Supreme Court Rule 39. After notice is given by the chief judge of the circuit to the members of the bar of the circuit that the vacancy exists and will be filled by the judges of the circuit, any attorney licensed to practice law in Illinois may file with the chief judge an application on the form prescribed and furnished by the Administrative Director. The chief judge then certifies the names of candidates to the Administrative Director for inclusion on a ballot mailed to each circuit judge in the circuit. Ballots returned to the Administrative Director are counted and the results tabulated and certified to the chief judge, the secrecy of the ballots being maintained, after which the successful applicant is then declared to be appointed by the circuit judges.

ADMINISTRATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE 215(d) IMPARTIAL MEDICAL EXPERTS

The Administrative Director is charged with the responsibility of administering Supreme Court Rule 215(d), which allows a court to order an impartial medical examination of a party whose mental or physical condition is an issue. The examination must be made by a member or members of a panel of physicians chosen for their special qualifications by the Illinois State Medical Society. The examiner submits a report for the use of the court and the parties, and if the examiner's testimony is required at trial, it will be given without cost to the parties.

The charts which follow provide a profile of the use of Rule 215(d), both cumulative since 1970 and for 1989. The 1989 statistical summary is divided into the categories of "orders," "examinations" and "costs," which refer to those entered, performed or charged in that year.

ADMINISTRATION OF SUPREME COURT RULE 711

Illinois Supreme Court Rule 711 provides for the temporary licensing of law students or law graduates who have not yet had an opportunity to sit for a bar examination to appear in court, prepare pleadings or briefs, counsel with clients, negotiate in the settlement of claims and prepare and draft legal instruments. These services may be performed only for qualified agencies such as legal assistance programs, public defender offices and governmental offices, and the student must be supervised by a member of the Illinois bar. To be eligible for licensing, a student must be certified by his or her dean as having received credit for at least 60% hourly credits required for graduation and as being in good academic standing and eligible under the school's criteria to undertake the activities authorized by the Rule.

In 1989, 537 licenses were issued. Since the adoption of Rule 711 in May, 1969, a total of 10,176 senior law students have participated in this legal internship program. The following table indicates the use of Rule 711 in the last seven years.

In 1989, 40 Supreme Court opinions were summarized.

The office also analyzes legislation affecting court personnel, the operation of the court system and substantive and procedural law. Digests of 179 Public Acts were sent to Illinois judges.

LEGISLATION AFFECTING THE COURTS

During 1989, numerous bills affecting various areas of procedural and substantive law were passed by the General Assembly. A selection of bills having a direct and particular impact on the operation of the court system and court personnel is summarized below. References are to Ill. Rev. Stat., ch., par.

APPENDIX A
CONSTITUTION OF 1970
ARTICLE VI — THE JUDICIARY

Section 1. Courts

The judicial power is vested in a Supreme Court, an Appellate Court and Circuit Courts.

Section 2. Judicial Districts

The State is divided into five Judicial Districts for the selection of Supreme and Appellate Court Judges. The First Judicial District consists of Cook County. The remainder of the State shall be divided by law into four Judicial Districts of substantially equal population, each of which shall be compact and composed of contiguous counties.

Section 3. Supreme Court — Organization

The Supreme Court shall consist of seven Judges. Three shall be selected from the First Judicial District and one from each of the other Judicial Districts. Four Judges constitute a quorum and the concurrence of four is necessary for a decision. Supreme Court Judges shall select a Chief Justice from their number to serve for a term of three years.

Section 4. Supreme Court — Jurisdiction

(a) The Supreme Court may exercise original jurisdiction in cases relating to revenue, mandamus, prohibition or habeas corpus and as may be necessary to the complete determination of any case on review.

(b) Appeals from judgments of Circuit Courts imposing a sentence of death shall be directed to the Supreme Court as a matter of right. The Supreme Court shall provide by rule for direct appeal in other cases.

(c) Appeals from the Appellate Court to the Supreme Court are a matter of right if a question under the Constitution of the United States or of this State arises for the first time in and as a result of the action of the Appellate Court, or if a division of the Appellate Court certifies that a case decided by it involves a question of such importance that the case should be decided by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court may provide by rule for appeals from the Appellate Court in other cases.

Section 5. Appellate Court — Organization

The number of Appellate Judges to be selected from each Judicial District shall be provided by law. The Supreme Court shall prescribe by rule the number of Appellate divisions in each Judicial District. Each Appellate division shall have at least three judges. Assignments to divisions shall be made by the Supreme Court. A majority of a division constitutes a quorum and the concurrence of a majority of the division is necessary for a decision. There shall be at least one division in each Judicial District and each division shall sit at times and places prescribed by rules of the Supreme Court.

Section 6. Appellate Court — Jurisdiction

Appeals from final judgments of a Circuit Court are a matter of right to the Appellate Court in the Judicial District in which the Circuit Court is located except in cases appealable directly to the Supreme Court and except that after a trial on the merits in a criminal case, there shall be no appeal from a judgment of acquittal. The Supreme Court may provide by rule for appeals to the Appellate Court from other than final judgments of Circuit Courts. The Appellate Court may exercise original jurisdiction when necessary to the complete determination of any case on review. The Appellate Court shall have such powers of direct review of administrative action as provided by law.

Section 7. Judicial Circuits

(a) The State shall be divided into Judicial Circuits consisting of one or more counties. The First Judicial District shall constitute a Judicial Circuit. The Judicial Circuits within the other Judicial Districts shall be as provided by law. Circuits composed of more than one county shall be compact and of contiguous counties. The General Assembly by law may provide for the division of a circuit for the purpose of selection of Circuit Judges and for the selection of Circuit Judges from the circuit at large.

(b) Each Judicial Circuit shall have one Circuit Court with such number of Circuit Judges as provided by law. Unless otherwise provided by law, there shall be at least one Circuit Judge from each county. In the First Judicial District, unless otherwise provided by law, Cook County, Chicago, and the area outside of Chicago shall be separate units for the selection of Circuit Judges, with at least twelve chosen at large from the area outside Chicago and at least thirty-six chosen at large from Chicago.

(c) Circuit Judges in each circuit shall select by secret ballot a Chief Judge from their number to serve at their pleasure. Subject to the authority of the Supreme Court, the Chief Judge shall have general administrative authority over his court, including authority to provide for divisions, general or specialized, and for appropriate times and places of holding court.

Section 8. Associate Judges

Each Circuit Court shall have such number of Associate Judges as provided by law. Associate Judges shall be appointed by the Circuit Judges in each circuit as the Supreme Court shall provide by rule. In the First Judicial District, unless otherwise provided by law, at least one-fourth of the Associate Judges shall be appointed from, and reside, outside Chicago. The Supreme Court shall provide by rule for matters to be assigned to Associate Judges.

Section 9. Circuit Courts — Jurisdiction

Circuit Courts shall have original jurisdiction of all justiciable matters except when the Supreme Court has original and exclusive jurisdiction relating to redistricting of the General Assembly and to the ability of the Governor to serve or resume office. Circuit Courts shall have such power to review administrative action as provided by law.

Section 10. Terms of Office

The terms of office of Supreme and Appellate Court Judges shall be ten years; of Circuit Judges, six years; and of Associate Judges, four years.

Section 11. Eligibility for Office

No person shall be eligible to be a Judge or Associate Judge unless he is a United States citizen, a licensed attorney-at-law of this State, and a resident of the unit which selects him. No change in the boundaries of a unit shall affect the tenure in office of a Judge or Associate Judge incumbent at the time of such change.

Section 12. Election and Retention

(a) Supreme, Appellate and Circuit Judges shall be nominated at primary elections or by petition. Judges shall be elected at general or judicial elections as the General Assembly shall provide by law. A person eligible for the office of Judge may cause his name to appear on the ballot as a candidate for Judge at the primary and at the general or judicial elections by submitting petitions. The General Assembly shall prescribe by law the requirements for petitions.

(b) The office of a Judge shall be vacant upon his death, resignation, retirement, removal, or upon the conclusion of his term without retention in office. Whenever an additional Appellate or Circuit Judge is authorized by law, the office shall be filled in the manner provided for filling a vacancy in that office.

(c) A vacancy occurring in the office of Supreme, Appellate or Circuit Judge shall be filled as the General Assembly may provide by law. In the absence of a law, vacancies may be filled by appointment by the Supreme Court. A person appointed to fill a vacancy 60 or more days prior to the next primary election to nominate Judges shall serve until the vacancy is filled for a term at the next general or judicial election. A person appointed to fill a vacancy less than 60 days prior to the next primary election to nominate Judges shall serve until the vacancy is filled at the second general or judicial election following such appointment.

(d) Not less than six months before the general election preceding the expiration of his term of office, a Supreme, Appellate or Circuit Judge who has been elected to that office may file in the office of the Secretary of State a declaration of candidacy to succeed himself. The Secretary of State, not less than 63 days before the election, shall certify the Judge's candidacy to the proper election officials. The names of Judges seeking retention shall be submitted to the electors, separately and without party designation, on the sole question whether each Judge shall be retained in office for another term. The retention elections shall be conducted at general elections in the appropriate Judicial District, for Supreme and Appellate Judges, and in the circuit for Circuit Judges. The affirmative vote of three-fifths of the electors voting on the question shall elect the Judge to the office for a term commencing on the first Monday in December following his election.

(e) A law reducing the number of Appellate or Circuit Judges shall be without prejudice to the right of the Judges affected to seek retention in office. A reduction shall become effective when a vacancy occurs in the affected unit.

Section 13. Prohibited Activities

(a) The Supreme Court shall adopt rules of conduct for Judges and Associate Judges.

(b) Judges and Associate Judges shall devote full time to judicial duties. They shall not practice law, hold a position of profit, hold office under the United States or this State or unit of local government or school district or in a political party. Service in the State militia or armed forces of the United States for periods of time permitted by rule of the Supreme Court shall not disqualify a person from serving as a Judge or Associate Judge.

Section 14. Judicial Salaries And Expenses — Fee Officers Eliminated

Judges shall receive salaries provided by law which shall not be diminished to take effect during their terms of office. All salaries and such expenses as may be provided by law shall be paid by the State, except that Appellate, Circuit and Associate Judges shall receive such additional compensation from counties within their district or circuit as may be provided by law. There shall be no fee officers in the judicial system.

Section 15. Retirement — Discipline

(a) The General Assembly may provide by law for the retirement of Judges and Associate Judges at a prescribed age. Any retired Judge or Associate Judge, with his consent, may be assigned by the Supreme Court to judicial service for which he shall receive the applicable compensation in lieu of retirement benefits. A retired Associate Judge may be assigned only as an Associate Judge.

(b) A Judicial Inquiry Board is created. The Supreme Court shall select two Circuit Judges as members and the Governor shall appoint four persons who are not lawyers and three lawyers as members of the Board. No more than two of the lawyers and two of the non-lawyers appointed by the Governor shall be members of the same political party. The terms of Board members shall be four years. A vacancy on the Board shall be filled for a full term in the manner the original appointment was made. No member may serve on the Board more than eight years.

(c) The Board shall be convened permanently, with authority to conduct investigations, receive or initiate complaints concerning a Judge or Associate Judge and file complaints with the Courts Commission. The Board shall not file a complaint unless five members believe that a reasonable basis exists (1) to charge the Judge or Associate Judge with willful misconduct in office, persistent failure to perform his duties, or other conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice or that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or (2) to charge that the Judge or Associate Judge is physically or mentally unable to perform his duties. All proceedings of the Board shall be confidential except the filing of a complaint with the Courts Commission. The Board shall prosecute the complaint.

(d) The Board shall adopt rules governing its procedures. It shall have subpoena power and authority to appoint and direct its staff. Members of the Board who are not Judges shall receive per diem compensation and necessary expenses; members who are Judges shall receive necessary expenses only. The General Assembly by law shall appropriate funds for the operation of the Board.

(e) A Courts Commission is created consisting of one Supreme Court Judge selected by that Court, who shall be its chairman, two Appellate Court Judges selected by that Court, and two Circuit Judges selected by the Supreme Court. The Commission shall be convened permanently to hear complaints filed by the Judicial Inquiry Board. The Commission shall have authority after notice and public hearing, (1) to remove from office, suspend without pay, censure or reprimand a Judge or Associate Judge for willful misconduct in office, persistent failure to perform his duties, or other conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice or that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or (2) to suspend, with or without pay, or retire a Judge or Associate Judge who is physically or mentally unable to perform his duties.

(f) The concurrence of three members of the Commission shall be necessary for a decision. The decision of the Commission shall be final.

(g) The Commission shall adopt rules governing its procedures and shall have power to issue subpoenas. The General Assembly shall provide by law for the expenses of the Commission.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE ILLINOIS COURTS

Historical Development

The predecessor of the present Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts was a statutory entity created by the General Assembly in 1959 and was known as the Court Administrator's Office. The office was chiefly concerned with studying caseloads to determine the needs of individual courts for assistance and to provide a statistical background for further studies. It was superseded on January 1, 1964, by the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts which was established by an amendment to the Judicial Article of the 1870 Constitution.

The 1964 Judicial Article directed that the "Supreme Court shall appoint an administrative director and staff, who shall serve at its pleasure, to assist the Chief Justice in his administrative duties." That provision was retained, virtually intact, by Section 16, Article VI of the 1970 Constitution. Thus, the fledgling administrator's office of 1959 was continued and conferred with constitutional dignity in 1964 and 1970. Two Illinois constitutional commentators, Messrs. Braden and Cohn, in analyzing this section have stated that "only five (states) have a constitutional office similar to the administrative director provided by Illinois . . .", and the authors noted that the constitutional grant of administrative power to the Supreme Court as exercised by the Chief Justice through the Administrative Director is an excellent "mechanism for a coordinated and efficient administration of the judicial system." Braden and Cohn, The Illinois Constitution: An Annotated and Comparative Analysis, on page 333.

During the years that it has been in existence, the Administrative Office has developed and correspondingly it has taken on, and has been assigned by the Supreme Court, greater duties and responsibilities. The growth of the office has been carefully nurtured by a succession of highly qualified and distinguished men: Henry P. Chandler, former administrator of the federal court system; Albert J. Harno, former dean of the University of Illinois College of Law; Hon. John C. Fitzgerald, a retired Circuit Judge and former dean of the School of Law of Loyola University, Chicago; John W. Freels, former general counsel of the Illinois Central Railroad; Roy O. Gulley, former Chief Judge of the Second Judicial Circuit; acting Director William M. Madden; and Samuel D. Conti, former Regional Director for the National Center for State Courts.

Today, the Administrative Office has more than 125 employees who serve the Supreme Court and supervise the activities of all the courts in the State and court-related personnel.
